McKinley's Dinner Pail.
Why the Zulus Fought.
Me and Mussolini.
Fame Comes Later.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.

THE USUAL American dinner, with speeches, remembered William McKinley, on the ninetieth anniversary of his birth, January 30.

President Hoover said:

"His was a regime in which the American people find particular satisfaction."

That's no exaggeration. How evidently ambitions and conditions change among us. McKinley promised "the full dinner pail" and produced it. That pleased everybody, but soon was taken for granted. "THE FULL POCKET BOOK" was next in demand, and war with its pourings out of billions provided it.

NOW WE have changed from the full pocket book to the full BREAD LINE days. What will be the next step? Back to the full dinner pail, probably, then again to the full pocket book, and again to the bread line until "intelligent America" learns how to balance production and distribution.

She seems unable to balance anything now, budget or prohibition, or debt policy.

BRITISH POLICE had great trouble restoring order in a row between two Zulu tribes. Guess why?

The son of one chief slit open a bag of salt with his knife, and scattered the salt on the ground. The other chief considered this a fearful insult, and after the Zulus had stamped around for a while in a war dance, to excite them to the proper pitch, fighting started.

WE ARE amazed at war based on such infantile provocation, but how many "civilized nations," after a certain amount of diplomatic war dancing, have started based on reasons" just as childish?

Kings have used their people to fighting over some woman not worth it, many a time, since Helen of Troy launched her thousand ships and gave Homer material for wonderfully good stories.

Corliss Palmer Tries to Drown Sorrow in Rum

CORLISS PALMER

Jilted by Married Screen Writer, Letter Shows

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Corliss Palmer, blonde screen beauty, under treatment at detention hospital here for acute alcoholism, told authorities today she tried to "drown her sorrows in liquor."

When she was removed to the hospital in a delirious condition from a downtown hotel, where she had registered as Corliss Mason, the former Macon (Ga.) beauty contest winner fought nurses and hospital attendants.

Quieted by sedatives, Miss Palmer, who is estranged from her husband, Eugene Brewster, one-time millionaire magazine publisher, said she is facing a $100,000 alienation of affections suit in Los Angeles, brought by Mrs. Estelle A. Cohen, wife of Albert J. Cohen, scenario writer and tennis star. The screen star said, referring to Cohen:

"I recently got a letter from Al. I have known him for more than two years. A few days ago he put me on a train for San Francisco and told me to call him by phone. I called but he didn't answer. Then I got the letter.'

Miss Palmer declared the letter, which was found among her personal effects at the downtown hotel, virtually jilted her an caused her to drown hersorrow in liquor.

3 Trapped on Roof By Flames Rescued

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Trapped on the porch roof while trying to escape from their burning home in suburban Aronomink, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Miltenberger and their 7-year-old son, Harold, were rescued by firemen today.

The house was badly damaged by the blaze which, fire officials said, apparently started in the cellar.

January Gain In Tax Receipts

An increase of $65,125 in collections of city, school and water taxes during January as compared with January, 1932, was reported by Treasurer Richard W. Thompson today. The collections last month totaled $8,404,254.

While city tax and water collections were $184,647 less than those of January, 1932, the school tax mounted $259,773.

POISON PLOT DEATH CASE NEAR JURY

2 Women Lose Calm, Sob as Attorneys Make Last Plea

The two women against whom the state is attempting to get a first degree murder verdict in the Munhall "poison plot," wept today as closing arguments in the case were made.

Mrs. Mary Chalfa and Mrs. Anna Allas, the defendants, who had shown little or no emotion during the nine days of the trial in which their husbands and children had testified, wept softly as the attorneys reviewed the testimony in their pleas to the jurors.

Five women and seven men comprise the jury. Two of the five women are married. The defense and prosecution completed their testimony shortly before noon.

John Allas, one of the last witnessess, told of going to an undertaker with Mrs. Chalfa. He testified the woman told the undertaker not to call the coroner in connection with the death of his brother, Andrew. He quoted her as saying that if the coroner came, there would be trouble.

TEACHER TESTIFIES

And Miss Irene Talbott, Stephen Allas' teacher in the Munhall school, testified that on the day the boy was supposed to be suffering from football injuries, he was alert and active in school. She said he was a sturdy boy.

Both Andrew and Stephen Allas, it is alleged, were poisoned.

Prior to this testimony, the defense had out on the stand Dr. William Schiller, of the University of Pittsburgh's chemistry department, who testified he had attempted to buy here stannous chloride, but had been unable to do so. State Chemist Clyde H. Campbell, opening cans of milk, tomatoes, sauerkraut and other products, showed the court that some of the tin solder had been dissolved by chemical action.

The defense had alleged the boys were victims of "tin poisoning."

The defense focused its attention on a corps of chemists and physicians to disprove the state's contention that the two women poisoned Mrs. Allas' stepson.

$25,000 Balm Suit By W. Va. Man Fails

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The $15,000 suit of George W. Jourdon, Huntington, W. Va., for alientation of affections, against Gordon Rowe, Cincinnati city smoke inspector, was dismissed today when Jourdon failed to appear.

The West Virginian had charged that Rowe persuaded Mrs Jourdon to divorce Jourdon and marry Rowe.

Gilbert W. Kahn Weds in New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Gilbert W. Kahn, member of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb and Company, and Miss Sara Jane Heliker were married here today. Kahn is a son of Otto H. Kahn, international banker and art patron.

T. R.'s Widow Sails From Philippines

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr., widow of the former President of the United States, sailed today for Seattle on the President Taft after a month's stay in the Philippine Islands, of which her son is Governor General.

Pinchots to Give Mrs. Roosevelt 5½ Cent Meal

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The dinner the Pinchots are to give Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight will cost them $2.72—without the ice cream.

Preparing for "company"—the wife of the President-elect and 50 other guests—the Governor and Mrs. Pinchot hit on the novel idea of buying the food from the York community market, which supplies balanced rations for unemployed families.

Enough food was bought for $2.72 to feed 75 persons, the Governor said today.

He added that if 50 persons are served, the average cost will be 5½ cents per person, and that if 75 were to eat, the average cost would be 3½ cents per person.

It was Mrs. Pinchot who thought of this type of dinner for the next First Lady of the Land. She wanted to show the quality and value of the food supplied the needy through the community market plan.

There have been numerous remarks, complimentary—and otherwise—about the community markets recently in the Legislature.

Today, both the Governor's office and the relief boarad pointed to the menu:

Black bean soup.
Sticks of corn bread.
Cabbage rolls stuffed with salmon and rice.
Bread sticks of whole wheat flour.
Hamburger steak in white cornmeal shells.
Spinach.
Apple and orange salad.
Dessert—the ice cream.

As explained by the Governor, the dessert is not included in the foods procured from the commissary.

The Governor said the menu is one of the regular food lists supplied the needy and he added with a smile:

"It is a pretty cheap dinner for the wife of a President."

REICHSTAG'S DISSOLUTION ORDERED

Hitler Decides to Go Before People in New Election

BULLETIN.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler obtained from President Von Hindenburg today a decree for dissolution of the Reichstag scheduled to meet next Tuesday.

This means a new election, the sixth in 11 months. The new chancellor is confident of victory.

International News Service.

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—The cabinet of Chancellor Adolf Hitler today voted to ask President von Hindenburg to dissolve the Reichstag.

The cabinet will reconvene at 7 p. m. to discuss the matter further, President von Hindenburg had not acted on the proposal up to 4 p. m.

As a result of riots which have already resulted in eight deaths, Air Minister Capt. Hermann Goering ordered the Prussian police chief to take drastic measures to end the "Bolshevist terror."

The police president at Essen prohibited a Communist mass meeting scheduled for tonight.

Communists continued their propaganda in behalf of a general strike throughout the country, but particularly in the Rurh industrial district.

The government strove for internal peace by moving to make Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen unrestricted dictator of Prussia.

Such a step would divest Hitler of a power traditionally held by the Chancellor.

Action of the Cabinet in deciding to ask Von Hindenburg to assign this power to Von Papen added strength to the growing belief that Hitler is destined to be more or less of a figurehead in the new lineup, at the mercy of

U. S. INQUIRY BARED BY ACTION

Congressional Fight Sifted by Federal Investigators

The federal government, the County Commissioners and the Allegheny County Bar Association joined hands today seeking a court order to impound every ballot box in Allegheny County. The order would give the County Commissioners the right to collect the boxes and store them in the basement of the new County Building.

The federal investigators, working under the direction of First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh, are interested only in the boxes from the two Congressional districts.

VOTE PROBED

The vote in the Thirtieth and Thirty-second Congressional districts is under investigation.

Councilman Michael Muldowney apparently won over Mrs. Anna Felix in the Thirty-second district, and Twing Brooks defeated Edmund Erk in the Thirtieth district. Mrs. Felix is contesting Muldowney's election.

The action today, the County administration investigators declared, resulted from what they say was the apparent failure of the district attorney's office to get any results in its probe of irregularities last November 8.

In seeking the court order to centralize the storage of all ballot boxes, the county commissioners brought into use an old law of 1874 which strips from aldermen and justices of the peace, much of the power they have held in previous elections.

At a private conference today with President Judge James R. Macfarlane of Common Pleas Courts, the court was asked to approve the central storage place as selected by the Commissioners and to approve their appointment of a custodian. It was understood that the Commissioners selected Director William T. Rees of the Elections Bureau, as custodian of the boxes.

ROOM PREPARED

For the last three days workmen have been getting a basement room in the new County Building in order for the delivery of ballot boxes. The room is without windows and one of the two doors has been sealed up with masonry. The investigators of the County, bar association and federal government had hoped to obtain the court order without publicity and be well on their way toward getting all the boxes collected before the news leaked out.

Attorney E. Lowry Humes, chairman of the bar association's committee on election frauds; Assistant County Solicitor Ralph H. Frank and United States Attorney James I. Marsh attended the conference with Judge Macfarlane.

Under the old law the ballot boxes would be returned to the central storage place immediately after the count has been completed. At present the boxes are left with the aldermen and justices of the peace.

Chairman C. C. McGovern, of the Board of County Commissioners, declared that a reasonable length of time will be given election boards to complete their count and then if the box is not brought in to headquarters, someone will be sent to get it. He declared this will eliminate the holdout districts and prevent the election be held a second time.

BLUE LAW BILL PASSES HOUSE

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—Legislation to liberalize the blue laws leaped the first hurdle in the House today as Senate sentiment for modification of the ancient statutes and dry enforcement was stimulated as a result of a conference between President Pro Tem James Boyd and Robert K. Cassatt, head of the Pennsylvania Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

The House passed on first reading the Schwartz bill permitting local option outdoor sports on Sunday afternoons. While the House Law and Order Committee was voting yesterday to report the measure for passage, Senator Boyd and Cassatt were in conference.

FAVORED IN HOUSE

First reading approval in the House, always a routine matter, was in marked contrast with the furore at the hearing on the bill yesterday.

In the House there is an overwhelming sentiment for the Schwarz bill, and it probably will be passed next week. The Senate, however, is closely divided, and Boyd is being pressed by the liberalists to swing their way, it be-

Kline Smilingly Denies Thought of Quitting

Resignation Never Planned, Convicted Mayor Asserts

A broad smile on his face, Mayor Kline today asserted:

"It is furthest from my mind to resign, and I never have considered any such action."

This was the Mayor's answer to reports that his resignation probably would invite the end of the malfeasance case against him. The guilty verdict tossed out of court by Judge Thomas D. Finletter last week was reinstated by the Superior Court, presaging further court battles.

The Mayor's statement was a formal announcement of 300 words, in which he denied all guilt in the distribution of city contracts.

Boy Fined for Shot At School Window

The cost of replacing broken windows in South Side public schools last year was $11,000, William A. Thompson, a district supervisor, testified today in Morals Court. Magistrate Thomas D. Jones imposed a fine of $3 on Raymond Bierer, 17, of Wellington street, who was accused of firing a rifle shot through windows in the Brashear School.

Aimee Flies to Ship, Sails For Marseilles

COLON, Panama, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Mrs. Aimee McPherson Hutton, evangelist, accompanied by a trained nurse, sailed last night for Marseilles, France.

They arrived on the steamship Fella at Balboa yesterday and flew across the isthmus. Mrs. Hutton spent the evening in Colon on a shopping tour before sailing.

U. S., Mexico Sign Treaty Over Rivers

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—A treaty providing for equitable distribution of the waters of the Rio Grande and Rio Colorado was signed between the United States and Mexico today.

The treaty constitutes the high point of United States Ambassador Reuben Clark's diplomacy in Mexico. Ambassador Clark signed for the United States and Foreign Minister Jose Manuel Puig Casauranc for Mexico.

DUAL LIABILITY APPEAL WINS

A far-reaching decision closely affecting stockholders and depositors of many millions of dollars in closed state banks and trust companies throughout Pennsylvania was handed down by the State Supreme Court in Philadelphia today. It ruled that stockholders in closed trust companies cannot be subjected to "double liability."

Many attorneys here today were agreed that the decision also relieves stockholders of state banks of the "double liability" clause, under the "class legislation" clause in the State Constitution.

The opinion of the Supreme Court, written by Justice William B. Linn, was the final decision in the test suit brought by Secretary of Banking William D. Gordon against George L. Winneberger, a stockholder in the closed Susquehanna Title and Trust Company, of Philadelphia. Common Pleas Court in Philadelphia had made a similar, earlier decision.

Unpaid Gas Bill Saves Mother, 4 Children

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The story was told to Miss Lizzie Boyd who operates a soup kitchen.

A Richmond woman, destitute and with four children to support, tucked the four into bed the other night, locked the windows and doors and opened the gas jets.

After a last look at the sleeping children she prepared for bed. Soon she lapsed into unconsciousness.

The next morning—she awoke. So did the children.

Investigation showed that the city had turned the gas off the day before for nonpayment of the bill.

In the bread line, awaiting her turn, she told the story to Miss Boyd.

Tale of Tear Gas Attack By Wife Wins Divorce

Testimony that his wife subjected him to a tear gas attack and "the other man" knocked out one of his teeth helped win a divorce today for Vincent T. Doyle, 4744 Kincaid street.

Judge Elder W. Marshall granted Doyle a divorce from Helen Doyle after the husband testified his wife only wanted to drink and smoke. He said he saw her with another man at a beer garden on Forty-first street, and that she denied it when he questioned her.

Doyle said when he returned home one day, he found a truck parked there. He went to the back door, and the man he saw with his wife at the beer garden was there, he said. They were moving out furniture, he said, and when he seized the man, he was struck and lost one of his teeth. The wife, he testified, then fired tear gas from a pencil and fled with the man in the truck. The incident occurred in March, 1932, he said. They were married in May, 1923.

Doyle's libel charged cruelty and indignities.

WILLARD TELLS SENATORS B.&O. HAS CUT WORKERS BY HALF

LOANS TO RAILS FOUGHT BY COUZENS

I. C. C. Member Takes Encouraging View Of Future

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Delving into the affairs of the Baltimore and Ohio, one of the biggest railroad borrowers from the Reconstruction Corporation, a Senate committee learned from Daniel Willard today that the road had cut its list of employes by half during the last three years.

Reduction of force still is going on, the Baltimore and Ohio president said, and he expects the line to earn its interest charges during this year without borrowing from the Reconstruction Corration.

Willard said a good portion of Baltimore and Ohio indebtedness was in bonds maturing in 1995 and, in response to questions, added there was no sinking fund to care for them at maturity.

Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, observed:

"Anyone who contemplates that property will be here in 1995 is taking an insane risk. I wouldn't want my children to invest that way."

LOAN BAN OPPOSED

Willard testified after the viewpoint of the Interstate Commerce Commission had been presented by Commissioner Eastman. He opposed the Couzens measure to forbid the Reconstruction Corporation from making further loans to railroads. He expressed confidence in the future of the railroads.

Senator Blaine (Rep.), of Wisconsin, said the roads were undoubtedly going into receivership and asked why the government should slow up the process by the extension of credit. Eastman replied:

"I think many roads will need financial reorganization. The loans will not prevent it, but will prevent them from coming all at once with so much of a shock."

Testifying that his road was one of the heaviest borrowers from the corporation, Willard said it was meeting a maturing issue of $63,000,000 in bonds March 1, with the aid of the corporation. The Baltimore and Ohio, he said, was paying half in cash and half in another bond issue.

VAST IMPROVEMENTS

Willard said the Baltimore and Ohio had spent between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 for improvement of property since the bonds were issued in 1913. He said the Baltimore and Ohio was financed by bonds maturing in 1995 and in response to questions asserted there was no sinking fund.

Willard testified that last year his company did not earn its interest charges, but expects to do so this year. The earnings last year were $125,000,000 as compared with $272,000,000 in 1929, he added, explaining:

"If our revenue holds up to $125,000,000 this year we expect to cover our fixed charges and we will not need to borrow from the R. F. C. for that."

During the past three years, Willard testified, the Baltimore and Ohio has laid off 40,000 men and still has 32,000 working on full time. About 3,000 white collar workers have been laid off, he said, and 5,700 are still working. Willard said the reduction of force was still going on.

Willard indorsed the bankruptcy bill passed by the House, but said he hoped the Baltimore and Ohio would not have to use its facilities.

NOT OVERBUILT

He denied that the railroads were generally overbuilt and said he was not worried over their future unless the country is going to continue running on a "50 per cent basis."

Collateral furnished by the Baltimore and Ohio for its loans, Willard said, has an appraised value today of $96,000,000 as compared with a book value of $170,000,000 and par value of $181,000,000.

This security was furnished for total loans authorized of $67,125,000, Willard said, of which $39,000,000 actually has been advanced.

Anticipating the maturity of the bonds this year, Willard told the committee, the Baltimore and Ohio had in 1929 $148,000,000 of free securities and without the depression could have met the maturity.

Willard predicted conditions would be better after the new administration comes in, saying he believed that would "inspire renewed confidence," though he said the incoming government had not given enough of an insight into its policies to base much of a prediction.

Despite strenuous efforts to restore order, the fighting continued after three had been killed.

Ex-Kaiser In No Haste To Quit Exile

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service.

DOORN, Holland, Feb. 1. — "There will be no haste."

Almost as though a banner bearing these words had been unfurled from a gable of Doorn House, this became the motto today of the Dutch household established by former Kaiser Wilhelm, of Germany, when he left his fatherland almost 15 years ago.

From official spokesman, attaches, doorkeepers and servants all the way down to hotel proprietors and hack drivers who like to feel that they understand the workings of an imperial mind in exile, there came the same assurance.

Namely, that Wilhelm will not attempt to capitalize upon the rising tide of nationalism in Germany by a precipitate return to his native land.

In the hectic hours that followed the appointment of Adolf Hitler as Chancellor of Germany, Doorn buzzed with rumors of a Monarchist coup d'etat.

There were reports that the ex-Kaiser had already shipped some of his belongings back to Germany in anticipation of a call from the Wilhelmstrasse.

There were rumors that he had bought four high-powered motor cars to facilitate a swift dash across the Dutch countryside.

But these were quickly disposed of.

The new motto of the Hohenzollerns holds:

"There will be no haste."

DALADIER BUSY ON BUDGET JOB

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—When Edouard Daladier goes before Parliament on Friday for his first appearance as Premier, the most important part of his ministerial declaration will deal with reduction of the budget deficit.

He and Georges Bonnet, the finance minister, have been trying to get the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies to approve a plan for covering part of the deficit by a loan, part by suspension of debt amortization and part by economies in administration expenditures.

Supporters of the new government declare that its strength has increased to a point at which the fear of immediate overthrow in Parliament has disappeared.

SLUMP BLAMED ON LINDY HOP

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's flight to Paris was partly responsible for the stock market crash, Walter Link, Arizona engineer, told the Judiciary Committee today in hearings on the Black 30-hour-week bill.

The Lone Eagle's trans-Atlantic flight, Link said, caused immediate interest in aviation and resulted in the organization of a billion-dollar industry "built on a bubble." Other stocks soared along with aviation prices and dreams until the crash, he declared.

Higher tariffs will be necessary to make operative the proposed 30-hour week bill of Senator Black (Dem.), of Alabama, Herman Chopak, New York textile executive, told the committee. Chopak favors the bill, which would limit industries to a five-day week or six hours daily.

Present depreciated currencies of European countries, Chopak cited, allow imported articles to pass customs barriers and distribution at such low prices as would make the price of American articles prohibitive.

LONDON SEES U. S. WAVER ON DEBTS

Roosevelt's Parley Shows Weakening —Chamberlain

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS
International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 1.—President-elect Roosevelt's willingness to receive and discuss war debts with Sir Ronald Lindsay, British ambassador, indicates a weakening in the American policy against debt revision in the view of Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

Chamberlain disclosed this belief in an address at a luncheon tendered him by American newspaper correspondents today. He said:

"Mr. Roosevelt's invitation to Sir Ronald I view as the best thing yet, showing that the President-elect is anxious to hear our views.

VIEWPOINTS SEPARATE

"The British and American viewpoints are still separate but all of us are desirous of a closer approach not only on war debts but on other world problems which must be settled if we want definite progress along the road to economic recovery."

Asked directly if the British government will go to Washington for the debt parley with its hands tied, the Chancellor denied any such handicap existed. But he inferentially did confirm the continued existence of the united European front against the United States on the matter of debts.

Senate Brews Trouble On Debt Negotiations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—The senatorial shoals that lie ahead of any debt reduction agreements negotiated by the Roosevelt administration were plainly charted today.

Opposition to further cancellation of Europe's indebtedness, with its consequent transfer to the American taxpayer, will be nonpartisan and deep-rooted unless the agreements reached so clearly redound to the advantage of American trade as to provide no basis for dispute. And few expect that such agreements can or will be reached.

The Republicans are merely biding their time before attacking the foreign debt maneuvers of the incoming administration.

The Democrats are split concerning the wisdom of the course which the President-elect is pursuing. Indeed, the debt problem may well provide the first major schism of the Roosevelt administration.

ACTION QUESTIONED

Yesterday's debate in the Senate, in which both Democrats and Republicans questioned the wisdom of Mr. Roosevelt's policy, furnished a foretaste of what lies ahead.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis (Dem.), of Illinois, usually "regular" in all respects, served notice on Mr. Roosevelt that any extension of the Hoover moratorium, or further cancellation of the indebtedness, will be vigorously resisted.

At the same time, Senator David A. Reed (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, who will be Republican leader of the new Senate, questioned the advisability of Mr. Roosevelt's personally negotiating settlements with those foreign governments who have requested revision of their agreements.

Reed compared the President-elect's policy with that of Woodrow Wilson in personally conducting the negotiations that led up to the treaty of Versailles. He ventured the opinion that Wilson lost 50 per cent of his bargaining power by going to Paris in person. The inference was plain that he considered Mr. Roosevelt to be following the same illfated footsteps of his Democratic predecessor.

SAINT-GAUDENS' SON WEDS

Augustus Saint-Gaudens, 23-year-old son of Homer Saint-Gaudens, the art director of Carnegie Institute, is married.

This news winged its way up from Coral Gables, Fla., today as a surprise to Pittsburghers. His father, in Pittsburgh, suggested that any news concerning the wedding should come from the son.

Young Saint-Gaudens, who spends most of his time in Florida, was married yesterday to Miss Penelope Roberts, daughter of Mrs. Stewart Culin, of New York and Coral Gables.

Last September Saint-Gaudens, sailing alone from Miami on a 22-foot sloop, was a prisoner for hours on one of the Florida keys when a storm came up. Coast Guard patrol boats and airplanes searched for him.

Democrats to Pick Speaker in March

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—A new Speaker of the House to succeed Vice President-elect John N. Garner will be chosen at a Democratic caucus about March 2, under a tentative decision reached by party leaders today.

Final decision awaits word from all of the newly elected Democratic members of the next Congress, who have been asked to say whether they will be here for the inauguration festivities.

POISON TRIAL NEAR JURY

Stephen, 12, by administering tin salts. However, if the women should be acquitted on this charge, they still face an indictment in the death of Stephen's brother, Andrew, 16.

CORROBORATES DEFENSE

Dr. Huff corroborated the defense story that Stephen died as a result of a head injury suffered in a neighborhood football game a few days before his death.

Although admitting there was no evidence of an external head injury, Dr. Huff testified he found "head trouble," adding:

"On the morning before he died, Steve woke up and said he felt all right. I asked him:

"'Steve, when did you get hurt playing football?'

"Steve said two weeks ago. He added:

"'Another boy and I bumped our heads together and I got knocked out.'"

This statement was attacked by the prosecution on the grounds that testimony had been offered that the boy had not been knocked unconscious in the game.

Dr. F. E. Shuman, who also attended Stephen, testified Mrs. Chalfa, Mrs. Allas and the boy came to his office November 24 and that Mrs. Chalfa told him Stephen had been hurt playing ball. Dr. Shuman found no indication of a head injury, he testified.

EXPERTS ON STAND

Other scientific testimony was given by Dr. Charles G. King, professor of chemistry, University of Pittsburgh, and State Chemist Clyde H. Campbell.

King testified tin salts are present in all normal human bodies. Questioned as to the findings of tin salts, techically known as stannous chloride, in the body of Stephen by County Chemist F. C. Buckmaster, King suggested that Buckmaster had not taken into consideration the natural presence of the tin.

On cross-examination, Campbell admitted he had never found a trace of tin salts in the five human bodies he has examined.

Mr. Allas was recalled to testify a[bout] to canned goods she served Steph[en], following up the defense premi[se] that tin could have been introd[uced] into the boy's body in food e[aten] from cans.

'BUY AMERICAN' PLAN PUSHED IN SENATE

Prohibition Repe[al] Advocates Are [Not] Hopeful

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINS[ON]
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1. With debate limited, the S[enate] made progress today for [the] first time in a week toward [re]economies in federal appropr[ia]tions, adoption of the "[Buy] American" campaign and c[on]sideration of the prohibition [re]peal question.

Administration leaders, s[up]ported by Democrats, hoped [to] pass the pending Treasury-P[ost] office appropriation bill bef[ore] night. The Democrats planned [to] slash $50,000,000 from its pres[ent] $961,000,000 total, as a part [of] their drive to reduce federal [ap]propriations to a point whe[re it] can balance the budget with [the] aid of new revenue from legali[zed] beer.

URGES ACTION

A definite legislative progr[am] including passage of the La F[ol]lette-Costigan relief bill, the p[ro]hibition repeal resolution and [a] measure legalizing beer and wi[ne] was proposed this afternoon [by] Senator La Follette (Rep.), [of] Wisconsin.

He offered a unanimous c[on]sent agreement which would p[ro]vide for Senate sessions from [10] a. m. to 10 p. m. daily after F[eb]ruary 7. Up until 5 p. m. [to]day, he suggested, appropria[tion] bills would be considered [and] other legislation from 5 until [10] p. m. He did not ask for imm[e]diate adoption of the agreem[en]t. He said:

"With only 24 days remaini[ng] to adjournment, never befo[re] has legislation faced such [a] hopeless tangle. The count[ry] faces the gravest crises in [its] history, people are starvi[ng]. Farmers are being dispossesse[d]. Business concerns are on [the] bring of bankruptcy. Witho[ut] regard to partisan consider[a]tion let us agree to transa[ct] business here."

'BUY AMERICAN' RIDER

The "Buy American" campai[gn] sponsored by Senator John[son] (Rep.), of California, appea[rs] certain of adoption. Th[e] doubt was due to the fact ha[lf] two-thirds majority was r[e]quired to attach such a "ridi[r]" to the appropriation bill. The John[son] plan would compel the purc[hase] of American goods, articles or products by every governm[ent] agency unless the cost were prohibitive.

Advocates of prohibition rep[eal] were hopeful that prompt passa[ge] of the appropriation bill wou[ld] give them an opportunity to c[all] up the Blaine resolution, provi[d]ing repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The major Democratic drive [for] economy was directed toward [the] $19,000,000 appropriation for [the] mails. Senator McKellar (Dem.), of Tennessee, moved to strike [out] appropriation in hope restrict[ing] payment of air mail subsidies to but 50 per cent of any existi[ng] contract.

Hoover to Shun Public For 9-Month Rest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—President Hoover plans to drop as completely out of the public picture as possible for a nine-months' period after he goes out of office.

Mr. Hoover has let it be known that he does not intend to give any interviews or even to take any one of the several positions which have been offered him during that time. He wishes a complete rest first, and further, desires to give the incoming President a completely free hand.

In carrying out this program, he feels it would be best for him to remain on the sidelines rather than to voice opinions or take any active part in politics or business which might throw his name before the public.

Bishop Told to 'S[it] By Key in Beer

ATLANT[A], Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Mayor James L. Key, of Atlanta, outspoken opponent of prohibition, last night engaged in a verbal clash with Bishop W. N. [Ains]worth, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, at a legislative committee hearing on a beer bill, during which the Mayor told the bishop to "sit down and shut up."

Bishop Ainsworth, arguing before the Georgia House of Representatives Temperance Committee against a bill seeking [to le]galize 3.2 per cent beer in the state, had said:

NORTH SIDE BUILDING-LOAN HOLDUP FOILED, MAN CAUGHT

BULLETS FLY AS OFFICIALS FIGHT THUG

Gunman Perils Women In Office; Disabled Vet Aids Capture

A lone robber today battled two building and loan officials, firing three shots, and was beaten on the head with a heavy metal seal before he fled with $24 from the office of the East Park Premium Building and Loan Association, 718 East Diamond street, North Side.

A suspect, identified by the victims, was captured by police a half block away after Frank Belveny, 35, of 517 Sandusky street, a disabled World War veteran, had clubbed him with a revolver. The prisoner gave the name of George Cvetovic, 23, and said he was stopping at Webster avenue and Washington street.

TWO WOMEN PERILED

Two women were in the office when the robber entered and battled with Henry H. Steinmeyer, realtor and treasurer of the loan association. All of the robber's shots lodged in the walls of the office.

Steinmeyer and Joseph Poeppert, of 4006 Franklin road, assistant secretary, were talking behind the counter when the robber, flourishing a gun, entered, leaped over the counter and grabbed $25 from the cash drawer.

One of the bills fluttered to the floor and the robbed stooped to pick it up. As he did so Steinmeyer picked up a revolver from a desk. Covering Steinmeyer, the robber ordered all to the rear of the room and started back himself for the safe.

He reached the safe when Steinmeyer grappled with him. They wrestled. Steinmeyer said he got a "death grip" on the gun hand of the robber and twisted the arm away from other occupants. As he did so three shots were fired.

THUG DROPS GUN

Steinmeyer's grip on the robber's wrist relaxed the gunman's hold on the revolver and it fell to the floor.

Poeppert joined the fight. He wielded a heavy metal seal and struck the robber twice on the head.

The robber staggered, reached to the floor and picked up his gun and continued fighting. As the trio reached a small gate separating the office from the reception room, the robber lurched out and rushed through the gate, tearing it from its hinges.

Steinmeyer, 60, gun in hand, followed. As he reached the street Belveny was passing. Suspecting a holdup, Belveny shouted to Steinmeyer.

"Give me the gun, I'll chase him."

Steinmeyer passed over the gun and Belveny took up the chase. The robber, with this own gun in his pocket, turned and saw Belveny.

CAPTURED BY OFFICER

He kept backing away as Motorcycle Patrolman Roy Schaefer passed along East Ohio street. The officer quickly sensed the trouble and overpowered the pursued man and took him to Allegheny Police Station, a block away.

During the battle in the office the two women clerks crouched in fear. They are Otillia Braun, sister-in-law of Steinmeyer, and Miss Margaret Wehrle, 21, of Hanson street, Millvale.

Steinmeyer, after the arrest, said the robber evidently knew of the collections made last night at the bi-monthly meeting of the Building and Loan Association. He said the money was in the safe and within 10 minutes would have been taken to the bank.

Steinmeyer said:

"When I tangled with him and got a death grip on his wrist, I knew he could not injure any one in the office. I was afraid to fire my own revolver for fear of hitting the others."

AGENTS TRAIL TERRORISTS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Scattered thefts of "amazing" quantities of dynamite sent federal agents today on a widespread search for terrorists suspected of plotting the death of prominent Italians. The dynamite was stolen from construction camps, quarries and mining companies in Pennsylvania and neighboring states.

Chief Postal Inspector John W. Johnston disclosed the inquiry is in progress in six states following the bombing which killed Mrs. John M. Di Silvestro, wife of the national head of the order of the Sons of Italy, injured 16 other persons, and demolished the Di Silvestro home last week.

Johnston said an effort also is being made to determine if the Di Silvestro blast had any connection with the Easton (Pa.) postoffice bombing in December, 1931, which caused three deaths and spread terror in half a dozen cities. Prominent Italians in New York, Chicago, Washington and Baltimore were the intended victims at that time of a plot to do wholesale murder by mail.

QUESTION REDS IN DETROIT STRIKE

Body Makers for Ford Insist Walkout Is Broken

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—An investigation to determine what, if any, Communistic agitation was connected with the strike of 6,000 Briggs Manufacturing Company employes which tied up production for more than a week and forced a shutdown of the Ford Motor Company, was begun today by federal, county and city officials.

With the Briggs Company reporting production "at full strength" at its Highland Park plant where bodies for Ford cars are made, and picket lines diminishing in strength at all plants, members of the strike committee were questioned as to the origin of the strike. Robert M. Pilkington, of Washington, Commissioner of Conciliation of the Department of Labor, Prosecutor Harry S. Toy, of Wayne County, and police officials conducted the investigation.

FORD MARKS TIME

Meanwhile Ford officials said they were awaiting definite information from the Briggs Company on their production schedule before making any announcement regarding the reopening of their factories throughout the country. M. L. Briggs, assistant general manager of the Highland Park plant, said:

"We'll be shipping bodies to the Ford assembly plants today and hauling them by truck to the Rouge plant tomorrow."

Philip Raymond, one-time Communist candidate for Mayor of Detroit, and hired by the strikers to direct their campaign, was under arrest. The strikers insisted Raymond was hired as an individual, and declared the walkout was "a 100 per cent Briggs employes' strike." Prosecutor Toy, however, ordered Raymond before him for questioning, while Pilkington held lengthy conferences with George Cornell and Fred Gray, members of the strike committee.

MINOR DISORDERS

More than a score of persons have been arrested during the strike, five arrests coming last night following a flurry of minor disorderers at the company's plants. Charges against them range from disorderly conduct to inciting to riot.

Briggs officials today declared the strike was "completely broken," but members of the strike committee insisted that skilled workers still have refused to return to the plants.

Briggs 'Czar,' Says Norman Thomas

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Stalking down the picket lines in the rain, Norman Thomas, leader of American Socialists, today inspected the strike which has closed three auto body plants and forced shutdown of the Ford Motor Company.

After interviewing pickets and strike leaders, Thomas sharply criticized Walter O. Briggs, president of the Briggs Manufacturing Company, whose two factories are beseiged by strikers. Briggs has refused to meet with a strike committee, and declared he will not treat with organized workers. Thomas said:

"We are living in a crazy civilization. The attitude of Briggs is little short of czarism."

Discussing the depression in general, Thomas declared the nation is now in a period of wholesale deflation, adding:

"Periodic wage cuts, foreclosures, are wiping out the small investor. This will go on a while longer—as long as public opinion permits."

JAPS BOARD U. S. SHIP AGROUND NEAR TOKIO

Declare Aim to Balk Photographing of Fortified Area

International News Service.

TOKIO, Feb. 1.—Japanese guards boarded the American steamer Taishan in Tokio Bay today for the announced purpose of preventing her passengers and crew "from photographing or sketching" the fortified zone in which the vessel went aground.

Two destroyers from the Yokosuka naval base stood by the Taishan, owned by the Barber Line.

The destroyers were sent to the scene some time after the ship grounded. Yokohama police said they were unable to understand why the Taishan, bound for San Francisco, took eight hours to pass Tomitsu Point, near the Yokosuka naval base, after leaving Yokohama.

The usual steaming time from Yokohama to Tomitsu is only one hour, officials said.

Meanwhile, efforts were continued to refloat the vessel.

Plot to Kill 17 Jap Leaders Bared in Tokio

TOKIO, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Full details of a sensational plot to assassinate 17 of Japan's leading government officials and industrialists were revealed in the Japanese press today.

The plot was alleged to involve 14 young men, members of the League of Blood Brotherhood, headed by a priest named Nishyo Inouye, who were held responsible for the murders of Premier Inukai, Finance Minister Junnosuke Inouye and Baron Takuma Dan last year.

The conspiracy was organized in 1932 for the specific purpose of ridding the empire of the statesmen and industrial advisers closest to the throne of Emperor Hirohito.

Weapons to carry out the assassinations were secured through Lieut. Koga, of the Japanese navy, the newspapers charged. The conspirators believed they would be immune from arrest because of their association with navy men.

At the time of Inukai's assassination, on May 15, 1932, Minister of the Navy Osumi resigned immediately. He was reappointed to office last month and has been embarrassed by interpellations in the Diet recently concerning what action he planned to take.

Revelation of the complete plot was held to be the answer to these interpellations. Appearance of full details in all the newspapers made it apparent that the government itself had elected to divulge the plot in all its details.

League Group Blames Japan in Chinese War

GENEVA, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The League of Nations nine-power committee, drafting a report on the Sino-Japanese dispute, completed today the part dealing with the facts, which will be circulated immediately in the league committee of nineteen.

This part was based on the report of the Lord Lytton commission and the reports of consular officials in the Far East to their governments. Recommendations for league action have not yet been considered.

A plenary meeting of the committee of nineteen was contemplated for Friday or Saturday, when the draft, so far completed, will be discussed. The question of drafting recommendations then will be considered.

The statement of facts includes assertions that Manchuria is an integral part of China; that Japan's actions since the Mukden attack (the beginning of Japanese operations in Manchuria, September 18, 1931) were not legitimate self-defense; that there was no spontaneous movement for independence in Manchuria; that a large area of what was undisputably Chinese territory has been forcibly seized and separated from China, and that China was not responsible for the events after September 18, 1931.

DOOMED WOMAN IN DEATH FAST

SUNBURY, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—In the pardon board lies Mrs. Mary Stankiewicz's only hope for life.

This statement came last night from W. H. Unger, attorney for the 49-year-old woman. She is under the death sentence after pleading guilty to a charge of fatally beating her 70-year-old husband, Jacob, with a hammer.

Meanwhile, Margaret Scicchitano, clerk in the sheriff's office, revealed that Mrs. Stankiewicz, refusing to eat regularly, told her:

"I might as well not eat because I am going to die anyway."

The clerk said Mrs. Stankiewicz told her Clem Kieselefski, her husband's 50-year-old stepson, threatened a curse against her unless she helped kill "Jake."

Kieselefski, who pleaded guilty to a second-degree murder charge, is serving a 10-to-20 year term in the Eastern Penitentiary as an accomplice.

Mrs. Snipes, Infant Removed to Prison

COLUMBIA, S. C., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipes, whose sentence to death while an expectant mother, was commuted to life imprisonment after it evoked a nation-wide storm of protest, today had been removed to the State Penitentiary from a hospital where she gave birth to a daughter two weeks ago. The child will remain with its mother in the penitentiary for six months, then be placed for adoption.

Mrs. Snipes shot a rural policeman to death.

Groundhog Set For Shadow Chasing

Today is the day before the day on which people say they don't believe that stuff about the groundhog.

In other and less confusing words, tomorrow is groundhog day.

For the benefit of those who came in late, it should be explained that on groundhog day the groundhog, as he is commonly called, comes out of wherever he is and looks around. If the groundhog sees his shadow, that means we'll have six weeks more of winter. If the day is cloudy and he does not see his shadow, that means you'll have unexpected company for dinner.

This technocracy business sure is hard to figure.

INTEREST CUT ON BALANCES

The majority of downtown banks have decreased the interest rate paid on balances in checking accounts from two per cent to one and one-half per cent, and have increased the minimum balance on which interest will be paid from $500 to $1,000.

At the office of the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association it was said that the banks had taken no formal action through the association, but were adjusting interest rates on checking accounts to meet their individual situations.

The change in the interest was declared to be due to the low rates paid in the money market at present.

Short Change Racket Suspects Arrested

WARREN, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Three Negroes who give their names as Walter Dunn, Joe Williams and Kato Thomas, of Detroit, reported by police to be wanted in Meadville and other cities in Pennsylvania and New York for a "short change racket," were arrested in a hotel today.

The men are held for Meadville officers. Police allege they defrauded an owner of a gasoline station there.

Suicide's Wife, Shot, Blames Jealousy

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A bullet he sent crashing through his temple after shooting his 21-year-old wife in the back of the neck as she lay sleeping, today proved fatal to Stephen Kane, 59.

The widow, Mrs. Ruby Murphy Kane, was dangerously wounded. She told police the shooting was caused by Kane's jealousy of her.

Mary Carr 'Over the Hill' But Plans Comeback

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1.—Paralling in real life the tragedy she portrayed in the feature film, "Over the Hill," Mary Carr, famed screen mother, today prepared to move from her modest Hollywood home because she was three months behind in her rent. Mrs. Carr said:

"But I'll get some kind of a break in the films soon, the cycle of bad luck can't last forever."

Bright eyes sparkling under snow white hair, the little old lady of the films, as vivacious as when she started her stage career years ago in her home town of Philadelphia, was hopefully optimistic. She said:

"I played in the first 100 per cent all talking picture. That's now in the Smithsonian Institution, but I'm a long ways from being in that place myself!"

Mrs. Carr believes she is a victim of the film type she made famous—the mother role. She explained:

"It looks as if I'm a temporary victim of the 'Mary Carr type.'

"Maybe if I went to Russia and came back as Mary Carrski the directors wouldn't always put me in mother roles. How do they know I'm merely a poor old soul who can't raise money to pay the mortgage and has to scrub floors and make you cry and get sympathy? Maybe I'd like to lift my voice and shout at somebody once in a while."

Explaining that her husband, three sons and three daughters "all were in the picture business," she said:

"All our eggs are in one basket, that's the present difficulty."

Architects Continue Aid to Technocracy

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—While disavowing support of the Technocracy movement, the Architects' Emergency Committee had decided today to continue to keep Howard Scott, chief Technocrat, supplied with men to carry out the energy survey he has undertaken.

Following a meeting of the executive committee of the architects group it was announced the committee would pay the wages of 12 draftsmen, otherwise unemployed, who are doing research work and chart drawing under Scott's direction.

Charge Movie Baron Faked Shooting

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A complaint was issued yesterday from the City Attorney's office charging William F. von Brincken, film writer and former German baron, with making a false report to police.

The writer reported that his automobile was fired on in Hollywood the night of January 23. Police found a bullet embedded in his car but a police ballistics expert reported that the slug had been fired from Von Brincken's pistol.

Exiled Chow's Return Put Up to Judge

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Ming Toy, the chow dog which last year was sentenced to death and later cited for heroism, may return to Baltimore, her home city.

An appeal for a pardon of banishment from Baltimore following commutation of the death sentence was placed before Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, so she can appear in a dog show of the Maryland Kennel Club in Baltimore.

The Governor declined to act, referring the case to David C. Winebrenner III, Secretary of State, who conferred with Judge George A. Solter of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore. Setting a hearing for today the Judge said:

"I think I will sign an order allowing it to be shown at the show."

Ming Toy was sentenced to die early last summer for biting two children when her litter of puppies was only a few hours old. An appeal to a higher court resulted in commutation of the sentence and exile from Maryland.

The banishment later was modified and Ming Toy was permitted to return to a Baltimore County kennel where she, one night, broke her leash and awakened the owner when fire broke out in one of the buildings. For saving the lives of several other dogs, she was taken to New York to receive a medal for heroism.

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—Hearing on the Mansfield bill to eliminate fees of the Delinquent T Collector of Allegheny County, and the Coyne bill to slice the fees from 10 per cent to 5 are scheduled for February 14 at 2 p. m.

The hearings will be held in the Senate caucus room in the Capitol.

The two Allegheny County Senators may then be shrouded by the spirit of St. Valentine, which will be a change from yesterday, when they engaged in a wordy war during consideration by the committee on new counties and county seats of the Coyne bill to create the full time position of fire marshal, attached to the District Attorney's office.

Mansfield charged that the bill, fixing the salary at $5,000, was merely another effort to set up a new political job.

Coyne asserted resentfully that the County Commissioners, of whom Mansfield is one, had set up a staff of investigators costing $68,000 a year, with Leo A. Riordan as chief investigator. He also asserted that the Commissioners had created a chief of the Elections Bureau, at $8,000, double the former salary.

LT OVER PHANTOMS

In the discussion Mansfield asted the investigators had given lue for their salaries in striking ,000 names off the vote registry books.

Coyne replied:

"Fourteen thousand of those were qualified voters, and many were put back. Your county board has been guilty of creating plenty of political positions."

Mansfield rejoined that the Commissioners had saved more than a million dollars in 1932. Coyne countered with the fact that City Council this year is saving $4,000,000. Sharper language passed between the two Senators, until other members of the committee intervened.

A motor vehicle operator's responsibility bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Clarence J. Buckman, Bucks, administration floor leader. The bill requires that operators must show on demand proof of financial responsibility—a valid insurance policy or ability to pay $5,000 for death of one person, $10,000 for death of two or more and $1,000 for prop- ty damage in automobile acci- nts. Its backers declare the bill ot to be a compulsory insur- e measure.

Bills passed on first reading in e Senate included:

Reed, Dauphin, removing the Department of International Affairs from the Governor's control.

FOR BRIDGE TOLLS

Mansfield, Allegheny, permitting Allegheny County to levy tolls on bridges purchased by the county.

Mansfield, Allegheny, requiring elected county officers to assume their new duties at noon on the first Monday in January following election.

Reed, Dauphin, providing that the Auditor General and State Treasurer shall not be required to accept the legal advice of the Attorney General.

AN ON CANDIDATES

Woodward, Philadelphia, prohibiting a candidate from running for office on more than one party ticket.

Bills introduced in the Senate included:

Chapman, Warren, providing that tubercular patients in state-aided hospitals may, at discretion of the Departme of Health, be transferred to state sanitoria.

Aaron, Philadelphia, prohibiting employment of married women as principals or teachers in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh schools, and requiring that persons elected to these posts be residents of the state.

Aaron, Philadelphia, denying the right of insurance companies to contest life insurance policies for misstatements with respect to medical history.

Salus, Philadelphia, requiring Public Service Commission to regulate private motor vehicles operated for hire.

CITY MANAGER BILL INDORSED

The City Manager bill, introduced in the Legislature by Senator Frank J. Harris has the support of the Civic Club of Pittsburgh, Franklin S. Irish, chairman of the Municipal Charter League, announced today. The measure is backed by the Charter League.

The statement said the Civic Club has announced its directors are unanimous in support of the legislation, because of their belief that it will result in an efficient form of organization such as is universally accepted in private business. The Civic Club officers include Dr. Marion McKay, president; Mrs. William Thaw, Jr., treasurer, and Miss H. Marie Dermitt, secretary.

Irish's statement added that many civic and commercial organizations are adding their indorsement to the plan.

Pen Proposed For Fraud in Stock Sales

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Mandatory prison terms are provided for officials and directors of companies who sponsor false financial statements under a bill introduced today by Representative Frank W. Ruth, Berks. The bill provides sentences of from two to five years and fines of $200 to $500 for conviction of such charges.

Legislation to elect one County Commissioner every two years and insure minority party representation on county auditor boards is sponsored by Representative Frank W. Ruth (Dem.), of Berks.

The Ruth bill provides that all Commissioners elected in 1935 would serve until the first Monday in January, 1938. At the 1937 election, three Commissioners would be chosen, for two, four and six-year terms. Thereafter, all Commissioners would be elected for six-year terms.

In electing Auditors, votes would be cast for two candidates and the three receiving the highest vote would take office.

Vacancies of both Commissioners and Auditors would be filled by the Court of Common Pleas.

BLUE LAW BILL PASSES HOUSE

ing assumed that a dozen or more Senators will follow his lead.

Senator Joseph C. Trainer, of Philadelphia, chairman of the Senate Law and Order Committee, today said his committee would take no action on a dry law repealer prior to action by Congress. The committee has no blue law bills under consideration, and so abandoned the hearing Trainer had scheduled for today.

BOTH SIDES HEARD

The House hearing yesterday on the Schwartz bill brought contending elements into open debate, with Councilman W. W. Roper, of Philadelphia, leading for the blue law modifiers and Dr. W. B. Forney, of the Lord's Day Alliance managing the presentation of those who favor the present closed Sunday.

Soon after the hearing ended the committee reported the Schwartz bill favorably, only five of the 31 members voting to keep the bill in committee. An amendment eliminated wrestling and boxing from the bill.

The Legislature wound up its fifth week today with brief sessions. Both branches will reconvene next Monday at 9 p. m.

'LOST' PRISONER BILL URGED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—Represenative Joseph A. Rectenwald, Allegheny County, has introduced a bill stiffening penalties against policemen, magistrates or constables who jail prisoners and do not permit them an opportunity to communicate with friends or obtain bail.

Rectenwald professed to know of cases where prisoners had been "lost" for days, and could not communicate with friends unless possessed of a "drag."

The Twelfth District legislator is also sponsoring a bill reducing the interest rate charged by small loan companies to ½ of 1 per cent a month. This measure, which is obtaining strong backing, is in the Committee on Banks and Banking.

Rectenwald plans to ask for a favorable report shortly, failing which he will attempt to force it to the floor.

SENATE NAMES UTILITY BILLS COMMITTEE

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—A sub-committee of seven Senators was named today by the Senate Judiciary General Committee to make a special study of all utility legislation which has been introduced.

Senator John J. McClure, Delaware, was named chairman of the sub-committee.

Other members are Senators Clarence J. Buckman, Bucks; William D. Mansfield, Allegheny; Harry B. Scott, Center; John W. Howell, Lackawanna; Herman E. Baumer, Cambria, a Democrat, and Andrew J. Sordoni, Luzerne.

The sub-committee will have charge of 10 utility bills introduced by Senator Samuel W. Salus, Philadelphia, in behalf of the former Rial committee, which investigated the Public Service Commission last fall, and a number of bills sponsored by individual Senators.

The seven Senators selected for the special study of the utility bills were designated by Senator Charles H. Ealy, Somerset, chairman of the judiciary general committee, who is a member of the revamped Senate committee, to continue the investigation of the Public Service Commission during the current legislative session.

Ealy, who has been rumored as a likely choice for chairman of the probe, did not include himself as a member of the sub-committee.

The designation of the sub-committee, it was explained, was decided upon as a means of speeding action on utility legislation.

Thus far the Senate committees had marked time on all questions affecting the P. S. C. and utilities, awaiting a special message on that subject which Gov. Pinchot had promised to present to the session.

The fifth week of the session ended today without the message having been presented, and the Senate committee decided work on the bills could not be deferred longer.

'Buy American' Bill in Assembly

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Representative Fred C. Peters, Montgomery, today introduced a bill prohibiting the use of articles, materials and supplies mined, manufactured or produced outside the United States in public buildings and public works in the state.

The bill does not apply to articles, materials or supplies used for experimental or scientific purposes.

DO HEADACHES DRIVE YOU CRAZY?

It's the worst kind of folly to dope and drug yourself every time you have one of those blinding, throbbing headaches. For drugs only relieve the pain for the moment, and in a little while the headache returns worse than ever and you have to drug yourself all over again. You've got to get at the cause.

Poisons created in your own body cause these severe headaches, and you must remove the poisons to get relief of a lasting nature.

By starting the new harmless Cream of Nujol treatment, today, you may free yourself from this constant torment.

This new form of Nujol is specially designed to rid you of poisons which very often cause this condition.

Cream of Nujol contains no drugs, and does not in any way interfere with work or play. It is delicious to take. Moreover, you can use this modern treatment at a cost of but a few cents a day.

Take Cream of Nujol night and morning. Begin this very night and give it a real trial. Buy it at any drug counter.

Socialists Give Babies Numbers At Baptism

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Two children recently born to Socialists here were baptized today, one under the name of "66" and the other "123."

The numbers are those of decrees of expropriation passed when former Gov. Adalberto Tejeda and Mayor Epigmenio Guzman were godfathers at the christenings.

The daughter of Domingo Valdivia Y Cruz Quintanal, was baptized "66," and the son of Evaristo Castellanos was named "123."

PINCHOT SCANS RAID EXILE ROW

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today told a delegation of Negroes that he will continue his investigation of the deportation of 37 Negro prisoners from the Beaver Jail on January 21.

On January 20 state police, assisted Beaver County Detective Branyon, in raiding a house at Montgomery Dam, arrested 56 Negroes. Of this number 37 were sent to jail in default of bail.

The following day the prisoners were loaded on a truck and taken to a point on State Highway Route 18, near Waynesburg, Greene County, where they were ordered to leave the truck and not come back to Beaver County.

The protesting delegation was headed by Homer S. Brown, of Pittsburgh, president of the Pittsburgh branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Robert L. Vann, of Pittsburgh, editor of the Pittsburgh Courier.

3 Women Die as Car Plunges Into Lake

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Feb. 1—(AP.)—Three women, thought to be the mother, wife and daughter of Martin Otis, caretaker of an exclusive camp on Upper Saranac Lake, are believed to have been drowned when their sedan plunged through a hole in the ice of the lake today.

HIGHWAY BILLS ADVANCED

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The House today passed on first reading the McClure Senate bill shifting from counties to the state the cost of land damages in highway relocation.

The Senate passed on first reading the Homsher bill authorizing the State Highway Department to borrow money from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance construction of toll bridges o state highways, the bridges to be free after the cost has been liquidated.

STATE CASH SHY FIVE MILLIONS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Pa Penn, with $4,870,295 in his pockets, is trying to figure out how he is going to pay next month's bills, which total $9,404,000.

Out of the smallest general fund balance reported by the state treasury in recent years, he must pay $5,404,000 to fourth-class school districts, $2,000,000 to his employes in wages, and $2,000,000 for jobless relief under the Talbot act.

The total treasury balance last night was $50,319,221.

VOTE REFORM RALLY TODAY

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—Encouraged by apparent inability of the Republican state organization to muster sufficient votes in the Legislature to repeal the direct primary act, the Pennsylvania Elections Association was to meet here this afternoon to perfect a program of election reform for consideration by the Assembly.

Attorney Alexander P. Lindsay, of Pittsburgh, was to preside. Senator Frank J. Harris, of Pittsburgh, is expected to sponsor the principal bills of the committee, and some may be introduced next week.

Meanwhile the Senate put through second reading a bill by Senator Woodward, of Philadelphia, preventing anyone becoming a candidate for nomination to public office in more than one primary. This would prevent party raiding and dual nominations, and will enlist support of Democrats. The bill was reported favorably yesterday by the Committee on Elections, which kept buried the primary repealer, recommitted yesterday morning for amendments.

Senator John Howell, of Lackawanna, chairman of the committee, said his group might meet next Monday night to consider the repealer, but there is doubt whether the bill will be brought to the floor for 10 days, if then. William S. Vare is insistent the bill be changed to give Philadelphia a dominant voice in conventions, virtually throwing control of nominations to Philadelphia and Allegheny.

'Y' DIRECTORS ELECTED

A revised constitution was approved and directors were elected last night at the annual members' dinner meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in the downtown branch, attended by more than 300 representatives of the 13 branches in Pittsburgh.

Wilbur C. Batchelor, George R. Gibbons and Dr. L. E. Van Kirk were elected directors for one year; D. M. Craig and John B. Eichenauer for two years, and the following for three years: W. S. Finlay, Jr., Ralph W. Harbison, John C. Hill, Holgar J. Johnson, W. S. Horner, Ralph Leavenworth, Charles H. Lehmann, Charles Lockhart and T. A. Robinson.

Announcement was made that Harbison had been re-elected president of the association at a recent meeting of the directors. William P. Witherow, vice president, and Charles A. Locke, recording secretary, also were announced as re-elections. Walter S. Finlay, Jr., president of the West Penn Electric Company, was announced as the new treasurer of the directors.

A great future for the "Y" organization was predicted by Leavenworth, who is general advertising manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. The association's service to men and boys was outlined in a talk by Lehmann. President Harbison presided. The Rev. P. W. Snyder gave the invocation and the Rev. George A. Long said benediction.

Three Boys Accused Of Robbery Series

Three boys held by McKeesport police today were accused of four robberies there which netted them $200 worth of jewelry and wearing apparel. They are Eugene Bankey, 17, of 707 Jenny Lind street; Patrick McGhen, 19, of 1348 Clay street, and his brother, John, 16.

REFUSED SHOES, 2 ROB STORE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Feb. 1.—Because they said an Ohio Pyle storekeeper refused to give them soles for their tattered shoes, they robbed the store in "Wild West" fashion, John Williams 22, and Robert Nelson, 18, admitted in court. They pleaded guilty to robbing the store of Charles Holt, and carrying boots, shoes and other wearing apparel back to the farm where they were employed, on a horse they had borrowed.

Williams was sentenced to a year in jail and Nelson was paroled.

P. R. R. SHUTTLE DROPS STEAM

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The Pennsylvania Railroad's steam service of the Philadelphia-New York shuttle was supplanted today by electricity.

FINDS FUGITIVE IN STREET

There doesn't seem much sense in escaping from Constable Jacob Mintz, of Alderman Sol Goldstein's office.

Mike Keblish, 21, tried it Monday. He hurried off as he and the constable reached the entrance to the County Jail, according to Mintz.

But Constable Mintz announced today he had again apprehended Keblish, whom he said he had found walking along Carson street, and lodged him in the jail. Keblish is charged with inciting a riot on the South Side.

KNIFE MURDER LAID TO WOMAN

FRANKLIN, Pa., Feb. 1.—A jealous woman plunged the knife into the heart of Clarence Cherry, 27, of Rouseville, County Detective Chester M. Beatty declared today. He said enough evidence had been obtained to warrant a murder charge.

Cherry was killed at an isolated farm house last Monday. The autopsy revealed he was dealt a terrific blow. Seven suspects are being held in connection with the case.

Your Income Tax

Economical for Higher Income to Take Most Exemption

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

This is the ninth of a series of articles analyzing the Revenue Act of 1932 and discussing the problems of income taxpayers.

Where the taxable income of one individual of a married couple exceeds $4,000 after making deductions, it usually is advisable for the person with the larger income to take a major share of exemption and for the two to file separate returns.

This will keep the larger income out of the higher tax brackets or if it does extend into these brackets the income taxable at high levels will be reduced.

Let us assume the case of a husband whose taxable income was $6,000 while his wife's income was $2,500. Here it is obviously advantageous for the husband to take the entire personal exemption of $2,500.

Under this method of reporting income the husband's tax would be computed as follows:

Net income, husband	$6,000
Personal exemption	2,500
Taxable at 4 per cent	$3,500
Husband's tax	140
Net income, wife	$2,500
Personal exemption	None
Taxable at 4 per cent	2,500
Wife's tax	100
Total tax of husband and wife	240

A joint return would have resulted in a much higher tax, as follows:

Net income	$8,500
Personal exemption	2,500
Taxable income	$6,000
4 per cent on first $4,000	160
8 per cent on remaining $2,000	160
Surtax on $8,500	25
Total tax	$ 345

ORDER LIBERAL FARM POLICY BY BANKS

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Receivers of closed national banks have been instructed by the office of the Comptroller of the Currency to pursue a liberal policy with relation to farm mortgage foreclosures.

Officials said that in few instances where farmers remain on their property and co-operate to maintain it in good condition will receivers foreclose.

Meanwhile Paul Bestor, head of the Federal Farm Loan Bureau, informed the House Banking Committee today that 45 per cent of the farm loans of the Federal Farm Land banks are delinquent.

He testified on the Steagall bill to extend the time in which farmers owing land banks may meet their mortgage obligations.

Representative Strong (Rep.), of Kansas, attacked the bill, declaring that it would relieve but 6 per cent of the mortgaged farmers and urged general legislation.

SEIZURES FORESTALLED

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Possibility that thousands of farmers, the country over, might lose their homes and only means of livelihood was virtually removed today by countrywide extension of a moratorium on foreclosures against owner-occupied farms by leading insurance companies.

Initiated when foreclosure action against owner-occupied farms in Iowa were dropped by life insurance firms at the request of Gov. Clyde Herring, the move was rapidly taken up by insurance companies holding some $1,700,000,000 worth of farm mortgages.

R. F. C. LOAN FOR IOWA

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The Reconstruction Corporation today approved a relief loan of $122,500 for use in Polk County, Iowa.

Gov. Herring, in his application for the money, which is to be used between January 16 and February 28 in the county in which Des Moines is located, said there had been expended for relief in the county $415,655 of public, $228,344 of private and $20,285 of funds of national organizations, aside from that supplied by the Reconstruction Corporation.

ESTELLE READY TO SEE JACK

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Estelle Taylor, former wife of Jack Dempsey, is willing to meet the former heavyweight boxing champion of the world when he comes to Minneapolis tomorrow, "if he wants to," but take it from Estelle, there will be no reconciliation.

Estelle, who is appearing at a Minneapolis theater, in no uncertain terms made it clear that as far as she is concerned, their affair is "all over."

MURDER CLUE GIVEN BY WIFE

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Fears of impending dangers, held by Luther D. Marr, have furnished investigating officers with a theory regarding a possible motive for his slaying Monday night near Pleasanton, Kan.

From Mrs. Marr, police learned the 67-year-old Kansas City real estate dealer had expressed concern about his safety on a trip to Mound City, Kan., Monday to attend a mortgage foreclosure sale. The widow told police Marr had recalled recent disturbances at such sales in the Mid-West, and quoted him as saying:

"They are a rough bunch and may waylay me."

He did not specify whom he meant by "they."

Kansas City police and Kansas officers also were interested in the discovery near Columbus, Kan., not far from the scene of Marr's slaying, of an abandoned motor car, identified as one used by a gang of bank robbers.

ROME, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Celebrating the tenth anniversary of the founding of the Fascist militia, 6,000 blackshirts passed in review today before Premier Mussolini.

GIRL STUDENTS ON STRIKE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—More than 100 young students at Sargent school of Boston University are on a "hunger strike."

They refused to eat dinner at the dormitory last night, trooping to the restaurants in Harvard square for a more informal meal.

Dissatisfaction with the food was said to have caused the strike, which Lucy Franklin, dean of women at Boston University, attributed to "the psychology of the dormitory."

ULSTER STRIKE WRECK KILLS 2

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Two men were killed today in the derailment of a Dublin-to-Belfast mail train at Dromiskin where some rails had been ripped up, presumably by strikers.

A clerk from the Dublin office was killed and James MacWilliams, a Dublin railwayman, died later of his injuries.

Railway workers walked out yesterday in protest against a pay-cut, but the operators have maintained curtailed service.

There were strike disorders on the Midland line near here later in the day, and several trains were pelted with stones.

'BUY AMERICAN' FAVORED IN PORTO RICO

By JOSE L. PESQUERA
Porto Rican Commissioner to the United States

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Before people in other sections of the country were talking "Buy American" and before the slogan became effective, Porto Rico was practicing it. It is now an established custom with us.

Strangely enough, there are some merchants in New York so misinformed that they have cancelled orders for Porto Rican goods. They do not realize that Porto Rico is as American as any section of the country.

AMERICAN INVESTMENTS

Every single thing grown or made in Porto Rico is the result of American investments, American labor and American materials for the American market.

To a very marked and very proud degree, Porto Rican-made goods are American-made goods. Persons who through misinformation cancel orders of Porto Rican-made goods not only are violating the spirit of the slogan, "Buy American," but the letter as well, for they are rejecting American-made goods just as much as though they had been made in San Francisco.

Porto Rico not only is the seventh best customer for continental United States goods in all the world, but it is the largest consumer of continental American products in the western hemisphere south of the United States.

That means that Porto Rico, which has within its borders more American citizens than 22 of the continental states, buys more goods from American factories made by American labor than any nation in Latin America and as much as four or five nations put together.

President-elect Roosevelt has called Porto Rico "our own American island" and I do not see any reason why the businessmen of "our own American nation" should make any discrimination against our products.

BRITISH ACTION

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The Board of Trade announced today that beginning April 1 certain classes of goods manufactured in and consigned from British Empire countries to the United Kingdom must contain a minimum of 50 per cent of empire material and labor, instead of 25 per cent, as at present, before they will be admitted duty free under the empire preference tariffs.

The regulation, which will be enforced by the customs department, has not yet been published.

The announcement was unaccompanied by an explanation, but the British newspapers interpreted it as aimed primarily at the United States. Some United States manufacturers, it was stated, have established branches in Canada, where a purely nominal amount of work was done on their products.

OBITUARY

Elizabeth N. McFarland.

Miss Elizabeth N. McFarland, for many years a teacher in the Pittsburgh schools, died yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Olson, 6470 Monitor street. Educated in the public schools and the Kindergarten College of Pittsburgh, she taught in the kindergarten department of the Franklin School and later became a teacher in the American Avenue School, where she remained 22 years. She was born in Pittsburgh, a daughter of the late James and Katharine McFarland. Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Olson at 8 o'clock tonight and burial will be in Homewood Cemetery tomorrow. Eight of Miss McFarland's former pupils will be pallbearers.

Creamer Funeral.

Funeral services for Edward F. Creamer, 63, who died yesterday, will be held at his home, 512 Rebecca avenue, Wilkinsburg, Friday afternoon. He was born in Hollidaysburg, and was a veteran of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company. He was a member of the Wilkinsburg Baptist Church, Lodge No. 384, Knights of Pythias; Lodge No. 801, I. O. O. F.; Wilkinsburg Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, and Lodge No. 574, B. P. O. Elks. Besides his widow he leaves a sister, and four brothers.

BAN ON FIRM'S MAIL UPHELD

The bill of complaint of the Jantha Plantation Company, with offices in the Empire Building, seeking a Federal Court injunction to restrain Postmaster J. B. Anderson from complying with the postal fraud order issued by the Postmaster General against mail of the company, was dismissed in a decree signed by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker.

The fraud order was issued December 19. Later the complaint was filed against Anderson by the company and its officers, C. J. Webb, president, and C. H. Kennedy, secretary, and a hearing was held. In the meantime mail, under order of the court, was impounded. The accumulated mail will be returned to the senders, according to federal authorities.

The company is owner of approximately 20,000 acres in the state of Oaxaco, Mexico, part of which has been cleared and banana orchards planted.

St. Mary's Alumni Dance Set Friday

The mid-winter dance of the Alumni Association of the St. Mary of the Mount Association will be held Friday night at the William Penn Hotel. More than 800 members are expected to attend the affair which is being arranged by chairman Howard McPeak.

MONTH WARMER THAN AVERAGE

The temperature here during January was eight degrees above the average, while there was a deficiency of 5.8 inches of snowfall.

Records at the Weather Bureau showed the average temperature for the month as 39 degrees. Only four Januarys in 60 years were warmer. In 1880 the thermometer reached the peak mark of 44.4 degrees. Other warm months were in 1890, 1913 and last year. W. S. Brotzman, head of the weather bureau said:

"Lots of people think that our winters are getting warmer. If you look back through the records you will find that the winters are just as cold in recent years as they were 100 years ago."

In the month just past there was only 3 inches of snow here. Only twice in 49 years was there less. In 1889-90 and 1931-32 the city had an immeasurable amount of snow or what the bureau calls a "trace."

Lincoln Day Tribute To Daniel Winters

A Lincoln Day program in honor of the late Daniel Winters, City Councilman, will be held by the South Side Business Men's Association in the Arcade Theater, 1915 Carson street, February 12.

The program is being arranged by a committee composed of William Finkel, chairman; Paul J. Bleichner, B. Friedland, Fred J. Breitweiser, George J. Lacher, Johnny Jones, John C. Grau, L. William Hartlep, Gustave Wilde, Morris Schwartz, Florence Ruffennach, Bert D. Winters and David Fine.

CIPHER SHARPS GET REAL TEST

BY KENNETH A. NAGEL
Cipher Editor

If you solve this cipher you are good. It is Cipher No. 51 submitted by Frank Balowitz, of Wilmerding. What a cipher!

Now let's see what you know. You should be able to do it in a couple of hours.

If you can't succeed the first night, watch for the tip in tomorrow's Sun-Telegraph. It is sure to help.

Now for Cipher No. 50. Did you decode it properly? Here's how it was done: first write out five numerical alphabets; next use the alphabets one after the other until you have completed the message. The mesage was:

"There seems to be a rush of numeral ciphers, so here is another to decode, Fans. T. E. B."

Write the Cipher Editor and let him know how you are getting along.

Letters with original ciphers come from: Walter D. Crumine, of 1013 Jancey street; P. D. Hough, of McKees Rocks, and A. B. West, of 1703 Oliver Building.

Miss Edith Malone, a new cipher fan, says:

"The ciphers are the first things I look for when I get the Sun-Telegraph. They keep the mind in good working order. If you haven't tried them you should. Let's have some more real hard ones."

'Kremlin Mystery' WCAE Feature

"The Mystery of the Kremlin," a dramatization dealing with the recent death of Mrs. Josef Stalin, wife of the Russian Soviet head, who now is reported to have drunk a poisoned bottle of wine intended for her husband, is presented on WCAE tonight at 6 o'clock. Addas Abavia, noted Egyptian actress, is heard in the leading role.

The play is one of a series offered over more than 100 stations throughout the country and sponsored by 17 Hearst newspapers, including the Sun-Telegraph.

George Gibson, manager of the Pirates, warns the seven other National League clubs when he appears as guest speaker in the weekly Trained Seals program broadcast from the studios of WCAE at 7 o'clock tonight. Interviewed by Charles J. Doyle, baseball expert of the Sun-Telegraph, Gibson also discusses prospects of the major teams for the coming season and baseball topics in general. In addition, a talk on district basketball by Jess Carver, Sun-Telegraph sports writer, is listed. Harry Keck, sports editor, is master of ceremonies.

Program Pointers

A new daily-except-Sunday series of dramatizations, "The Romance of Period Furniture," broadcast from the portable WCAE studio in Kaufmann's, is inaugurated today at 5 p. m. Based on political and romantic incidents in the lives of furniture designers of the last three centuries, the shows are presented by an all-star cast of WCAE artists with Sondra Kostner, Tom Wilmot, Dora Gallagher, David Olson and Stephanie Diamond portraying the principal roles.

Miss Kostner.

Nino Martini, youthful Italian tenor whose voice range extends up to F above high C, sings the highest tenor aria ever composed, "Credea si Misera . . . Ella e Tremante," from Bellini's opera, "I Puritani," on WJAS at 11 p. m. Martini's rendition of the selection marks its premiere on the air and its first performance in America in its original key.

"Scheherezade," by Rimsky-Korsakoff, and "Nocturne" and "Scherzo," from Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream" musical score, comprise the NBC Symphony Orchestra's program, conducted by Issay Dobrowen, on WCAE at 9.

Gertrude Niesen, torch singer; Arthur Tracy, the "Street Singer;" the Funnyboners, Emery Deutsch, violinist, and Freddie Rich's orchestra are featured in the Columbia Revue at 10:15.

The story of the Lewis and Clark Expedition at the time of the Louisiana Purchase, is dramatized during the "Sheer Romance" NBC-WJZ network presentation broadcast from the studios of KDKA at 6:30.

The "Pittsburgh Today" program, KQV feature formerly heard at 9 p. m., moves to a 6 p. m. spot tonight.

Bebe Falvo, Pittsburgh singer appearing currently on Broadway in Harry Delmar's "Revels of 1933," drops into the KQV studios today at 5:30 to say "hello" to her fans.

Waring Job Seen for Medbury

Latest reports are that J. P. Medbury, the West Coast comic, whose humorous writings appear regularly in the March of Events section of the Sunday Sun-Telegraph, probably will get that cigaret job on CBS-WJAS which inaugurates its series with Fred Waring February 8 . . . and that Jack Benny didn't get it because the sponsor didn't want a funny fellow so closely identified with another product . . . Benny, by the way, left yesterday for a vacation . . . Phil Cook and Phil Baker are first choices for a new NBC series planned by the owners of Chandu . . . Pittsburgh's Dick Leibert, Radio City's organist, and Fred Reibel, CBS organist, are battling for honors, both being listed at 8:30.

Just because the tin pan piano on those Death Valley Days broadcasts sounds weary and a bit jittery, don't jump to the conclusion that the pianist is a novice or the instrument in a wobbly relic of the gold rush . . .The keyboard's manipulator is none other than Josef Bonime. Mischa Elman's accompanist for 10 years, and the piano is one of NBC's finest instruments. Bonime, who creates many of the program's sound effects, decided after a bit of experimenting that a few metal strips, purloined from his youngster's mechanical toys and placed across the strings of a somewhat shocked concert grand, would do the trick to perfection.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

While your Globe Trotter was rambling around yesterday he wandered into an insurance office in the Grant Building, and noticed several cast iron, weather-beaten plaques affixed to the wall, inquired as to their meaning. Imagine his surprise when he was informed that they were fire plates of 100 or so years ago and of great value to collectors. And then the story . . .

Years and years ago there were no municipal fire fighting departments. Each fire insurance company supported its own organization to combat flames. Each assured was given a fire plate with the company's insignia or coat of arms to affix to his house. In case of fire a general warning was given. Each company's men hurried with their hand-drawn water tanks and pumps. The firemen would look to the fire plate. If it wasn't their company's they'd go home, leaving the one company who insured the premises the job of saving them.

* * *

E. S. C., Donora.—No, old fellow, we never announced a big surprise was due Donora. If one does come we hope it's pleasant.

Mrs. F. L. Hufnagle, Carnegie.—You're right about the Winchester Apple Blossom Festival.

H. S. Hergenroeder, Gross Street.—Times have changed. Will do that.

* * *

Angelo Morasco says that, Sam Suseri owns a barber shop at 717 East Ohio street. He closed his shop at 7:30 the other night and went home. During the night he was awakened by an officer pounding on his door. He arose and dressed . . . was informed by the officer that he heard people in the shop and it sounded like a quarrel was in progress. They arrived at the scene . . . a number of curious spectators, seeing the policeman and sensing something wrong, had congregated. Sam and the officer approached the door . . . The key was inserted in the lock. The officer crouched, ready to spring at the intruders in case they should attempt to escape . . . The sheepish grin . . . Sam had forgotten to turn his radio off and a thrilling mystery was being broadcast.

Cat saves canary bird's life is the Ripley from Mr Becker of Cedarville street. The canary got out of the cage, the cat got the canary. The fox terrier got after the cat. The cat got scared and the bird got dropped. The cat got after the dog. And I got a nice item.

* * *

Ripley will be receiving from Mrs. Evans, of Farm No. 270, Pine road, a story about a chicken liver taken from a normal White Rock rooster weighing a pound and a quarter and the size of a calf's. Doesn't sound like straight White Rock.

WARN AGAINST RELIEF RACKET

Charity racketeers obtain nearly $1,000,000 a year in Pittsburgh the Better Business Bureau said today in the first of a series of special bulletins issued to protect the public from frauds.

In a drive against all types of "rackets" in business in Pittsburgh, Reuel W. Elton has been appointed manager of the bureau, succeeding Hampton Beeson, who resigned. Elton was for many years a Pittsburgh resident and was for a time manager of the community affairs division of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Elton

The bulletins urged persons solicited for contributions to unknown "causes" and "benefits" to report to the Better Business Bureau for investigation. It said professional exploiters prey on the public's generous impulses, selling tickets for "benefits," advertising for "causes," and groceries for "orphans."

Elton declared that information submitted concerning suspected frauds would be received as confidential and investigated without charge. The bulletin listed other alleged "rackets" operating here, including offers of jobs to the unemployed, who first are required to post "cash bonds." The bureau urged persons offered such positions to communicate with it before posting such bonds.

Groundhog Star In Broadcast Tomorrow

Tomorrow's "Groundhog Day," so-o-o-o-o . . .

Beginning at 11:55 tomorrow morning, a 10-minute broadcast with a member of the Marmota Monax family himself as the star will be heard over a coast-to-coast NBC network including WCAE. For the broadcast, which has been entitled "The Big Moment in the Life of a Groundhog," Marmota will be taken to the top of the Empire State Building to forecast the weather for the next six weeks. If he sees his shadow, winter! Marmota's reaction at high noon records his prediction.

A 15-minute "Man-in-the-Street' broadcast, marking the first use in Pittsburgh of the lapel microphone, is scheduled on KQV tomorrow at noon. Passersby will be interviewed by Adrian R. Cooper and J. F. Murray on the "Groundhog Day" superstition. The broadcast will be staged on Fifth avenue between Smithfield and Wood streets. At 6 p. m. on the same station tomorrow, the history of the legend will be discussed.

LEITER HEIRESS SEEKS ESTATE

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—(INS.)—Seeking control of her $666,666 share in her mother's $2,000,000 estate, Audrey Nancy Campbell, 19-year-old granddaughter of Levi Leiter, today had on file a petition to have herself declared a legal resident of Illinois.

Unless she becomes a resident of Illinois, Miss Campbell will have to wait until she is 21 to receive her inheritance. The estate of her mother, Mrs. Nancy Lathrop Campbell, is being probated in California, where the law stipulates that a woman does not attain her majority until she is 21 years old.

Miss Campbell is also heiress to one-twelfth of her late grandfather's estate, but she will not come into this until the death of her aunt, Lady Suffolk, who resides in England.

POLICE LIABLE FOR LOST TAGS

Policemen to whom the new "fixless" tags have been assigned, will be held financially responsible for loss or misuse of the tickets, they were notified, as the distribution to police stations began.

There are 25 tags to the book. A minimum fine of $1 is assessed against the parking law violator, so that one tag is worth a minimum of $1.

An attache of the City Controller's office delivered instructions to police at several stations yesterday. His visits to the stations will end this week. The "fixless" tag system was started January 4, but the tags were issued then only to traffic policemen.

ALL FED IN COX BREADLINE

In his work for the aid of the destitute unemployed at Old St. Patrick's Church, there is no distinction as to race, color or creed. They all look alike to Father Cox and they are all freely given assistance according to their needs. In the daily breadline there are old men and young men, 'white collar' men and mechanics. Some are fairly well dressed—others are ragged. Their personal appearance or their race makes no difference to the "father of the jobless"—if they need food they get it. If they are badly in need of warm clothing they are supplied.

With Father Cox it is "a one-man job," He depends entirely upon voluntary donations of money, food and clothing to carry on these activities.

These are some of the reasons why the Sun-Telegraph continues the subscription drive for his benefit. For every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page Father Cox gets a liberal cash commission. He has already been paid several hundred dollars by the Sun-Telegraph.

Work to Be Started On Naval Hosp'tal

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(AP.) John McShain, contractor, said today that work will be started next week on the new Philadelphia Naval Hospital, to be erected at a cost of $2,587,000.

The contract provides that no one may work more than 30 hours a week, in order to spread employment. McShain said two shifts will be employed, one working during the first half of the week and the other during the latter part.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

'Housemaid's Knee' Is Very Painful Condition

Recently I had occasion to visit a large office building at night. The cleaning women were mopping the floors and I observed that they were using modern electrical cleaning machines. The machines had long handles which eliminated the necessity for kneeling on the floors.

Dr. Copeland

"Housemaid's knee" is a painful affliction of the knee-joint. Chronic "bursitis" is the medical name for this condition. It was given its popular name because of its prevalence among housemaids.

Constant kneeling sets up an irritation of the lining of the knee-joint. Of course the inflammation may result from an injury caused by a blow or fall. But it is most often traced to prolonged pressure or friction, such as accompanies kneeling.

Acute bursitis, or housemaid's knee, is easily recognized by the sudden swelling which occurs in front of the knee-cap. The swelling is due to an accumulation of thick fluid. The knee is tender, reddened and painful to touch.

The pain is relieved by rest. The knee should be placed in a well-padded splint. Ice bags placed on the knee lessen the swelling. In some instances a hot, moist dressing or poultice may be beneficial. If the swelling persists and the fluid continues to accumulate it is necessary to draw it off through a needle. The doctor will decide.

If pus accumulates, relief can be obtained only by operation. It is a minor operation and need cause no alarm. An opening is made and the pus removed. A drain is placed in the incision to insure complete drainage.

Sometimes wonderful results follow daily application of cold water. Let the water from the tap run over the knee for 10 minutes by the clock. I have seen remarkable improvement from this simple treatment.

After the acute pain and tenderness have disappeared, the knee feels stiff and difficult to move. This can be overcome by gentle massage of the knee. The knee should be massaged for 10 minutes three times a day. In stubborn cases electrical treatment or "diathermy" aids in restoring the knee to normal.

Chronic bursitis differs from acute bursitis in that there is little pain but the knee is greatly swollen. The trouble can be traced to incomplete cure from neglect of an acute inflammation. It may be the result of a severe blow or injury to a previously inflamed joint.

This form of bursitis or housemaid's knee, is more difficult to cure by simple remedies. In most cases surgery must be resorted to before a cure can be expected.

I am glad to say that doctors do not encounter housemaid's knee as frequently as in former years. I am sure that in a great measure this can be attributed to the many mechanical cleaning devices recently invented.

Manor Man Dies; Squire 34 Years

JEANNETTE, Pa., Feb. 1.—Peter H. Naley, 79, justice of the peace at Manor for 34 years, died today.

MAN GAMBLED, WIFE CHARGES

When her husband won at gambling he treated her well, but when he lost he was rough, Mrs. Sadie LeWinter, Turtle Creek, testified before Judge Elder W. Marshall, in asking a divorce from Sidney LeWinter. She said he was a butcher by occupation, but did not follow it. She charged cruel and barbarous treatment.

To disturb her husband, Percy S. Graham, while he sat at the table reading his paper, propped up by a dish, meant a fight, Mrs. Emma Elizabeth Graham, 606 Lockhart street, told Judge Marshall, and was granted a divorce. On one occasion Graham, his wife said, struck at her but she ducked and the blow hit his mother.

Mrs. Graham testified that their son was born at 7 a. m. and her husband refused to look at the child until 5 p. m.

"'MOIST THROAT' STOPPED MY COUGHING SPELLS!"

"I'm certainly glad I learned about 'moist throat'," writes Miss A. S., of New York City.

Your throat and bronchial tubes are lined with millions of pores like tiny "bottles" continually supplying moisture to the delicate tissues . . . until you "catch cold."

Then these pores clog. Phlegm collects. Dangerous germs find a breeding place. Tickling, irritation and coughing set in.

To cure your cough you must increase the flow of your throat's natural moisture, loosening the phlegm so it can be expelled. Many cough "remedies" contain numbing drugs which merely "deaden" the nerves . . . but don't get at the root of the trouble!

PERTUSSIN, a scientific remedy, is the extract of a famous herb which opens the tiny glands, stimulates the flow of throat moisture and brings quick relief naturally.

If your throat's raw or dry, take a few spoons of PERTUSSIN now. It's safe, even for children. At drug stores, 60¢.

What Is it about CHESTERFIELDS?

Well, I can't tell you much of anything about what is in Chesterfields

BUT I smoke a good deal, and I noticed that they said that Chesterfield Cigarettes were milder and tasted better; so I smoked a package or two and found it to be true.

I also noticed that the cigarettes were well-filled, seemed to be the right length and the right circumference, and burned uniformly—not up one side and down the other.

I liked the aroma—very pleasing. I liked the appearance of the cigarette—the paper, dead white. The package rather appealed to me.

I don't know exactly what it is, but I just like 'em. It's about the only luxury that I enjoy; so I think it's all right for me to have a good cigarette, and I believe Chesterfield is just about the best.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Should Wife Kill Husband's Faith by Confessing Sin?

Remember the old saying—"Confession is good for the soul?"

Sounds fine, doesn't it? And undoubtedly confession is good for your soul. But—

How about the other fellow's?

Is it noble and brave to tell the other fellow what a rotter you've been if, thereby, you shatter his faith?

Or is it the greater and more unselfish act to bear the burden of your remorse alone and help him to keep his ideals unscarred?

Many a desperate, shamed soul has faced that difficult question; groped vainly for an honest solution. Recently such a one, who called herself "Heartbroken Wife," came to this column. Should or shouldn't she tell her husband the story of her faithlessness? Wasn't it better to "come clean"?

Here, today, is another husband answering. His wife did tell. What was the result? Listen!

Dear Miss Robinson—

May a man answer Heartbroken Wife's story of her infidelity and her question about whether she should tell her husband that the child he is looking forward to with such pride and joy is not his?

I say no! A thousand times no!

If she cared even a little bit for that husband she will keep still. She would be doing him and, in fact, everybody concerned, a terrible injustice if she did tell.

Whether she tells or not, she will still have to suffer. Perhaps she will suffer more from a guilty conscience if she doesn't tell. But why should she ease her conscience by breaking her husband's heart and probably ruining the future of her child? That would be cowardly.

CAN RUIN HAPPINESS

If she doesn't tell him, he will still be happy and be proud of that baby and give it a break. If she does tell him, she will ruin his life and make her child an outcast.

It's up to her to have spunk enough to stand her own misery in silence and make up for her mistake by being a more faithful and loving wife in the future—not by destroying everything that her husband believes in. If she can do that, she can be an even better woman, for having real love and consideration enough for her husband's peace of mind to not destroy it, even if it means suffering for her to keep still.

The mistake has been made. Telling about it can't wipe it out. But she can put it behind her; live it down—and be regular in the years to come.

DREADFUL BLOW

I know what I am talking about because I am a man whose wife made a mistake like that and didn't keep it to herself.

I know that her motive in telling me and asking my forgiveness was good. She felt that it was noble. She told me that she didn't want to sail under false colors; that my confidence in her, when she didn't deserve it, hurt her so that she had to speak out.

Well, I can tell you I would give a good deal never to have known of what she did.

I loved her. I was happy. I was proud of the baby that I thought was mine. When she told me the truth it was a dreadful blow. I forgave her, but my happiness was gone. My world has been shattered.

So I don't think "Heartbroken Wife" has any right to tell. She should let keeping still be her penance, if she has to have one. And she should let her repayment for her mistake be a real effort to make here husband happy.

A HUSBAND WHO WAS TOLD.

Personally, I think there is good sense in that letter—and true nobility. But maybe you don't agree, Stranger.

Maybe you think keeping still about a mistake like that is all wrong.

If you do, let's have your side of the argument.

Young Girls Will Regret Hurts to Older Women, Warns Fay King

By FAY KING

Youth is always attractive. It can never be perfectly imitated once it has mellowed into the later years.

The girl who is beautiful as well as young can always be the successful rival of any other woman if she is selfish enough to be so.

But youth is fleeting and the time will come when she in her turn will be older. When she too, will have known the cares of life which mold character but mar beauty.

It is then that she will better realize and regret the heartache and unhappiness she caused an older woman by her unfair conquest.

Many such have suffered in their turn the same heartache and unhappiness they so little considered in their time of easy rivalry.

Heart of a Wife -:- Continuation of Love's Reawakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Takes Counsel With Her Closest Friend

For an interminable second, after Lillian had told me Dicky was talking to Harry in their sitting room, I stared at her in bewildered unbelief.

"He can't be!" I stammered. "He went out of here, slamming the door so hard he woke some of the people. One of them opened a door to listen. And when I rushed into the corridor after him and called his name, I heard the outside door slam. No, he left several minutes ago."

"I'm not disputing you on that point," she said, and through my daze, I realized that she was talking to me in the tone she would use toward an unreasonable child. "He did leave, but he met Harry coming back from a session with Hugh, and they came upstairs to our room for a few last words.

"I don't know that there's anything new. I didn't stop. I was on my way over here as a sort of coming up for air. I've had one tangerine of a session with Helena, and I don't mean maybe. She's quiet now for a few minutes, I guess, so I run over here for a minute's rest."

"And found somebody else ready to drain your strength and sympathies," I said bitterly, and with a swift, feline motion she slapped my cheek, lightly, but still distinctly a slap.

KNOWS ABOUT HUGH

"I'm not in any mood to listen to stuff like that," she said. "If Dicky is in the form he used to be, you have a perfect right to 'dissolve into tears.'"

"'Used to be'—that's just the thing that's killing me," I said. "Do you realize how long it has been since he did anything like this? Not even last Christmas when—when he——"

"Smashed the exquisite silver and crystal flower container that Phil Veritzen gave you?" she finished for me. "No, I'll admit, he was most artistic in the way he made that appear to be an accident. But then, Phil is something else again than Hugh, and his brainstorm this morning was about Hugh, wasn't it?"

I stared at her.

"How do you know?" I asked. 'Did Dicky—"

"You know better than that," she said reproachfully, and I flushed guiltily, for indeed I did know that Dicky would not have named to anyone save me his jealousy of Hugh. "But I don't have to take off my reading glasses to get a slant on the Dicky-bird's reactions; so while you're waiting for him to dash in here for a remorseful farewell, suppose you sweep me the dust about the affair. From the glimpse I had, Dicky and Harry won't get through chinning for another five minutes at least. So shoot the works! That is, if you want to. Far be it from me to butt in."

"I do want to," I said hurriedly, knowing that Lillian had some good reason for the "butting in" which usually is her most active aversion. I did not quote Dicky's insulting words, but I told her enough so that she realized what it was that he had demanded of me.

HUSBAND RETURNS

I saw her eyebrows knit as I told her of his query as to whether no mothers would be available to accompany the rescue party, and she patted my shoulder affectionately when I told her of the promise I had made not to go with the men, if either Lillian or Helena could go—the promise that had been the spark touching off the powder of Dicky's temper.

"He's off his nut with jealousy of Hugh," she said when I had finished, "but that's no excuse for his staging a stunt like that. However, you know the Dicky-bird. He always has a second thought, bless his darned old heart! If his ship had been anchored off the veranda, he'd have taxied off immediately and been 50 miles away by now. But, as it is, old Mr. R. E. Morse has him by the collar, and you'll see him tiptoeing his way in here pretty soon, full of contrition and all set for an affectionate farewell. So I'll be going, and leave a clear field for him. But remember, don't—"

She stopped suddenly, and had reached the door in hurried flight before I gathered my senses enough to question her.

"But what?" I asked.

"But, nothing," she answered, turning the doorknob. "I sure spoke out of turn that time. I didn't mean a thing."

"Oh! yes, you did," I sprang toward her. "Tell me this second."

"Nothing doing! Good morning. Here's your husband!"

Contract Bridge

-:- How to Play -:- How to Win

By Josephine Culbertson

The Choice of a Suit

Good Contract players realize the importance of making the correct choice of a suit in which to play a hand at a game or Slam contract. Often the question of obtaining discards in the Dummy after the adverse trumps have been drawn is of paramount importance, so that cards that would otherwise be losers may be taken care of.

A recent Duplicate game gives point to this discussion. The hand was one in which one player held great honor strength and length in two suits. His partner was in the unusual position where support could be given to either suit. As a result of bidding, at some tables they reached an unmakable Slam, while at one table only, where Mr. George U. Harris, who finds his diversion from busy days on the Stock Exchange at the Bridge table, was holding the East hand, was the correct final declaration reached.

West—Dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ 6 ♡ K Q 7 5 4 ◇ J 10 7 4 3 ♣ 5 2
♠ A K J 4 3 ♡ A 8 ◇ 8 ♣ A K 10 4 3	North West East South	Mr. Harris ♠ Q 7 5 ♡ 6 3 ◇ K Q 9 6 ♣ Q J 9 8
	♠ 10 9 8 2 ♡ J 10 9 2 ◇ A 5 2 ♣ 7 6

The bidding:

West	North	Ea.	South
1 ♠ (1)	Pass	2 ♠ (2)	Pass
4 ♣ (3)	Pass	5 ♣ (4)	Pass
6 ♣ (5)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Not quite strong enough for an Opening Forcing bid of two. The hand is exceptionally strong in distributional values, as well as in its holding of 5 honor-tricks, but positive support for one of the suits must be found or a game may easily be impossible.

2—A better bid than one no-trump.

3—Correctly using the Forcing Takeout. If East can support spades, the hand can safely play at a game contract, and the Forcing Takeout allows for the possibility of a Slam.

4—Mr. Harris indicates that he is also well able to support clubs.

5—The Slam bid now follows as a matter of course.

It will be noted that there is nothing difficult about the play with clubs as trump. The Opening lead, the heart King, of course is clearly indicated, but West can draw the adverse trumps, discard the losing heart in Dummy on a spade, and ruff the losing heart in his own hand. Played at clubs, the only loser is one diamond. At spades, however, the hand does not present this possibility. The trump length in Dummy is not sufficient to draw the adverse trumps and still permit the leaving of a trump in Dummy to take care of West's losing heart. The finding of the best bid in the hand assured the making of a safe Slam contract.

TODAY'S QUESTION

East is Dealer and opens with a bid of one heart. What should South bid, holding the following hand?

♠ Q J 10 9 6 5 ♡ 7 2 ◇ A K 10 8 7 ♣ -

Answer: Double. Although the hand contains but 2½ honor-tricks, the Double is justified by the freakish distribution of the holding and the good possibilities of game, even though partner does not hold sufficient strength to voluntarily raise a one spade Overcall to two.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Introduction

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please tell me what is correct when a young man and a girl are introduced. Does the girl offer her hand first, or the young man, or does it make a difference? JEAN.

To the girl is given the prerogative of offering her hand first, if she wishes to shake hands when an introduction is made. Of course, it is not necessary for her to shake hands. For the usual introduction she doesn't, but she may if she wishes. The man should wait for her to offer her hand, but if he offers his hand first she quickly accepts the offer of hand-shaking. For her not to accept this friendly gesture would be absurd and most ungracious.

An Anniversary Gift

Dear Miss Beeckman:

Will you please let me know the most appropriate gift or gifts for a fiftieth wedding anniversary? B.

The fiftieth wedding anniversary is the golden wedding, and those of us who can, give something in gold. Often a gold coin is given.

Something "golden" is a good idea, too. The other day I saw a set of bedspreads of a glorious, golden, antique satin, which were being given for this kind of present. Topaz glass would embody this same golden idea.

But really, for any wedding anniversary we may give any kind of present that we know will be enjoyed by the couple in their home.

Man About Town

Of all things! . . . Julia Peterkin, whose novel "Scarlet Sister Mary" won a Pulitzer Prize, is now taking a correspondence course in short story writing . . . It's one of those Columbia University home study courses, but 'magine! . . . A drunk swung a sock (but missed) at George Jean Nathan, the critic, in front of the Mansfield Theater the other premiere. It's something actors the world over have wanted to do for centuries. . . . It will be denied, but Roxy accepted a settlement of $75,000 . . . Elmer Rice sends the letters he gets from people who liked his new show to the critics who didn't—with a "So there!" finger-snap.

In an article, George S. Kaufman told of the London flu epidemic, and added that he caught only a slight cold—from watching Sir Gerald du Maurier's love-making . . . He is quarreling with A. Woollcott over the ownership of the quip—just like a pair of N. V. A.'s . . . Ethelyn Holt, who introduced the new hat fad via a ciggie advertisement, is very beautiful. She entered a beauty contest at the New Yorker Hotel the other day, and the judges, all prominent artists, didn't even place her in the running! . . . Ethelyn is Mrs. Hiram Gans, he's a Boston att'y . . . Sue Towne, poor little Richman Club gal, dwells at the Waldorf . . . They forgot to build a mail chute in the town's newest skyscraper . . . Robert Reinhart has thrown away his reporter's card (which helped him get out of traffic law violations) and is having his printer make him cards which read: "Magistrate Hirshfield."

The jurors who served in Supreme Court, Part 2, Bronx, since December 5 haven't received their pay. Because the What-it-Takes, which so many people haven't any more, they ain't too! . . . That young composer, whose symphony made Carnegie Hall after they saved him from killing himself tried it again and is in bad shape this time . . . "Rasputin" in Russian is supposed to mean "one who takes part in orgies" . . . Add Similes: "As identical as this master of ceremonies or that one" . . . The fortnight will bring a new candy bar bearing Eddie Cantor's name . . . "Big Bill" Edwards or Chas. Hand may be Collector of the Port of N. Y. . . . Rosa Ponselle, the operaticanary, and Nino Romani have parted.

Dr. Rugo Riesenfeld's little girl, Janet, married Gregory Gay, the butler in "Dinner at Eight" in the sh-sh! manner last week. . . . It's only a matter of days when Gil Kahn (Otto's other boy) middle-aisles it with Sara Jane, whose last name is Heliker . . . Andy Kerr, at present the football coach for Colgate, has been signed to coach NYU for '34 . . . Columbia and NYU, who have always been such enemies, have signed to play together the same season . . . Walter Armitage, London actor, and Lois Fletcher were sealed here last week.

An orchid to Isham Jones' newest ditty delights: "You've Got Me Crying Again" and "Why Can't This Night Go On Forever?" . . . A dozen orchids to Detective Arthur De Marrais for so swiftly catching Lloyd Price, the fiend who attacked and murdered that little baby . . . An orchid to Noel Coward's "Design for Living." . . . Scallions to the bank which helps business firms to learn which workers have saving accounts—so they may fire those "who can afford it!"

Ruth Etting will make her first series of feature shadow-song-shows for Warners. She doesn't want her salary known—but it is considerably less than a million smackers . . . Dan Winkler and Chas. Morrison have merged their theatrical plots and plans . . . Anne Forrest, the actress, is, as was hinted, married to F. Steelman Bain of the swanky Philadelphia Bains, but mater Bain, who is not That Way about actresses, won't give in . . . The Commissioner of Taxes and Finances Thomas F. Lynches anticipate a blessed "expense" . . . Toscanini, the greatest of conductors, saved the Met Opera 25 years ago from failure. They will deny they are dickering to get him back, but they can't deny that the Met lost $30,000 the first week this year.

The late Elisabeth Marbury maintained an office in the Shubert bldg for 2 years and never entered it . . . To those of us whose hair has silvered on it—it should be nicknamed "The Get Gray White Way" . . . J. Weil reports about another fiend—the clunk who joined a Jig-Saw library—and whose passion was throwing away two pieces of every puzzle before he returned it. So that he could read about a suicide the next day! . . . Benny Rubin is bitter over the "deal" he got in Hollywood from Frank Fay and Felix Young.

Mrs. Roosevelt is having her inaugural gowns made by a local shop, but she first made sure the workers there were union members . . . The ticket counter at Gray's was moved back only to make room for the fountain . . . Wm. Carey, President of the Garden, has taken the pass list from J. J. Johnston, the matchmaker . . . The Waldorf represents an investment of 44 millions . . . Chas. Stuart married his stage partner in Baltimore . . . You have to have four new songs to be officially listed as music publisher . . . J. M. Lansinger's next magazine will be "Real America"—the first story being an "expose" of the J. J. Walker regime.

A patty-cake for Time, the mag, for actually finding Miss A's brother George. It seems he is a quiet employe of the Standard Oil in Cal., and, needless to add, he is annoyed by the whole thing . . . A new Sabbath gazette is due in March. A tobacco heiress is "to-backing" it . . . Lynn Fontanne and Alf Lunt contemplate doing some Shakespeare shows, meaning ta-ta to the Thittir Guild . . . Ralph Hitz, hotel monarch, has a deal with the 43d St. out-of-town newsstand. Every paper bears a sticker reading: "You can get your own town paper free at my hotel." Clever stunt, Hitz, of course, buys them from that newsstand . . . The Betty Boops (she is Mae Questel, and he's L. Balkin) are shopping in babyland.

Crosby Tardy, so Arlen Takes Another Role

Richard Arlen has been signed by Charles R. Rogers for the romantic lead in "Legal Crime," forthcoming Paramount picture dealing with the dramatic effects which the return of legalized beer may bring about. Arlen previously was announced for a featured role in "College Humor," but due to Bing Crosby's delay in reaching Hollywood for a part in this picture, Rogers was enabled to secure Arlen for "Legal Crime." Charles Bickford and Jean Hersholt are the only other players so far announced for the cast.

Central Europe Tour By Holmes Tonight

Burton Holmes will close his current season of pictured travel talks in Carnegie Music Hall tonight, when he will present impressions of a tour through Central Europe last summer. In "Doing Europe on a Budget," Mr. Holmes will attempt to show that the best things in travel as well as in life are always free. The screen journey is designed to embrace several regions of Central Europe that have never before been visited by the Holmes' tourists. The illustrations, both in color and motion, are all new, and were made by Mr. Holmes himself in the summer of 1932.

Myrna Loy Given Role Opposite Novarro

STUDIO CHAT -:- Latest From Hollywood Told In Breezy Paragraphs -:- MOVIE BILLS

Language Bar Costly to Studios

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 1.—Now that the Hollywood tycoons have hired most of the glamorous actresses in Europe, they suddenly turn their eyes to England.

Result—Elizabth Allen, London star, will arrive here February 15, and will go right into "Service," Clarence Brown's next picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

The immediate availability of the English actress is an attractive argument in her favor. Samuel Goldwyn has had Anna Sten studying English since March without using her in a single picture. Universal had Tala Birell coached before they gave her an assignment. This is expensive, and Hollywood has an eagle eye on the cost sheet nowadays.

Miss Sten

Some American fans are already acquainted with Miss Allen. She played in "Service For Ladies," which was released over here, and which already has brought Hollywood contracts to two of its players, Benita Hume and Miss Allen both signed with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. And this studio has a third English actress in Diana Wynyard, who gave such a moving performance in "Cavalcade."

* * *

That outburst of tittering at "The Sign of the Cross" the other night was caused by Jay Strauss' dry witticism.

On the screen the picture was near its climax. The beasts were being loosed in the arena. Suddenly, Jay observed:

"And I suppose if a martyr eats a lion, that's news."

* * *

Lillian Harvey is taking a house in Beverly Hills. Yes, someone already has called it "The Harvey House." This star is one of the few Hollywood newcomers to rent a big place. Both Peggy Hopkins Joyce and Benita Hume tell me they prefer apartments.

Miss Harvey

Fat, good-natured Lionel Belmore will play the poet, Homer, in Jesse Lasky's production of "The Warrior's Husband." And did you know they almost got Will Rogers to do the part of the herald in this picture. While the matter was under discussion, Rogers visited Lasky on the "Zoo in Budapest" set. The comedian watched a couple of elephants stuff down food.

"You know, Jesse," he drawled. "To me elephants are like women. I like to watch 'em, but I don't like to feed 'em."

* * *

With the opening of "Cavalcade," Hollywood is once more in the throes of the argument about the necessity for hokum in pictures. A leading defender of "Cavalcade" and pictures of the sort is Leslie Howard.

Mr. Howard

"The trouble is," Howard tells me, "they have not aimed high enough for the public. Any picture with an outstanding spiritual quality will be a success and will appeal to the whole world. 'Cavalcade' had patriotism. I think 'Berkeley Square' should find a wide public because the whole world likes to believe that love is undying, persists after death. The producers haven't asked my advice, but I think 'The Passing of the Third Floor Back' also would qualify for spiritual appeal.

"And let us, first of all, get away from realism. Romance is the province of the theater."

Any arguments?

O. K. With the Missus

Ernest Truex, stage comedian, in Hollywood to film 'Whistling in the Dark,' won't make Mrs. Truex sore by this pose, because, you see, she is posing with him.

'Hello!'

Kate Smith, in her first movie, "Hello, Everybody!" will be the Stanley screen feature Friday.

Keaton-Durante Title "What; No Beer?"

Final title of the forthcoming Buster Keaton-Jimmy Durante picture, which Edward Sedgwick is directing, is announced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer as "What! No Beer?" This is the second film in which Keaton and Durante have been paired.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Diana Wynward, English actress who will be seen in the Nixon next week in the screen version of Noel Coward's "Cavalcade," went to Hollywood from Broadway, where she played the leading role in "The Devil Passes." Besides her role in "Cavalcade" she has another film portrayal to her credit, having played with the Barrymores in "Rasputin." She came to America to appear in "The Devil Passes" after scoring a hit in the same play previously in the London production. In "Cavalcade" she plays opposite Clive Brooks, who also is English although he has been so long identified with the principal product of Hollywood that he is considered a strictly American leading man. The picture of Coward's spectacular play will open Monday night, after which there will be two shows daily. The box office sale of seats will open tomorrow.

* * *

Eddie Cantor and the boys and girls of his vaudeville revue, including George Jessel, will be here tomorrow for one day only, to give afternoon and evening performances in Syria Mosque under the local management of May Beegle. Seats are on sale at Mellor's. In this charivari patrons will see Mr. Cantor acting as an m. c., in addition to singing and taking parts in the skits. We have seen Eddie on the stage and screen, but do not remember ever having seen him at the task of mastering a ceremony. Possibly when he was a boy, dancing in the streets of New York, and beginning his career as an author with no more material than a hunka chalk and a section of sidewalk, he, himself, never dreamed of rising to such heights. In fact, there probably were no ceremonies to master in those days. We moderns should thank our stars that we live today. And ain't Eddie one of our stars?

* * *

Lilian Harvey's first film for Fox will be titled "My Lips Betray" instead of "His Majesty's Car," as previously announced. This is the play by Attila De Orbak which was adapted for the screen by Hans Kraly. John Boles will have the leading male role opposite Miss Harvey.

Hitler Shown In Hearst News

THE GLOBE TROTTER

Adolph Hitler, new chancellor of Germany, is seen and heard in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, while The Globe Trotter describes the amazing career of the former Austrian house painter. Hitler's remarkable hold on the German populace is demonstrated by scenes. He is shown with President Hindenburg who, finally, after two previous refusals, was finally compelled to place him in the job once occupied by Bismarck.

Pictures of the devestation wrought by the 80-mile-an-hour gale that swept the New England coast, are shown. Huge seas are shown smashing beach homes into kindling wood. Hundreds of families are made homeless.

President-elect Roosevelt is serenaded at the Little White House in Warm Springs, Ga., by Dixie fiddlers.

Riviera crowds gather at Nice for the running of the Grand Prix steeplechase.

Demonstrating that it is unnecessary to purchase foreign made goods of any kind for the children, a fashion show of clothes and toys, all made in Uncle Sam's factories, is presented.

Outboard motorboat daredevils provide thrills at Winterhaven, Fla.

Opium and other deadly drugs, two tons of them, valued at $500,000, are consumed by the furnace in New York police headquarters.

Concert

Vladimir Horowitz, pianist, will give a concert Friday evening in Syria Mosque.

Broadways of the World
All in a Day
By Mark Hellinger

HOTEL ESPLANADE, PRAGUE, Czechoslokavia: My guide's name in this particular town is Mr. Ludwig Kwayssar. And brothers and sisters, I'm here to tell you that he's a honey. I've had many a guide on this trip—but Ludwig cops all the honors that you might wish to bestow upon him. He's a guide with a sense of humor and I know of nothing rarer than that. Unless, of course, it's a radio crooner who can really sing.

From the reckless manner in which I mention guides on this trip, I don't want you to get the idea that I'm a tourist on a spree. If it weren't for the films and the night life descriptions, I wouldn't engage guides if they paid me. But since I must get a great deal in a very short time, a guide is an absolute necessity. So I've hired them by the carload.

The moment I hit a town and the guide arrives in my room, I generally talk along the following lines:

"What I want are people—life—romance—and, if necessary, misery. Show me what I want and, no matter what your salary is, you'll get more. Show me what I don't want or try to sell me anything, and you'll get nothing. That's all for now. Meet me in the lobby in half an hour."

That spiel is the result of many things I've learned on this trip. It produces the desired effect and they seldom try to gyp me any more. Not much...

All of which brings me to Mr. Ludwig Kwayssar, Prague's head guide and character extraordinary.

He stood at ease as I looked at him.

"Listen, buddy," I began as usual. "I'm going around the world and I haven't much time to waste here. I'm not the average tourist and I'm not looking for—"

"Churches, museums or government buildings," he finished. "I know. You want the real life of this city. You're looking for color and romance."

The man was uncanny. I gulped.

"How the devil did you know?" I inquired.

"I've been around the world three times," he replied, "looking for the same thing as you are now. That's how I know."

"Did you ever find it?" I asked.

"Never," he returned shortly.

"That's fine," I asserted. "What's your price to work for me, day and night, while I'm here?"

"For the average tourist," he responded, "my price would be 200 crowns. But you, evidently, are insulted if you are referred to as an average tourist. Therefore, because of your importance, I will double the price. From this minute on, I am costing you 400 crowns a day."

I shook hands with Ludwig and hired him on the spot. What else could you do with a guy like that?

Before a day had passed, Ludwig and I were the best of pals. We understood each other, somehow. For every story that he told me about his adventures around the world, he permitted me to tell one about Broadway. I was fascinated by his yarns, and he seemed a trifle interested in mine. That made everything even.

The man's history would make a swell book. This chap has done everything that Trader Horn ever dreamed of doing; the only difference being that when Ludwig tells a story, you believe him implicitly. Born in Prague, he left the city in 1900 and returned in 1923. He came home, as he put it, to die in peace.

He's been to the ends of the earth several times—and back again for more. Knows China, India, Japan from every angle, but doesn't care much about these countries. Was a supercargo on the Munson line for a long time and loves the sea. New York? Phew, he wouldn't give you a quarter for it.

"Too big," he told me. "No fun when a place is too big. Gets you nervous. I like peace and solitude. You can't find those things in New York."

Ludwig had a responsible position years ago on one of J. P. Morgan's yachts when that gentleman went on a cruise that lasted almost eight months. He laughed when he recalled it.

"There were 16 guests on that cruise," he reminisced, "and they started out as though they were going to be bosom pals forever. About three weeks later, there weren't two people on board who would look at each other. They were so sick and tired of one another that practically all of them ate alone in their cabins. It was a joke, I can tell you.

"They had all the money in the world and I had none. Yet I enjoyed every minute of the cruise that they hated. My happiness was the one thing none of them could buy. Funny about things like that."

Ludwig hasn't much money today. Oh, he can live comfortably, he says, and he can support his sister and his niece in fairly good fashion. But he'd like to win a lottery or fall into a nice sum of money in some fashion—and for what, do you suppose? He wants to go back to a certain river in South Africa—he told me the name but I've forgotten it—where he had the best time of his life.

"Ah," he murmured, "what a place that was! Ludwig liked the chief and the chief liked Ludwig. I would eat and eat and eat. I would sleep and sleep and sleep."

After we had talked for what must have been hours, I suddenly shot a question at him.

"Ludwig," I asked, "there's just one thing I don't understand. After seeing as much as you have of the world and knowing what you know about it, how is it that you can settle in such an ancient city as this and remain content? I know you were born here, but what does that mean?

"Plenty," he returned. "I wouldn't take a million dollars for my memories. But still and all, when I came back to this city in which I was born, I went up on the hill and looked at my Prague for half an hour before I went to my old home.

"If you were away from America for 23 years and you came back to the Statue of Liberty, you couldn't see enough of it either. Because, no matter what had gone before, you'd know you were home again."

And oh, brothers and sisters, how right he is!...

Merivale Goes Movie

Philip Merivale, the distinguished actor, will make his motion picture debut for the Fox Film Corporation in "I Loved You Wednesday," the Broadway success by William DuBois and Molly Ricardel.

"I Loved You Wednesday" was produced by Crosby Gaige in New York. Philip Klein is doing the screen adaptation in collaboration with Miss Ricardel, who is in Hollywood.

This is Miss Ricardel's first writing effort, she having appeared on the stage in New York in "Broadway" and other productions before collaborating with William DuBois, a New York newspaperman.

Mr. Merivale's last appearance here was in "Cynara." His supporting cast in the Fox film has not yet been announced.

Rogers' Life Screened

Incidents in Will Rogers' life have been dramatized and will be presented on the screen with Will Rogers in the main role under the title of "Arizona to Broadway."

Events tracing the actor-humorist's career from his early life in Oolagah, Indian Territory, to his spectacular success as a gum chewing cowboy-comedian in the "Ziegfeld Follies," have been woven into a story by William Conselman, who adapted "Connecticut Yankee" in which Mr. Rogers appeared on the screen.

Having completed work recently in "State Fair," Mr. Rogers will defer his planned airplane vacation to go before the cameras as soon as a cast can be assembled for "Arizona to Broadway."

Protracted Session of Legislature Looms

—By MARK SHIELDS—

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—If the Republican regulars in control of the Legislature have no better fortune with the remainder of their economy program than they did yesterday with the Reed bill to reduce salaries of judges, there will be no adjournment April 13, the goal set when the session convened.

Mr. Shields

Predictions were prevalent in the Capitol today that this incident, together with inability to muster votes to pass the primary repeal bill, presaged a protracted session, with a failure for many weeks to come to grips with perplexing problems. One Senator boldly suggested that the spectacle of the 1932 special session would be repeated.

* * *

Bill Provides Pay Cut for All Judges

In that meeting there was backing and filling for eight weeks and then, in an atmosphere of despair, the sales tax was rushed through, not a piece of legislation which the majority favored, but as a semblance of a ticket back home.

The Judges' bill provides a reduction of 15 per cent in the pay of all judges. When it came up for final passage yesterday it was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 28 to 15. The dissenting group comprised the seven Democrats, Senators Salus, Frazier and Woodward, of Philadelphia; four Pinchot Senators, Harris and Mansfield, of Allegheny; Buckman, Thompson and Senator George Reed, of Dauphin, author of the bill.

Organization men contributed to the 28, though there were some Senators who voted to postpone as a courtesy to Senator Krause, of Philadelphia, who asked delay. At any rate, the principal distillation from the episode is that there was more delay, more hesitancy, and more fumbling. What this Republican organization needs is a rule similar to the new football rule, not penalizing the team fumbling.

* * *

Story Blames Some Judges for Delay

There is a story about Harrisburg that some judges were instrumental in bringing about the delay. This cannot be confirmed through visual energy of the judges, but it would not be surprising. Judges have not been above lobbying, energetically and successfully, on judicial salaries.

When the judicial pay raise was passed in the 1929 session, the judges were represented, with pleasing results, Supreme Court Justice James B. Drew, then a member of the Common Pleas bench of Allegheny County, was in Harrisburg at the time, but has always denied he was concerned in the pay raise, explaining he was interested in a measure of Senator M. G. Leslie far divorced from the salary question.

And it is opportune to record that the votes on the pay bill yesterday furnished another evidence of the Philadelphia split, with Salus declining to go along with his Philadelphia associates. There is an acrimonious feeling developing in the Senate which promises warm times in the next few weeks.

As to the primary repeal bill of Senators Chapman and Prince, on which the organization also split, there is a belief that it will never emerge from the Elections Committee. Ostensibly the purpose of recommittal was to perfect amendments. The real reason was that the organization feared it lacked the votes to put the measure across, having heard that some Senators in whom reliance had been placed would vote against the bill.

* * *

Some Senators Resent Being Forced to Position

Some Senators resent being forced to take a position on this controversial measure so early in the session. They are further angered because the organization is placing them "on the spot" without a possible chance of passing the bill over a certain Pinchot veto in the event it should ever reach the Governor's desk.

Here and there an apologist is found who now says the measure was never enthusiastically sponsored by the leaders of the state organization. This, of course, is rubbish. It was sired by the organization, though thoroughly damned by the independents.

And the latter have come off in top position so far.

Among the Senators who desire to have the measure remain in committee now are those who resented having the issue raised so early in the session, before they have had an opportunity to curry favor with their constituents by some action which might have been generally acceptable. If the bill slumbers in committee they will have gone on record for nothing more momentous than voting to keep the bill on the second reading calendar, and can explain they never actually voted for its passage.

More and more it becomes evident that there will be warfare in this Legislature, and that out of the warfare may come some cataclysmic changes in the direction of Republican policy.

Found Dead in Bed From Stove Fumes

Thomas Johnson, 45, of 1209 Gibbon street, was found dead in bed late yesterday, a victim of carbon monoxide poisoning, according to the Coroner's report. The body was discovered by Mrs. Bella Bonder, at whose home Johnson had roomed for the last six months. A small gas stove was burning in the room when the body was found, it was reported.

Coolidge Had Desire To Serve Country as A Private Citizen

CHAPTER XVI.

(From "The Autobiography of Calvin Coolidge.")

Irrespective of the third-term policy, the presidential office is of such a nature that it is difficult to conceive how one man can successfully serve the country for a term of more than eight years.

While I am in favor of continuing the long-established custom of the country in relation to a third term for a President, yet I do not think that the practice applies to one who has succeeded to part of a term as Vice President. Others might argue that it does, but I doubt if the country would so consider it.

Although my own health has been practically perfect, yet the duties are very great and 10 years would be a very heavy strain. It would be especially long for the mistress of the White House. Mrs. Coolidge has been in more than usual good health, but I doubt if she could have stayed there for 10 years without some danger of impairment of her strength.

A President should not only not be selfish, but he ought to avoid the appearance of selfishness. The people would not have confidence in a man that appeared to be grasping for office.

It is difficult for men in high office to avoid the malady of self-delusion. They are always surrounded by worshipers. They are constantly, and for the most part sincerely, assured of their greatness.

They live in an artificial atmosphere of adulation and exaltation which sooner or later impairs their judgment. They are in grave danger of becoming careless and arrogant.

Opposition Grows

The chances of having wise and faithful public service are increased by a change in the presidential office after a moderate length of time.

It is necessary for the head of the nation to differ with many people who are honest in their opinions. As his term progresses, the number who are disappointed accumulates. Finally, there is so large a body who have lost confidence in him that he meets a rising opposition which makes his efforts less effective.

In the higher ranges of public service men appear to come forward to perform a certain duty. When it is performed their work is done. They usually find it impossible to readjust themselves in the thought of the people so as to pass on successfully to the solution of new public problems.

An examination of the records of those Presidents who have served eight years will disclose that in almost every instance the latter part of their term has shown very little in the way of constructive accomplishment. They have often been clouded with grave disappointments.

While I had a desire to be relieved of the pretensions and delusions of public life, it was not because of any attraction of pleasure or idleness.

We draw our Presidents from the people. It is a wholesome thing for them to return to the people. I came from them. I wish to be one of them again.

A Famous Statement

Although all our Presidents have had back of them a good heritage of blood, very few have been born to the purple. Fortunately, they are not supported at public expense after leaving office, so they are not expected to set an example encouraging to a leisure class.

They have only the same title to nobility that belongs to all our citizens, which is the one based on achievement and character, so they need not assume superiority. It is becoming for them to engage in some dignified employment where they can be of service as others are.

Our country does not believe in idleness. It honors hard work. I wanted to serve the country again as a private citizen.

In making my public statement I was careful in the use of words. There were some who reported that they were mystified as to my meaning when I said, "I do not choose to run."

Although I did not know it at the time, months later I found that Washington said practically the same thing. Certainly he said no more in his Farewell Address, where he announced that "choice and prudence" invited him to retire.

There were others who constantly demanded that I should state that if nominated I would refuse to accept. Such a statement would not be in accordance with my conception of the re-

Spoken Drama Evidently Will Be All Footwork

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Just got a wire from Billy Grace, of Tulare, Cal., enclosing his business card and rebuking us for claiming the stage had moved west of the Rockies.

His business card says he will instruct you in tap dancing, athletic and toe dancing. He doesn't promise to get you booking, but he will educate your feet.

Billy, the spoken drama has never been dead for the actors who talk with their feet. The sensation of Radio City music hall was Ray Bolger, who picks them up and lays them down in a different place.

The music hall is the Grand Canyon with a roof. The distance from the stage to the exit is so terrific that they sell Field and Stream in the last three rows.

Yet, a dancer panicked 'em opening night. They can't hear a singer in the place. A chorus of 50 sounds like the final gargle of a dying swan.

So, it looks like the future of the spoken drama is all footwork. If we were out in your neighborhood we would enroll for a noisy course on tapping on a tin roof.

POOR DIRECTORS SEEK TO QUASH CHARGES

Limitations Statute Invoked in Suit

Counsel for the County Poor Directors moved today to have an equity suit against them dismissed on the ground that the allegations were outlawed by the statute of limitations, that the directors acted only on the advice of counsel, and that no fraud was committed.

The suit was brought by Walter W. Riehl, a taxpayer, seeking to have the directors surcharged for money alleged to have been spent illegally. Judge Thomas M. Marshall announced he would not rule on the defense motion for dismissal until the testimony was completed.

The plaintiff's case was rested after testimony had been taken concerning insurance on buildings under the Poor Directors' jurisdiction. H. H. Dixon, one of the directors, who is in the real estate and insurance business, admitted he, as an insurance representative, placed $65,000 insurance. Director J. Clyde Miller said he did not place any insurance, but his son, an insurance representative, had.

Records were introduced yesterday to show the directors paid Louis P. Schneider nearly $41,000 more than Schneider paid for three properties. The prosecution alleged Schneider had not acquired title when the directors paid him.

James W. Donaldson, head bookkeeper at the home, testified the building bond issue proceeds went into the general fund, although Maj. Miller previously had said the money was used in construction of a hospital building for male mental patients.

A Monongahela girl, Lou McIlvain, has been engaged to sing the role of Leonora in "Il Trovatore," which opens the International Opera Company season at Syria Mosque, February 24.

Miss McIlvain has appeared throughout European opera houses under the name of Louisa Machelvoni. She has never appeared locally. Maurice Frank, impressario of the International, selected her at the request of many local friends.

U. S. DEPOSITS NOT EXEMPT FROM LEVY

Board Here Follows Lead of Ohio; Sets Precedent

In their drive for the collection of the personal property tax, the Allegheny County Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes has ruled that United States postal savings certificates are subject to the 4-mill tax.

The announcement was made today from the office of T. Ralph Barr, of the County Assessors.

Hitherto postal savings had been considered exempt from personal property tax as are other government obligations.

According to Postmaster James B. Anderson there are more than $6,000,000 in postal savings certificates in the Pittsburgh district. Anderson said he has written to the County Commissioners for an official ruling on taxing postal savings.

The tax cannot apply to postal savings bonds, which are a different type of security, Anderson declared.

Postal savings certificates pay two per cent interest. They are payable on demand.

A wire from Columbus reports that in Ohio postal savings have been subjected to a two mill personal property tax for the first time in that state. The ruling was made by the Ohio State Tax Commission.

DEATH TAKES GEORGE WEIL

George Weil, former chairman of the Allegheny County Republican Committee and prominent in political and civic activities in Braddock for many years, died today in Mercy Hospital.

He was born in Braddock in 1880 and lived there all his life. At one time he was assistant principal of Braddock High School and for many years was Borough Solicitor and secretary of the Borough School Board. He was educated in the North Braddock and Braddock public schools and was graduated from Grove City College in 1902. He was graduated later from the University of Pittsburgh Law School. He was a lifelong member of the Presbyterian Church of Braddock and served as its Congressional chairman.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Lulu Kinter Weil; three sons, George, Jr., William and Robert; his father, Gottlieb Weil; a sister, and three brothers, Dr. Grover C., Edward and Carson. Funeral services will be held at his home, Brinton and Yost boulevards, Braddock Township, Friday, and will be conducted by Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church.

5 HURT AS CAR UPSETS IN PARK

An automobile, out of control, police say, hit a guard rail in Serpentine drive, Highland Park, early today and overturned twice, causing injuries to three young men and two girls, two seriously.

Regis Leonard, 19, of 5220 Holmes street, driver of the machine, and Miss Viola McChesney, 18, of 1005 Main street, Sharpsburg, were most seriously hurt.

The others injured were Inelda McChesney, 18, of 214 Twenty-first street, a cousin of Viola; Kenneth Duffy, 18, and Philip McEntee, 19, both of 5250 Carnegie avenue.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 1

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

My snow that was to melt yesterday, didn't melt. It was unusual snow. You see the Chamber of Commerce had led these folks to the mountains (you can always trace all devilment to a Chamber of Commerce). The chamber didn't figure it would snow, because they had passed no resolution demanding snow. But it did snow. Well, you take a Southern Californian and put him in snowdrift, or anywhere else, where he can't see a filling station or a cafeteria, and he is ready to write out his will. There wasn't a suit of long underwear in the bunch. Now we got to set 'em under these orange trees for three months to thaw 'em out. We can and do live on climate, but it takes a real northerner to digest those snowballs.

Yours, WILL.

N. Y. Studies Plan To Tax Commuters

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The possibility that New York City might levy special taxes on commuters who work here but live beyond the city limits was suggested yesterday by Mayor John P. O'Brien, who said:

"The city of New York may get just a little bit selfish before the year is over. Do not be surprised if we decide to put a tax on every worker using New York City in the daytime, or if we decide to put tolls on our bridges."

SLAYER HERE GETS PARDON

The flower box murder has been paid for by Santo Piazza.

From Harrisburg today came the news that the Board of Pardons had commuted the nine-year sentence of Piazza, who was imprisoned in 1925. Piazza was sentenced for the second degree murder of Frank Blavis, 26, who lived in the same house with Piazza in Galveston avenue. They argued over a flower box perched on a window sill, testimony brought out.

Two other prisoners from Allegheny County also received commuted sentences. They were Meyer Letwin, who has served five of a six-year sentence for arson, and Clarence Lander, imprisoned for robbery. Letwin's 21-year-old daughter, Eleanor, pleaded for him before the Board of Pardons.

Ku Klux Leader Sentenced to Jail

EDMONTON, Alberta, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—J. J. Maloney, Ku Klux Klan leader in Alberta, has been sentenced to two months in jail and fined $100 on three counts. He also was ordered to pay damages of $15.

On charges of causing damage by fire and attempted false pretences, Maloney was sentenced to two months in jail and fined $50 or an additional two months on each count, the sentences to run concurrently. On a charge of causing damage, he was fined $10 and ordered to pay damages.

Truck Damaged By 'Backfire' Blaze

A truck of the Hoover Motor Express Company, of 704 Magee street, was damaged $500 early today by fire believed to have been caused by "backfire." The blaze occurred in Forbes street, near the Armstrong Tunnels. Floyd Matthews, of 3619 Parkview avenue, the driver, escaped injury.

CHESWICK TILTS OVER FIRE CHIEF

A battle loomed today between Cheswick volunteer firemen and the Borough Council over Constable John Biser, candidate for re-election as fire chief.

Council last week struck the names of Biser and Joseph Osman from the list of four men submitted by firemen as their nominees.

Burgess Thomas David said Council criticized the manner in which Biser conducted the department, including the practice of permitting firemen to assist at out-of-town fires without receiving sufficient compensation. He declared that of the 28 alarms answered by the department last year, only two were within the borough.

Young Men Form Fourth Ward Club

Young men of the Fourth Ward will celebrate the formation of the Paramount Club at a dance tonight at 210 Oakland avenue. Joseph Cain is chairman of the committee. A charter has been applied for, stating the club is non-political, exclusively social and literary. The membership is limited to 300.

WOMAN NAMES NUMBER 'BOSS'

District Attorney Andrew T. Park will investigate the alleged activities of Jake Goldstein in the South Side numbers racket, he said today following testimony of a woman numbers writer that she worked for Goldstein.

Park said he would question the woman, Rose Mullen, 34, of 14 South Twenty-seventh street, to determine whether she would appear against the man. She said in South Side Police Court yesterday that her "boss" would neither furnish bail when she was arrested on a charge of operating a lottery, nor pay the fine assessed by Magistrate J. J. Sweeney.

When Sweeney asked who her employer was, the woman named Goldstein.

BOYS, GIRLS JOIN JUNIOR PATROL

Comic Page Cartoon By Quin Hall Stirs Great Interest

Great interest in the new comic strip, "Junior," by Quin Hall, appearing daily in the Sun-Telegraph, has been shown by the receipt of dozens of pledge cards from boys and girls desiring to join the "Junior Patrol."

The "Junior Patrol" is for both boys and girls and is intended to help others at home, at play and at school. There will be many of the clubs organized in Pittsburgh, while the surrounding communities will form their own.

Persons who missed the membership card in Saturday's paper will find the pledge card appearing in today's issue of the Sun-Telegraph. In order to cut down mailing expense, pledges from boys and girls living in the same neighborhood may be sent together.

Jane Fitzpatrick, of 2873 Beechwood boulevard, one of the first girls to send in a card thinks the "Junior Patrol" should be joined by every boy and girl. She said:

"I think the Junior Patrol idea is great. I'm hoping all the boys and girls join it."

The many pledge cards that have already been received have been sent from those living as far away as Uniontown, Donora, Charleroi, Monaca, New Kensington and many more towns. Some of the boys and girls write in their letters:

"Send me all the information you can about the 'Junior Patrol.' I would like to help organize one of the clubs in my town. I like the idea of helping others and I am going to get my friends to join also."

Red Cross Destroys 'Offensive' Magazine

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—With the permission of school authorities, officials of the local branches of the Red Cross and the Junior Red Cross today visited all public schools affiliated with the junior organization and destroyed copies of the January issue of The National Junior Red Cross. Fourteen schools were visited.

An article and illustration in the publication which school officials said was offensive to Catholic resulted in a ban on the magazine in Somerville, Cambridge, Lowell and New York.

Mannes Quits Post As Orchestra Leader

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—David Mannes has resigned as director of the Manhattan Symphony Orchestra. The next two concerts, February 12 and March 12, at the Waldorf-Astoria, will be conducted by guest leaders, but the conductor for the season's last concert, on March 26, has not been announced.

Although no statement was made, Mannes' resignation is believed to be due to differences with the management on questions of policy.

Milk Dealers Slash West Virginia Price

PHILIPPI, W. Va., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The price of milk went down 50 per cent in Philippi and vicinity today.

Two of the largest dairies in this section slashed the retail price from 10 to 5 cents a quart.

This makes milk cheaper than it has been for many years.

FUGITIVE SEEKS SECOND PARDON

CANON CITY, Colo., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Confident that he would again receive executive clemency, Glenn Smeemanfl Cleveland publisher, was on his way to St. Louis, Mo., today to face a two-year prison term imposed on him in 1917.

Smeeman, whose story of 15 years of right living following his escape from a Colorado road gang in 1918 earned him a commutation of sentence, was met at the prison gates here by J. J. Fitzsimons, a St. Louis sheriff. Gov. Guy B. Park, of Missouri, will be appealed to immediately for clemency similar to that shown Smeeman by Gov. Ed C. Johnson, of Colorado.

Smeeman was convicted of auto theft in St. Louis. While free on bond he fled to Colorado, where he was again convicted and sentenced to the state penitentiary. After seven months' imprisonment he escaped from a prison road gang and made his way east.

In Cleveland, Smeeman rose to a position of prominence and wealth under the name of Harry Stanley. A year ago he married Miss Margaret Stutz, 20-year-old daughter of a Cleveland merchant.

Pigeon Causes Half-Ton Doors To Open

CLEVELAND, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A pigeon was given credit today with having opened—quite unconsciously, and by remote control—the 1000-pound doors of the Cleveland school administration building's underground garage.

A few days ago the garage installed an automatic device to open the doors, controlleed by an "electric eye," a beam of light which is thrown across the driveway. When an automobile interrupts the beam, a photo-electric cell starts motors which cause the doors to swing.

Garage attendants were startled today when the doors swung back and no car was in sight. Then they saw the pigeon and decided it was the cause.

MAN HELD HERE FOR CHAIN GANG

A fugitive from a Georgia chain gang today awaited return to the Gilby State Prison at Montgomery, Ga. He is Ruben Pittman, 20, who gave his address as Warrington avenue. H. J. Gilliland, of the prison, is here to arrange for extradition.

According to Detective Inspector Frank R. Boyd, Pittman, with 12 others, dug through a wall of the prison last October 17. Boyd said one of the prisoners was shot by the pursuing posse and all the others were captured but Pittman.

Boyd said Pittman had served only a few months of a three-year sentence for robbery when he escaped. He said Pittman had also admitted two other jail escapes, one when he was only 16 years old and another about three years ago, when he was shot while fleeing.

Sees Saving in Gas By Driving Backward

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Fuel costs on new stream line automobiles could be cut 30 per cent—if the cars were driven backwards, automotive engineers were told by William B. Stout, automotive and aeronautical engineer. He spoke before the Society of Automotive Engineers at a banquet last night.

Stream lines, he said, should be incorporated in the back of a car, where air resistance is created.

Pardoned 20 Years After Leaving Prison

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Samuel Lehrman's pardon from the Governor arrived today—20 years after his release from prison.

Lehrman, a Harrisburg businessman, served a 0-day sentence in 1912 for perjury. The pardon, granted by Gov. Pinchot today, restores Lehrman's citizenship rights, including the right to testify in court.

Father and Son To Wed Mother And Daughter

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—A forthcoming double wedding here will furnish excellent material for riddle solvers.

It appeared today that after Leon Desko, 20, won the hand of Mary Ciglinskx, 21, the latter's widowed mother, Anna, 48, decided that Leon's father, Nicholas, 45, a widower, was "pretty nice," too.

Thus it happened that mother and father and the children all went to the marriage license bureau and obtained the required papers.

Leon on the day of his wedding will acquire simultaneously a bride, a stepmother, a mother-in-law, a stepsister, a stepfather-in-law, while Mary—well, come on you jig-saw puzzle fans.

FIVE IN WAGE PROTEST FINED

Two women and three men were fined in South Side Police Court today on disorderly conduct charges in connection with a demonstration of alleged Communists at the Jones and Laughlin steel plant in Carson street yesterday. They were members of a committee appointed to present wage and relief demands to the company.

H. G. Mauk, plant police superintendent, said he told the delegation if any were employes or former employes, company officials would interview them.

When none signified connection with the company, they were ordered to leave. The five arrested were alleged to have failed to comply.

They were Edith Brisco, 21, 712 Carson street, fined $5 or 10 days in jail, and Albert Marsh, 32, 1428 Hamlin street, Ben Carouthers, 38, Negro, 1812 Wylie avenue; Herbert Hurt, 27, 75 South Thirtieth street, and Mabel Turner, 25, Negro, 75 South Thirtieth street, fined $2 or 5 days in jail.

HALTING FIGHT, FATHER DIES

A Coroner's report today gave a heart attack as the cause of the death of Christian Nichtar, 73, which occurred last night in his home, rear 530 North avenue, Millvale.

The aged man collapsed as he attempted to keep his sons, Edward Nichtar and Joseph Nichtar, the latter of 121 Vista street, from fighting, according to Deputy Coroners Roy Addlesburger and James Dunlay.

Edward began quarreling with him when he came into the house. Joseph told the deputies. Their father attempted to pacify them, then fell. A physician was summoned and he was pronounced dead.

Ex-Chief of Militia Hurt in Auto Crash

BOISE, Idaho, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Maj. Gen. William G. Everson, Baptist minister and former chief of the United States Militia Bureau, was bruised and shaken up and his wife was more seriously injured in an accident near Buhl yesterday.

Their automobile rolled over an embankment off an icy highway and fell 125 feet down a steep grade, turning over several times.

Gen. Smuts Defeated On Cabinet Change

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—By a vote of 83 to 63, the Assembly today defeated a motion by Gen. Jan Christiaan Smuts, that the Hertzog government resign to make way for a coalition cabinet.

BACKACHES
Not always due to Female Complaints

. . Says doctor who advises on care of kidneys and bladder

Backaches, nervous spells, bearing-down pains, dizziness and headaches are not always due to sicknesses peculiar to women.

Slight or temporary disturbances of the kidneys and bladder are frequently the cause of these pains. However, the condition can often be remedied quickly by Santal Midy Capsules, obtainable at most any drug store.

Santal Midy Capsules contain a precious East Indian extract which soothes the kidneys and acts as an antiseptic on the bladder. Don't wait until kidneys and bladder get in a serious condition. A small amount spent now for Santal Midy Capsules may save you hundreds of dollars and untold suffering. Get Santal Midy from your druggist—today.

NOTED SLEUTH OUSTED FOR POLITICIAN

Wililam H. (Bill) O'Bryan, a city detective with a national reputation, turned in his gold badge today after 20 years of service to make room in the bureau for a Bloomfield politician.

Public Safety Director James M. Clark announced the retirement on pension of O'Bryan, whose activity as a sleuth led him to many important arrests and once to Africa to bring back a fugitive. He was known in police bureaus throughout the United States.

O'Bryan's place in the detective bureau has been assigned to John Dean, of Bloomfield, dismissed from the department in the recent economy shakeup after two months' service.

CARRIED TAFT WARRANT

It was in the fall of 1913 when O'Bryan was detailed to go to Allieell North, 1,400 miles inland from Cape Town, to bring back to this city Louis Levine, wanted on a charge of embezzling $48,000 from the foreign department of the old Western Savings and Trust Company.

O'Bryan, with a warrant signed by President William Howard Taft, sailed for London, England, for the papers necessary to extradite Levine from Africa.

After a tempestuous voyage to Cape Town, O'Bryan, with a crew of natives, interpreters and Cape Town police, began his long trek inland for his prisoner. Many obstacles had to be overcome in the 1,400-mile journey, by pack team, native canoe and horseback to reach Allieell North, where Levine had been captured and held prisoner.

The trip ended, O'Bryan congratulated himself, but his joy was short-lived, as notice was served that Levine would fight his return to America.

HARRIED BY NATIVES

After lengthy legal encounters, O'Bryan finally won the fight and his return began. Several times the detective and his caravan were forced to take cover when set upon by semi-wild gangs of natives. In two encounters with tribes it was necessary for the detective and his party to resort to gunfire.

To bring back Levine, O'Bryan was compelled to travel 4,500 miles.

O'Bryan still has the warrant signed by President Taft and another signed by Gov. General Gladstone, of South Africa.

Gunman Croons 'Spare a Dime,' Takes $20

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—(Universal.)—"Sister, can you spare a dime?"

That's the theme song crooned by a dark-complexioned bandit as he plays upon the sympathies of women motorists and then robs them.

But the gunman is not to be placated with mere dimes. In the case of Miss Hope Harriman, Hollywood actress and his last victim, it took a $20 bill to get ride of him, and then only after he forced her to drive him to another part of town "to catch a street car."

Boy Hurt as He Runs Into Moving Truck

Suffering a probable fracture of the skull when he ran into the side of a moving truck in Tilbury street, near Murray avenue last night, Robert Tobe, 11, of 2304 Murray avenue, was in Montefiore Hospital today, according to police report. Charles Fichter, 23, of 607 Fifty-second street, alleged driver of the truck, was arrested.

BANDITS ROB 30 IN AUTO BUREAU

GARY, Ind., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Four bandits who robbed 30 customers and four state employes in a raid on the Automobile License Bureau in the Courthouse here escaped with $7,000 in license fees, a checkup disclosed today. The building houses the Sheriff's branch office.

The gunmen, in addition, emptied the women customers' purses and robbed the men of an undetermined amount.

Entering the crowded office with drawn pistols and a sawed-off shotgun, the bandits ordered their victims to line up against a wall, where they held them for 20 minutes. Last-minute buyers of automobile licenses jammed the bureau.

Three of the gunmen searched the customers while a fourth forced Manager W. J. O'Donnell to open the safe and surrender the license money it contained.

Tammany Overthrow Predicted by Wise

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Tammany Hall's overthrow as a dominating factor in New York City politics was predicted by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of the Free Synagogue, New York, who took a leading part in the recent Seabury investigation of the municipal affairs of America's first city, in an address here last night.

TREAT COLDS IN THE FIRST STAGE!

—and You Nip Them in the Bud!

A cold ordinarily progresses through three stages: The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, 1 to 3 days; the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief in the first stage is far easier than in the later stages. In fact, it is taking chances to let a cold run beyond 24 hours.

For prompt relief of a cold take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This famous tablet stops a cold quickly because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. It kills the cold germs and fever in the system. It relieves the headache and grippy feeling. It tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack. That is the treatment a cold requires!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful. May be safely taken by young and old and whether you stay indoors or go out. There is absolutely no penalty attached to its use. For more than 40 years it has been the standard cold and grippe tablet of the world, the formula keeping pace with Modern Medicine. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine now comes in two sizes—30c and 50c. For safety's sake get yourself a package today. Beware of any dealer who offers a substitute.

NOTE: During Epidemics a tablet or two of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine every morning and night will do much to keep your system immune.

Raw, Tender Nose and no wonder!

Rubbed, inflamed with harsh, damp handkerchiefs, when it should be gently treated with

KLEENEX Soft, absorbent —now costs but 25c

MUCH of the misery of a cold comes from irritation caused by damp handkerchiefs.

This discomfort is avoided when you use Kleenex—a soft, cloth-like tissue, many times more absorbent than cotton or linen.

Since the cost is very low, a tissue need be used but once. Thus, you have a clean tissue every time—soft, soothing and dry.

Much more healthful

Kleenex is not only more comfortable, it is infinitely more sanitary. A cold-filled handkerchief re-infects the user, spreads infection to others. Kleenex fibers are so powerfully absorbent that they hold germs securely, harmless, until the Kleenex can be destroyed.

No disagreeable laundering

When you use Kleenex there's no disagreeable handkerchief washing, no laundry expense. And the hygienic Kleenex habit actually costs less than having handkerchiefs laundered! Kleenex is sold at all drug and department stores.

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES

COMMISSARIES DEFENDED BY GOVERNOR

By MARK SHIELDS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—Gov. Pinchot today made public a letter to Judge Ralph H. Smith, of Allegheny County, in which the Governor asserted objection to the commissary plan of feeding the needy is based on "selfish interest of people who are afraid they are going to be hurt," and upon "neglect of the vital factor in the whole situation, which is that we do not have and will not have money enough to do anything else."

Mr. Pinchot's letter is in response to a communication from Judge Smith, who reported there was serious opposition in Allegheny County to the commissary system. Judge Smith wrote that Pittsburghers felt establishment of the commissary would force out of business a large number of small grocery proprietors and "would create social disturbance."

LOW FUNDS HANDICAP

In reply the Governor said he recognized that the commissary plan is not so good for the grocers as the present food order system in operation in most counties. He added:

"I am sorry for that, for I recognize the great service they are rendering. But that is an objection which is completely wiped out by the fact that there is no prospect for money enough to go on with the food order plan. We cannot starve or half starve large numbers of people in order to keep a comparatively small number of grocers going. We do not subsidize other industries which are hurt by the depression."

Referring to opposition from welfare workers, the Governor said:

"It arises from a fear, whether founded or unfounded, that general adoption and success of community markets may threaten the jobs and salaries of social workers, especially in private agencies, by diminishing the need for their services in straight relief work. This fear is, in fact, wholly unfounded, for both plans demand case work in the same degree."

SEES BETTER DIETS

The Governor contended actual savings take place under the commissary plan, and insisted more healthful diets are provided by the commissary system than food orders over which there is no dietary supervision.

Three commissaries are now in operation in the state, and the Governor contended it was not fair to compare them with commissaries of older types. As to a suggestion conveyed by Judge Smith that the system might result in disturbances, the governor wrote:

"Except for an occasional demonstration gotten up by Communists they simply do not happen."

Plans of the state emergency relief board call for a gradual extension of the commissary system, but no county will be forced to accept them until a thorough opportunity for study has been afforded. Republican State Chairman Martin is understood to have moved adoption of the commissary plan in a board meeting, the suggestion being seconded by Lieut. Gov. Edward Shannon.

PAL OF VOLPES GIVES BOND

Joe Capriaso, 43, a friend of the Volpe brothers of Wilmerding, yesterday was released from custody today of the United States Marshal by giving a $5,000 bond in the office of the clerk of the Federal District Court for appearance April 4 in the Federal Court at Portland, Me., to answer to charge of conspiring to pass counterfeit Federal Rerserve Bank notes.

His removal to Portland, in default of $5,000 bond, had been ordered by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, after Capriaso had been given a hearing before the United States Commissioner. At the Commissioner's hearing, J. P. Curran, who came here from Portland to appear as a government witness, testified he had passed 12 fake notes for Capriaso, and Harold K. Macguire, a Portland policeman, said the defendant had been in Portland.

Capriaso was arrested January 11 by State Police, when they arrested Joseph and Louis Volpe in connection with an alleged attack made on Louis Lucarelli, a Wilmerding tinsmith.

Soldier Shoots Bride, Self at Army Post

FORT HOYLE, Md., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Corp. Clarence H. Sims, 33, and his 19-year-old bride of six months were in serious condition today at the Edgewood Arsenal Station Hospital following a shooting here yesterday.

Sims was said by officers to have shot his bride, wounding her seriously, and then turned the revolver on himself, inflicting injuries which may prove fatal.

EAST END WIFE SUES HUSBAND

Mrs. Isabel L. Ramsey, of 5706 Walnut street, has filed a divorce suit against Paul W. Ramsey, charging desertion. They were married September 4, 1928, and separated July 1, 1932.

Other divorce suits were filed by Margaret Boone against Albert W. Boone, Selma Dunbar against Ernest G. Dunbar, George J. Gass against Esther Gass, John Mudrick against Mary Mudrick and by Leona Russell against Graham P. Russell.

Divorces were granted to John K. Hanna from Arbella Hanna, M. Frances Graham from Walter Graham, Emma Elizabeth Graham from Percy S. Graham and Pearl J. Campbell from Frank B. Campbell.

TOURIST CLASH HOLDS FIVE

An argument over payment for damages done to luggage by an automobile exhaust caused the arrest of four men and a woman at Smithfield street and the Boulevard of the Allies early today.

The luggage was the property of Charles Johnson, 24, of Buffalo, a passenger of Thomas C. Hughes, 22, of Columbus, O., on an overland automobile trip from San Diego, Cal. Johnson planned to leave the car here and discovered the damage as he alighted. He asked Hughes to give him a fur neckpiece as security and an argument ensued.

Johnson and Hughes and three other members of the party, Louis Simpson, 29, of El Paso, Tex.; Larkis Simonian, 19, of New Jersey, and George Innis, 28, of New York, were arrested and held for investigation by the city detective bureau. They were charged with being suspicious persons. The woman was discharged.

Calvin Coolidge's Life Story

quirements of the presidential office. I never stated or formulated in my own mind what I should do under such circumstances, but I was determined not to have that contingency arise.

Prevented Nomination

I therefore sent the Secretary to the President, Everett Sanders, a man of great ability and discretion, to Kansas City with instructions to notify several of the leaders of state delegations not to vote for me. Had I not done so, I am told, I should have been nominated.

The report that he had talked with me on the telephone after his arrival and I had told him I would not accept if nominated, was pure fabrication. I had no communication with him of any kind after he left Washington and did not give him any such instruction or message at any time.

I thought if I could prevent being nominated, which I was able to do, it would never be necessary for me to decide the other question. But in order to be perfectly free, I sent this notice, so that if I declined no one could say I had misled him into supposing that I was willing to receive his vote.

I felt sure that the party and the country were in so strong a position that they could easily nominate and elect some other candidate. The events have confirmed my judgment.

In the primary campaign I was careful to make it known that I was not presenting any candidate. The friends of several of them no doubt represented that their candidate was satisfactory to me, which was true as far as it went.

I can conceive a situation in which a President might be warranted in exercising the influence of his office in selecting his successor. That condition did not exist in the last primary. The party had plenty of material, which was available, and the candidate really should be the choice of the people themselves. This is especially so now that so many of the states have laws for the direct expression of the choice of the voters.

Retired Voluntarily

A President in office can do very much about the nomination of his successor, because of his influence with the convention, but the feeling that he had forced a choice would place the nominee under a heavy handicap.

When the convention assembles it is almost certain that it will look about to see what candidate has made the largest popular showing, and unless some peculiar disqualification develops it will nominate him.

That was what happened in the last convention, although no one had a majority when the convention assembled.

A strong group of the party in and outside of the Senate made the mistake of undertaking to oppose Mr. Hoover with a large number of local candidates, which finally resulted in their not developing enough strength for any particular candidate to make a showing sufficient to impress the convention.

Although I did not intimate in any way that I would not accept the nomination, when I sent word to the heads of certain unpledged state delegations not to vote for me, they very naturally turned to Mr. Hoover, which brought about his nomination on the first ballot.

The presidential office differs from everything else. Much of it cannot be described, it can only be felt. After I had considered the reasons for my being a candidate on the one side and on the other, I could not say that any of them moved me with compelling force.

My election seemed assured. Nevertheless, I felt it was not best for the country that I should succeed myself. A new impulse is more likely to be beneficial.

It was therefore my privilege, after seeing my administration so strongly indorsed by the country, to retire voluntarily from the greatest experience that can come to mortal man. In that way, I believed I could best serve the people who have honored me and the country which I love.

Roving Constable Tells About Threats

A crusading constable, Abe Feldman, of the Fifth Ward, today complained that attempts to "frame him" are being threatened. He said he had been warned by an anonymous letter that the plot has been concocted by ward politicians. Feldman, who has made 20 vice raids in the past three months, reports to the office of Justice of the Peace Lawrence V. Gibbs, of Sewickley.

WIFE SEES MAN MURDERED

BRADFORD, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The law spread its nets today for the two gunmen who invaded the home of Sam Maduri, dragged the man from his bed, and killed him with six shots while his wife implored their mercy.

Turning, the slayers ran downstairs and out of the house while the screams of Mrs. Maduri aroused neighbors from their sleep.

Mrs. H. O. Brogan, residing next door, said she saw the two men leap into a waiting car and drive away. Police say the shooting occurred shortly before midnight, not long after Maduri retired.

The officers say the crime may be a case of "gang vengeance." Maduri was sentenced to a 10-month term in prison some time ago for a liquor law violation.

You Can Lose Fat a Pound a Day on a Full Stomach this way

Do Just These Two Simple Things—Fat Melts Away

Science has made important discoveries in fat reduction. The average fat person can now rip off fat a pound a day—four to seven pounds every week!—on a full stomach, with never a hungry moment. Thus it is foolish now to stay fat.

This is what you do: Take a teaspoonful ordinary Jad Salts in a glass of water a half hour before breakfast every morning. This reduces moisture-weight instantly. Also cleanses the system of the waste matter and excess toxins that most fat people have, and banishes puffiness and bloat.

Then do this about eating. FILL YOUR STOMACH—eat your fill—of lean meats, vegetables like spinach, cauliflower, cabbage, tomatoes, etc., and lots of salads. Eat a lot. Eat all you can hold. Don't go hungry a minute! Cut down on fats, sweets and desserts, bread. Eat any fruit for dessert.

That's all you do. Fat seems to melt away. The coarse lines of overweight give way to the refined ones of slenderness. You lose as much as a pound a day. You feel better than for years. For in this treatment you achieve two important results. The Jad Salts clear your system of toxins. *The diet takes off fat with food that turns into energy instead of weight.

If you're tired of being embarrassed by fat, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. You can get Jad Salts at any drug store.

*Note particularly—the salts are urged purely as a poison-banishing agent—not as a reducing. The change in food does the work.

NICOLA DENIED HALL SITE ORDER

Judge James R. Macfarlane today refused to order the payment of $1,400,000 for the F. F. Nicola town hall site, in Oakland. The opinion denied the demurrer asked by the Schenley Farms Company, in its action to compel the County Commissioners, County Controller and County Treasurer to close the Oakland site deal. It left the way open for the Schenley Farms Company to take the case before a jury.

The court held it couldn't adjudicate the claim of $150,000 fee for the sale of the property to the county, brought by Alderman John J. Verona.

In his opinion Judge Macfarlane said:

"The court is without authority to issue a mandamus except in a clear case. Whether there was such a contract (Verona contract) and if so, whether it was against public policy, so as to void the contract with the county, are questions that cannot be disposed of on this demurrer. There was no adjudication of this. There is nothing to suggest that the county officials knew or could know of this claim."

Controller Robert G. Woodside today said in view of the court's ruling, he certainly would make an investigation before the payment was ordered.

Ten days ago Attorney Oliver K. Eaton, representing the County Commissioners, appeared in court and argued that no claim ever had been presented to the County Controller by the Schenley Farms Company for payment, hoping to force such a demand. Today's ruling by the court, it is said, paves the way for an investigation by the Controller.

Prohibition Party Leader Dies at 74

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Thomas H. Hamilton, 74, Prohibition party candidate for many state offices, is dead. Hamilton, an architect, died last night after being ill a month.

His most recent candidacy was for auditor general last November. He drew the second largest number of votes on his party's ticket.

To make Children

EAT

Don't force children to eat! The girl or boy who has no appetite has stasis—which means the child is sluggish. But cathartics have caused more constipation than they ever cured! The "California treatment" is best—just pure fig syrup. Try this for a few days then see how eagerly your youngster will eat.

How to Conquer Sluggishness

Stimulate the colon and that child with a finicky appetite will devour everything set before him. Here's the simple treatment that does more for babies or older children than all the diets, fad foods, or tonics.

Nature has provided the only "medicine" you'll need to stir a child's colon muscles into proper action. California fig syrup. Pure, delicious, harmless. It acts on the lower colon—where the trouble is. It has no ill effects on the intestines.

Begin tonight, with this marvelous "California treatment." Any druggist has California fig syrup, all bottled, with directions. Use enough the first time to cleanse the clogged colon of every bit of poison and hard waste. Then just a little twice a week until the child's appetite, color, weight and spirits tell you the stasis is gone. Whenever a cold or other upset clogs the system again, use this natural vegetable laxative instead of drastic drugs.

WARNING

There are dealers who practice substitution. Be sure to protect your child by looking for the name CALIFORNIA on the bottle.

2 "COLD" REASONS WHY VAPEX IS BETTER

Common-sense facts that tell you what to do when you are suffering with head-colds

TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drop of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants (often offered as substitutes for Vapex) were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.

Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are said to be "just as good." But Science proves they are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

Vapex has one decided advantage over other methods of relieving colds. You breathe Vapex. Relief is almost instant—for the vapor gets directly to the real seat of a cold . . . the breathing passages. Salves, drops, gargles, and sprays are not likely to reach here. Because the breathing passages are a maze of hidden folds that only a vapor can penetrate naturally.

This is the reason why the first few deep breaths of the delightful Vapex vapor make you feel so much better—why breathing Vapex swiftly stops sniffles and sneezes . . . clears the head and nose . . . brings real relief.

And Vapex has also a decided advantage over many other inhalants. Unbiased tests prove that it has a superior germ-killing power. Since an unknown germ is thought to be the cause of colds, this important action of Vapex means greater safety and greater effectiveness.

You'll like Vapex. The vapor is pleasant as mountain air and just as refreshing. There's no mess . . . just a sprinkle on your handkerchief and at the ends of your pillow will bring twenty-four-hour relief. And Vapex is safe for babies as well as grown-ups.

Try Vapex for your next cold. Breathe it to relieve colds . . . and breathe it to help prevent colds.

VAPEX Months of relief for only 75c

Patricia Pitt's Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair

—With—

Patricia Pitt

There's an event this week which many young folks are anticipating—the Inter-Club dance Friday night in the Pittsburgh Field Club. And it's a benefit, so you can dance the evening through with a twinge of conscience.

Proceeds will go to the Barnabas Home and the Children's Home Society, Cooke Bausman, Jr., son of the Cooke Bausmans, tells me. He's chairman of the affair.

The Inter-Club, in case you don't know, is made up of 10 leading fraternities and sororities in the East End, representing different prep schools and the like.

Aiding Mr. Bausman are George Sanborn, Robert Smith, Barbara Jones, Dorothy Motherall, Willa Lee Colvin, Billy Mueller (a girl), Jack Ransom, Jess McCorkle and Richard Grove.

Robert Smith heads the advertising committee, including Mr. McCorkle and Richard Grove; Barbara Jones, the tickets, aided by Jack Ransom and Willa Lee Colvin; Dorothy Motherall, of patronesses, aided by Billy Mueller and George Sanborn.

Harold M. Seder Betrothed to Gotham Girl

Dr. and Mrs. Paul Abelson, of New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ruth Abelson, to Harold M. Seder, son of Mrs. Isaac Seder, of Pittsburgh.

Miss Abelson is a graduate of Barnard College, and her fiance is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh and of the Harvard School of Business Administration. A spring wedding will terminate the betrothal.

South Hill Club Entertained by Study Groups

A novel and highly entertaining evening was furnished last night by the study groups of the South Hills College Club in the Dormont New Century clubhouse. Each of the six groups was responsible for one event on the program, which opened and closed with a kitchen musicale, under the direction of Mrs. W. Kaye Estep. A "Show Boat" number with songs and dances was put on by the Monday evening novel group.

A club meeting as seen through the eyes of the member's children was a richly humorous episode; that ridiculously funny burlesque "The Fatal Quest" was staged by another group; then there was a satire on Clara, Lu and Em, in which all the affairs of the club were settled, and an amusing pantomime on "Is Marriage a Failure?" for which the lines were read by Miss Jean McClean.

Sister Visiting East End Home Of Dr. Dranga

Mrs. Mary Dranga Campbell, newly appointed director of work for the handicapped under the Brooklyn Bureau of Charities, is spending the week with her sister, Dr. Amelia A. Dranga, Callowhill street. Until recently Mrs. Campbell was executive director of the State Council for the Blind in Missouri. She has also been assistant editor and business manager of The Outlook for the Blind and was co-editor of the first directory of institutions for the blind in the United States and Canada.

As assistant superintendent of the Ohio State School for the Blind, and later as acting superintendent, Mrs. Campbell was brought into close contact with the problems of the youthful blind. And as executive director of the Pennsylvania Council for the Blind and the Missouri Commission for the Blind, she has directed and promoted work for the adult blind.

She is a member of the American Association of Social Workers, the National Conference on Social Work and the American Association of Workers for the Blind. She has visited and studied blind institutions in this and many foreign countries. Mrs. Campbell has also achieved recognition in other fields of social work, and she was twice decorated by the Jugoslavian government for her work with war orphans and in the rebuilding of the elementary schools in Serbia.

Distinguished Britons Are Among Century Club February Speakers

By MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

Two distinguished Britons are included in the list of February speakers at the Twentieth Century Club. Sir John Masefield, poet laureate, is scheduled to talk on poetry on the morning of the thirteenth and a fortnight later the Hon. V. Sackville-West, author of "The Edwardians," "All Passion Spent" and other internationally known books, will be the guest of the club. She is to speak on "English Social Life," a subject with which she is particularly familiar, being the daughter of Lord and Lady Sackville, of Knole, Kent, and wife of the brilliant diplomat and writer, Harold Nicholson.

The month's activities at the club begin with a drama reading tomorrow afternoon under auspices of the drama committee. Next Monday morning Henry Seidel Canby, author of the Saturday Review of Literature, will take up "A Defense of Reviewing." On Thursday comes the music and arts committee's musicale by Margery Selkovits, piano, and Samuel diPrimio, tenor.

The current interest committee will present Mrs. William Anderson, the club's parliamentarian and honorary member, at its luncheon on the sixteenth when she will show slides of and discuss "Collecting American Antiques."

James G. McDonald, chairman of the board of directors of the Foreign Policy Association, is to give an interpretation of international events under the topic "The World Today" when he comes to the club on the twentieth. The concluding event of the month is the Mardi Gras on the evening of the twenty-eighth.

Tuesday Musical Club Presents Ensembles

It was a gala day for the Tuesday Musical Club when Mrs. T. C. Donovan and her committee, composed of Anna Laura Cree, Jessie Yuille Yon and Virginia Byerly, presented the new ensemble division of the club yesterday afternoon in Memorial Hall. There were piano ensembles of 12 hands on three pianos and six hands on three pianos; a woman's trio, with obligato for two violins; a vocal group of eight voices, a duet, and to finish "Seraphic Song," by Rubinstein, with the entire personnel of the program appearing. Anna Laura Cree directing and Ida Mae Claudy, contralto, doing the solo part.

Westminster Club's Luncheon Set For Saturday

The Westminster College Women's Club will have its annual luncheon at the Keystone Athletic Club on Saturday with Miss Mary E. Turner, dean of women at Westminster College, as honor guest and speaker.

Jean McCrory Newman, contralto, will be the soloist. Mrs. Scott N. Watt, will preside, and the social committee, of which Mrs. H. H. Donaldson is chairman, will be in charge of the arrangements.

The afternoon's hospitality committee includes members of the executive committee, Mrs. T. P. Trimble, Mrs. R. C. McKelvey, Mrs. Donaldson and Miss Ruth Houston, Miss Clara Dickey, Miss Emma Campbell, Miss Mary McElree, Miss Mary Jamison, Miss Lois Logan and Miss Alice McCrory.

TRANSFORMATION DRESSES GAIN POPULARITY WITH BUSY WOMEN

SMART WOMEN are going in heavily for transformation dresses. These are the frocks which may be taken apart and made into something else—a cape which may be worn as a skirt; a scarf which can be wound about one's head as a turban, or a peplum sash which may be removed entirely and change completely the silhouette of a frock or coat.

* * *

THE NEWEST of all the transformation dresses are those which are designed with an eye to an entire day's wearing. They are so planned that a busy woman who leaves home in the morning—shops, goes to business, lunches out, plays bridge and dines in a restaurant, all without a moment's time for returning home for a change of costume—may be correctly dressed at each one of her occupations.

* * *

THE LITTLE jacket—attached or obivously separate—is one device. It is a means of changing both the line and the color plan of a dress. But simpler yet is the dress which has detachable sleeves.

* * *

IF IT IS in more or less classic line—as the dress in the sketch is—its change of sleeves is not very noticeable. Without the long tight sleeve, the dress is suitable for afternoon bridge, for dining out—even for the theater. With the sleeves—which are pulled on and off as easily as a glove—the dress is correct for business or shopping. It is fashioned of black marocain.

* * *

THE PUMP in the sketch is an adaptation, for town, of the classic sports pump. It is done in combined kid and suede.

Dodgers Lead Holdouts.
Old Star's Odd Record.
Luque Victor in Feud.
Gonzales Smart Catcher.
Japanese Runner Stays.
Value of Body Punches.

ONLY SIX OF 33 BROOKLYN MEN SIGN

WHEN MAX CAREY finally has his Dodgers rounded up they will look like contenders to be feared in the National League pennant race, but in all probability there is many a headache in store for the Brooklyn bosses before that round-up is completed. Whether the Dodger owners went deeper in the salary cutting than the rest of the magnates, or the discontent is due to a different cause, it's a fact that Brooklyn is having more trouble than any other club in either major league in signing its players.

Max Carey

The Flatbush outfit is walking away with the holdout championship, if it never wins anything else. Out of a total of 39 players on the roster, only six have been placed under contract up to date, and only three of the six signed are important—Lefty O'Doul, Van Mungo and Tony Cuccinello. At least seven regulars are known to be holdouts, with Dazzy Vance a practically certain addition. Coaxing that swarm of recalcitrants into the fold is apt to take more time than remains before the start of the training trip. Carey had planned to cut his squad to 30 players, but from the looks of things, with 33 unsigned, he will have a harder job bringing it up to that number.

AN ADDITION TO the odd pitching records in baseball is reported by the bureau of research. It has been found that during all the 10 years he served in the National League for St. Louis and Cincinnati, Theodore Breitenstein, one of the greatest left-handers the sport has known, and part of the famous old pretzel battery of Breitenstein and Peitz, never was in a game that ended 1 to 0.

Breitenstein was credited with many notable performances, including two no-hit contests, but at no time in his career did he either win or lose a 1-to-0 game, though other star southpaws of the past like Nap Rucker, Doc White and Eddie Plank pitched in 20 or more.

JOHN (BLONDY) RYAN, the shortstop purchased by the Giants from Buffalo, and who played at Holy Cross with Bots Nekola, Jim Shevlin and Gene DeSautels, will consider himself lucky if he can fill one position in the majors, but he was in seven for the Bisons.

Ryan played every position save pitcher and catcher and almost made a complete all-around record. Manager Ray Schalk arranged a game to let him try his skill at pitching and catching, but Blondy was injured and could not go through with it.

IT WAS WITH the smile of a victor that Pitcher Adolfo Luque sent his signed contract to Giant headquarters. For just a few days earlier, Catcher Mike Gonzales had been released unconditionally by the Cardinals. It gave Luque the decision in a long Cuban feud. The two were battery mates with Long Branch in the Atlantic League in 1913. Gonzales entered the majors in 1914. Luque, though he had a couple of trials previously with the Braves, did not become a fixture until 1918. Just where or when the vendetta started nobody knows, for it was Adolfo who recommended Mike to Boston in 1913, but for years Luque has been vowing that he would outlast Gonzales in the big leagues.

Mike Gonzales

AND NOW ADOLFO has made good. At 41 he is still in the fast set, whereas Gonzales, at 40, has passed out, unless some other club picks him up as a coach for young pitchers. It would be possible to do a lot worse. There is no smarter receiver than Mike, and he is one of the keenest of baseball students.

The way Gonzales kept tabs on the batting form of opponents was amazing. Harry Neily, baseball specialist of the Chicago "American," several years ago put Mike to the test during a railroad ride to Pittsburgh. Neily called off names at random from a copy of the week's National League batting averages, and Mike guessed within 10 points of what every player was hitting.

IN OUTLASTING GONZALES, Luque also gains the distinction of being the only surviving Cuban player in the big show. Several others besides this pair reached the main tent, the best of them being Marsans, Almeida, Cueto and Tuero.

Gonzales won't be seen in the bread line. He could teach economy to the man who coined the word. A famous telegram sent by the Cuban in 1924 illustrates his thrift. Mike Kelley was thinking of buying Moe Berg, then a shortstop, from Brooklyn, and wished to make no mistake, so he wired Gonzales to look over Berg and telegraph his opinion. The Cuban's telegram was a classic of brevity. It read: "Good field; no hit."

LITTLE TAIKA GON, Korean-Japanese runner, who finished the Marathon race in the Olympic games with one of the gamest efforts ever seen on any track, collapsing at the end when he had taken ninth place for his country, remained in this country to enroll as a student at the University of Southern California. He has shortened his first name to Tay, perhaps in honor of the Trojan football captain, Tay Brown, and is studying economics and physical education. It is his ambition to go back home as a coach.

IN PRAISING THE Olympic Village and the cordial feeling that existed among the athletes of the many nations represented, Gon puts Paavo Nurmi, the great Finnish runner, in a different light from that in which the latter has been pictured. He denies that the Phantom Finn was reserved and distant.

"I was surprised to read in the newspapers that Nurmi was cold and unfriendly," the Jap runner says. "I think he was the best friend I had in the Olympic Village. He coached me. We took the same kind of baths. He told me how to massage properly. He was fine and I never will forget him."

A DISCUSSION AS to the effectiveness of body punches in a boxing bout, as compared with those delivered to the head, barring solid smashes squarely on the jaw, brought from George Blake, veteran manager of Fidel La Barba, the opinion that body blows undoubtedly do the greater harm. He realizes it more fully than ever after what Seaman Watson did to La Barba.

George Blake

Blake observes that few boxers seem to know that, and that even fewer of them are good at body punching, which is difficult to master, because in boxing the guard is carried low, and to hit a man on a vulnerable spot it is necessary to open his defense.

BLAKE RECALLS THAT Joe Gans had a theory that the best place to hit a man was where you had just hurt him, whether on the head or in the body. "Let Gans land a punch that he knew had hurt," Blake relates, "and he'd keep pegging away at that spot until the other fellow was knocked out or so greatly weakened that he lost his speed and skill. Once I saw him knock a fellow down with a punch that landed high on the face, which ordinarily, is not a spot at which you would aim to score a knockout. But Joe knew his opponent was hurt, and when the floored boxer got up Gans commenced to hammer at the spot where the punch had landed. Two more blows to that spot and the fellow was down again. Half a dozen after that, and he was through. But Gans, to work on that theory, had to be the sharpshooter that he was. It isn't a theory that I'd recommend to any other boxer, because I never saw another fighter who could punch as accurately as Gans."

KID CHOCOLATE FIRST TO BE AFFECTED

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1—Kid Chocolate, the featherweight champion, who has taken 66⅔ per cent, or the fighter's end, of some $400,000 out of the country in the last five years, will now stay away at absolutely no charge at all.

He was barred over passport irregularities yesterday for a period variously estimated from forever to permanently, which is, I believe, customary in the case of those so ill advised as to choose the government as a sparring partner. As they say, the incident seems to be closed and so apparently is the career in America of at least one foreign prizefighter.

MAY HIT SCHMELING

The hint is more than broad today that there may be others. Max Schmeling, they say, might be the next. Primo Carnera also was mentioned. So were Marcel Thil, of France, claimant of the world middleweight title, and Seaman Watson, the Englishman.

The point is that the government is suddenly getting very technical, even to the extent of asking some Hollywood stars not to stay here and make fortunes any longer. Unlike the Hollywood stars, the papers of the visiting athletes may be entirely in order, but there are certain known discouragements, of which the so-called "nuisance value" is very great. This may take the form of an additional 25 per cent tax on the purses of foreigners, with the result that it would cost them less if they don't fight than if they do.

WOULD KILL MATCHES

I doubt whether that will prey heavily upon the conscience of our distinguished statesmen. They are less concerned about making a little money off foreign fighters than with preventing the foreigner from making it here and taking it elsewhere.

If the tax is levied, therefore, it will drive the heavyweight championship out of the ring for an indefinite period. It will kill the Schmeling-Baer fight. It will stop Carnera from meeting Jack Sharkey, and, altogether, it will leave only Sharkey to fight Mr. Schaaf, his stablemate.

W. & J. CHANGES GRID CARD

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 1.—Wash-Jeff's varsity football schedule for next fall was completed today with the substitution of Detroit University for Marquette University in the October 14 date.

Manager Wilbur Henry's announcement presents the schedule in its final form of 10 games on successive weekends, starting off with a clash at Pittsburgh, September 30, with the University of Pittsburgh.

Marquette has been tentatively listed for October 14, but Detroit also bid for the date, and was finally preferred because a trip to Detroit would be much shorter than to Milwaukee and because there are many Wash-Jeff alumni in Detroit clamoring for another appearance of the Presidents there.

Detroit has been given the right to shift the game to Friday night, October 13, if it sees fit. The complete schedule:

September 30—Pitt, at Pittsburgh.
October 7—Waynesburg, at Washington.
October 14—Detroit, at Detroit.
October 21—Xavier, at Cincinnati.
October 28—Carnegie Tech, at Pittsburgh.
November 4—Duquesne, at Washington.
November 11—George Washington, at Washington, D. C.
November 18—Temple, at Philadelphia.
November 25—Bucknell, at Lewisburg.
November 30—West Virginia, at Morgantown.

Palmer to Captain 1933 Trojan Team

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Ford Palmer, end, of Hollywood, has been elected captain of the 1933 University of Southern California football squad.

Tay Brown, captain of last season's squad, was awarded the Davis-Teschke medal for the most valuable player.

Wilson Makes Hit In Debut As Referee

MARTINSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Nattily attired in white, Hack Wilson, of baseball fame, made his debut as a boxing referee in West Virginia last night.

The chunky Brooklyn outfielder presided over six four-round charity bouts put on in his home town by the Martinsburg Post of the American Legion.

Wilson, whose pay with the Dodgers is reputed to have been slashed from $16,500 to $9,000 a season, donated his services. The crowd liked the way he handled the bouts.

LOCAL WOMAN GOLFER LOSES

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Feb. 1.—Mrs. L. G. Riley, of the Edgewood Country Club, Pittsburgh, failed to survive the second round of match play for the annual Miami-Biltmore women's golf championship here yesterday. She succumbed to Miss Bea Gottlieb, of New York, 2 up, in a thrilling 18-hole match. The New York girl had to sink her last putt on the final green to eliminate Mrs. Riley.

Miss Gottlieb had an advantage of 2-up on the first nine, but returning experienced trouble on the greens and Mrs. Riley squared the match on the sixteenth. On the seventeenth, the Pittsburgh woman's drive found the canal and on the eighteenth, her third shot was short in the face of a wind, causing her to lose.

Mrs. Riley forged to the front by garnering the first hole, but Miss Gottlieb retaliated with wins on the next two. She then added the sixth and seventh and Mrs. Riley took the eighth.

On the incoming journey, Miss Gottlieb made it 3-up by winning the eleventh and then Mrs. Riley rallied to take four of the succeeding five holes, dropping the fourteenth to square the match going to the seventeenth. Miss Gottlieb won the final two holes and the contest.

The cards:

Mrs. Riley, out	5	4	8	5	5	7	5	4	5	—48
Miss Gottlieb, out	6	3	7	5	5	6	4	5	5	—46
Mrs. Riley, in	6	6	4	5	5	6	5	6	6	—49—97
Miss Gottlieb, in	6	5	5	6	4	7	6	5	5	—49—95

The co-medalists, Mrs. Estella Drennan, of Tulsa, Okla., and Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, Mo., Western champion, romped through to easy victories. Mrs. Drennan disposed of Mrs. Blanche Fitzgibbons, of Hackensack, N. J., by 6 and 5, and Mrs. Hill overwhelmed Miss Ella Meyer, of Oconomowoc, Wis., by 10 and 8.

GAME AT TRINITY

The Clover Farms basketball team plays the Trinity Cathedral team on the latter's floor at 8:15 this evening, and desires games with other strong independent teams, preferably those having floors. For games, call Bill Corfield, Wellington 1174.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Boxing is definitely on the upswing here . . . And for the very good reason that once more the fans are getting something for their money . . . The recent shows at Motor Square Garden were darbs, with Harry Dublinsky, of Chicago, knocking out Frankie Bojarski, Ted Yarosz and Eddie (Kid) Wolfe staging their fine fight and Barney Ross, of Chicago, stopping Johnny Datto in windup features . . . The hurrying through of the shows by starting them on time and eliminating needless intermissions also has helped, putting a snap into the programs that has been lacking all along . . . Last Monday night's card at the Garden was by far the most satisfactory in years here . . . It was jammed full of action and disposed of within an hour, three knockouts helping to finish it off in crackling style.

Next Monday night we'll have Dublinsky back against Tony Falco, of Philadelphia, who recently pleased in a fine fight against Tony Herrera at the Garden . . . The winner of this bout can be matched with Ross or Herrera for another feature, and by that time the fans should be steaming hot for more . . . Meanwhile, the small Arena, on the North Side, presents a world champion in Midget Wolgast against Jackie Wilson, a local favorite, Friday night, and the Moose Temple offers a novelty in the way of an intercity show tonight.

Ross showed unmistakable signs of greatness in disposing so rapidly of Datto, a fight-hardened veteran who has given the local fans many thrills with his punch . . . Barney looks like the very best prospect in the lightweight class, and, on what he showed against Datto, will carry considerable Pittsburgh support when he boxes Tony Canzoneri for the title later in the year.

They tell a good story about Bobby Wolgast, former Atlantic City boxer, who recently was operated upon here to relieve a "punch drunk" condition, his case attracting a great deal of attention in the medical world . . . It has to do with the time when Bobby was a wow club fighter, a decade ago, and was meeting them all . . . Bobby Gunnis and Muggsy Taylor, Philadelphia promoters, wanted to match him with Pancho Villa, then the sensational flyweight champion, for an open-air bout in Philadelphia . . . They encountered considerable difficulty, Frank Churchill, Villa's manager, holding out for a $5,000 guarantee . . . He refused to take 25 per cent of the gate receipts . . . He finally won out and, on the night of the fight, the ball park was jammed . . . The battle drew $43,000, and netted the largest profit the partner promoters ever made on a show . . . Had he taken the percentage, Villa would have received more than twice his guarantee.

Speaking of Wolgast, here's a coincidence . . . Three of his best early fights were eight-rounders with Midget Mike Moran, Pittsburgh bantamweight, now a judge at local boxing shows . . . They were staged in Atlantic City and Philadelphia . . . Moran won one, Wolgast one and the other one resulted in a draw . . . When Wolgast came here for his operation he was strolling around downtown Pittsburgh when he happened across none other than Moran, whom he had not seen in years, and Mike took him in hand and showed him the town, directing him to the doctor's office and the hospital . . . Incidentally, Meyer Saul, a former local sports writer, now a hotel man and real estate operator in Atlantic City, was one of a group of men responsible for sending Wolgast here for the operation, from which Bobby is reported recovering in a satisfactory manner.—HARRY KECK.

LEWIS THROWS STEIN

PANCHO WHIPS BOB LEITHAM

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Little Pancho, brother of the great Pancho Villa, of the Philippines, won a 10-round decision from Bobby Leitham, bantamweight champion of Canada, before a mere handful of spectators at the Olympic Stadium here last night. The Montreal fighter weighed 118. Pancho 1½ pounds less.

Pancho built up a convincing lead in the early rounds, cutting Leitham's eyes and lips, but the Canadian staged a terrific finish which appeared to have the Filipino in a bad way.

Leitham, smeared with blood, drove into Pancho in the ninth and again in the tenth round with a two-fisted attack to the head; and had he been able to stave off his lighter opponent in the early stanzas, might have won the battle.

Watson May Box Tony Canzoneri

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(INS.)—Jimmy Johnston, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden has opened negotiations for a match between Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, and Seaman Watson, the British featherweight champion. Canzoneri agreed to make 131 pounds for Watson.

Johnston took this action after hearing unofficially from Washington that Kid Chocolate, the Cuban Negro, had been permanently barred by the U. S. immigration authorities. Johnston had planned to match Chocolate and Watson, but that battle is off until Chocolate can straighten out the tangle with the Immigration Bureau.

TARTANS PLAY NOTRE DAME IN SOUTH BEND

The Lineup

DUQUESNE		GENEVA
Feldman	F	Ginsberg
Birch	F	Aultman
Brenner	C	Reitsch
Moore (A.C.)	G	Manning (C.)
Reiter	G	Grahame

Referee—Yans Wallace. Umpire—Al Slack.

By JESS CARVER

Two squads of young men with very definite titular aspirations, the Durable Dukes of Duquesne and the Cunning Covenanters of Geneva College, Beaver Falls, will keep a basketball date in the Duquesne gymnasium this evening and the date will in no way resemble a petting party—unless the teams tonight do a complete about face and perform entirely different from the way in which other Duquesne and Geneva teams have in the past.

The contending teams, along with Pitt's Golden Panthers, are conceded top flight rank in the battle for the district championship.

HARD TO FIGURE

You can take your pick as to the team you think will win this ball game, though the chances are that the majority of the boys will string along with the Dukes. Neither quintet has been invincible this season (though the Dukes thought they would be prior to their second game of the campaign), so, having been beaten, neither will be playing under the strain that attends the protecting of a perfect record.

Figuring the game on the basis of comparative scores (a very, very tricky and risky way to view it, by the way), it would appear that the Covenanters might hold a slight edge. Both teams beat Carnegie Tech, the Dukes with points and energy to spare, and Geneva only after a great second-half rally, but Geneva walloped Westminster, while the Titans knocked off the Dukes right here in Pittsburgh. Make what you will out of that.

For a time it was feared that the locals might have to go into action minus one of their most important members, Donald (Dudey) Moore, crack guard, who twisted a knee in the game with Carnegie last week. Heroic efforts on the part of the team physician and Trainer Kimbrue Jackson, the only five and five (tenor) singer in the ranks of college trainers, have just about effected a cure and Dudley will start at his guard position.

DAVIES PERTURBED

Coach Davies, of the Dukes, who would be perturbed if his team only was playing the G. A. R. Home varsity, is in his usual state of "nerves" and will be worse by game time and worse still the first time he thinks Coach Ken Loeffler's Covenanters are getting away with a block play. Davies will start Feldman and Birch at the forwards, give Irving Brenner another try at center and use Moore and Reiter at the guards. Jim McDougall will be a member of the bench contingent . . . for the start at least.

The Genevans will match Duquesne's array of crack performers with four right capable young men of their own in Cliff Aultman, brilliant forward, young Hymie Ginsberg, Art Grahame, the tricky southpaw and Capt. Manning, who can pop 'em with his eyes shut when he's half way "on." At center, Coach Loeffler can start either Cliff Bietsch, a sophomore, or Stewart Schmitz, a junior, both of which need experience and will spot the Dukes plenty in that department of the game. In fact, the ball game may be won or lost at the center position tonight.

A year ago, the Dukes won the game here, 28 to 25, but lost in an extra period at Beaver Falls, 37 to 35. The long series between the schools ever has been a nip and tuck affair, one team seldom being able to win both of the annual tussles. Tonight's fray is slated to get under way at 8:15 o'clock, with Yans Wallace and Al Slack, slated to do the whistle tooting.

Tech, Irish Meet

Carnegie Tech's varsity tossers are enroute to South Bend today, having entrained from here this morning, and tonight will engage Notre Dame on the Ramblers' court. After tonight's fracas, the Tartans will rest for a couple of weeks while they trade wallops with their mid-term examinations.

Coach Maxie Hannum hopes to be able to use Red Silverman against the Irish. Red has been hors de combat since the Wash-Jeff encounter, with his shoulder in a cast. The cast was removed Monday and yesterday, the little fella went through a long workout with little difficulty. With Red and his cleverness in there tonight, the Tartans will be more formidable than they have for some time.

In other games in the district tonight, Westminster goes to Greenville to tackle Thiel, Indiana plays at Slippery Rock and Potomac State meets Concord. Temple faces Georgetown in an Intercollegiate Conference clash at Washington.

CHAMPION CUBS QUICK TO SIGN CONTRACTS FOR 1933

VEECK EXPECTS TROUBLE FROM CARDS, BUCS

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—If Col. Jacob Ruppert really strikes a bad snag in his salary debate with Babe Ruth this year, he should send for William L. Veeck.

Veeck, a sports writer who made good as president of the Chicago Cubs, is the contract signing champion of the major leagues, perhaps of all organized baseball. Contract trouble? He never heard of it in his office.

EXPERT AT SIGNING

For several years now, the hot stove league has been looking for contract trouble in Bill's office with nary an important development. After the Cubs won the National League pennant in 1929, the Cub president surprised the baseball world by signing up every player in record-breaking time. Even Hack Wilson, who caused a stir from his Martinsburg, W. Va., retreat with holdout talk, left the Cub front office with a happy smile and a contract stuffed in his pocket five minutes after he entered.

This year hasn't been an exception. As Veeck arrived back in Chicago after a business trip to the Pacific Coast, he had every important contract signed. He called on Babe Herman, a celebratedd member of the holdout brigade while at Brooklyn, and said he got the Babe's name on the dotted line long before paying the dinner check. Today he said he had everybody signed and happy with a few exceptions and that the remainder were expected to line up within a few days or as soon as they could come to town.

FEARS BUCS, CARDS

Veeck fears the St. Louis Cardinals, as well as the Pittsburgh Pirates, in the 1933 National League pennant fight. He said:

"You can't ignore those Cardinals. They are bound to be dangerous because of their pitching. The Pirates are going to be tough, too, because of the increased hitting they are bound to get from Lindstrom. But we should be a greatly improved club, too. We have a sounder club and better reserves."

Veeck still has one important paper to sign, but he expects to do that within a week or two. That concerns the sale of the Albany club of the Eastern League. The latest reported buyer in the market is Joe Cambria, of Baltimore.

Baseball Briefs

WARHINGTON—Earl Whitehill, pitcher obtained from Detroit in exchange for Firpo Marberry, has signed his 1933 contract, the Senators announce today.

DALLAS, Tex.—Clarence (Bubber) Bernard, catcher for Rochester, of the International League, has been signed by Dallas, of the Texas League.

NEW YORK—The New York Giants today announced the signing of Paul Richards, young catcher, who was with Brooklyn at the start of last season.

BROOKLYN—The signed contracts of Gordon Slade, reserve shortstop, and Coburn Young outfielder, were gathered into the portfolio of the Brooklyn Dodgers today. Shortstop Glenn Wright signed late yesterday.

CINCINNATI—Done Bush today named Jewel Ens, former manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, as coach of the Cincinnati Reds. Ens was coach for Bush when Donie piloted the Pirates from 1927 to 1929, and succeeded Bush as manager the following two years. Last year he was coach and assistant manager for Bucky Harris, of Detroit.

BOSTON—Signed contracts are trickling into the Red Sox offices here. The latest to arrive are those of Pitcher Gordon Rhodes, Spread Jolley, catcher and outfielder, and Pitcher Gordon McNaughton.

PHILADELPHIA—Rube Walberg, veteran pitcher, has returned his 1933 contract to the Athletics unsigned, it was reported here today. Manager Connie Mack would neither deny nor affirm the report. Pitcher George Earnshaw was reported en route here from the Pacific Coast for a salary conference with Mack.

KEYSTONE CLUB PAIR ADVANCE

TODAY'S MATCHES

8:30 p. m.—Paul Schweinberg, K. A. C., vs. Schneider, K. A. C.
4:30 p. m.—E. J. Roche, P. A. A., vs. R. Hofer, K. A. C.
5:15—E. Reno, K. A. C., vs. C. A. Landau, K. A. C.
6:00 p. m.—R. Wallace, Downtown Y., vs. F. Koubek, unattached.

Keystone Athletic Club players continue to dominate the play in the novice handball tournament, which is under way on the K. A. C. courts, as the field turns its attention to second and third round matches.

In yesterday's play, two Keystone Club players won first round matches and two more advanced to the third round. Those gaining the latter round were P. P. Smith and R. Hofer. Others to enter the second round were J. Parker Smith, of the East Liberty Y. M. C. A.; E. J. Roche, of the P. A. A.; R. Wallace, of the Downtown Y. M. C. A., and F. Koubek, an unattached entry.

In second round matches today, Paul Schweinberg, of the K. A. C., who drew a bye yesterday, meets a clubmate, D. J. Schneider. Roche takes on Hofer; Reno meets Landau, of the K. A. C., who drew a bye in the first round, and Wallace encounters Koubek.

The club handicap squash championship will be at stake tomorrow when W. D. Bickle meets C. J. Casper, Jr., at 5 o'clock. Bickle reached the final round by defeating Theos Manos, while Casper advanced at the expense of C. L. Fagan, Jr.

Yesterday's summary:

FIRST ROUND

E. S. Reno, K. A. C., defeated N. Ward, K. A. C., 21-17, 21-12.
D. J. Schneider, K. A. C., defeated Jos. Y. Poling, Downtown Y., 21-..., 21-7.
J. Parker Smith, East Liberty Y., defeated E. B. Asherafi, K. A. C., 21-18, 12-21, 21-8.
E. J. Roche, P. A. A., defeated N. P. Hennebusch, K. A. C., 21-8, 21-15.
R. Wallace, Downtown Y., defeated G. Lenko, Downtown Y., 21-15, 21-...
F. Koubek, unattached, defeated W. C. Burns, Westinghouse Club, 21-5, 21-7.

SECOND ROUND

P. P. Smith, K. A. C., won by default from J. Albrecht, K. A. C.; R. Hofer, K. A. C., defeated J. Cain, K. A. C., 21-11, 21-6.

Gibby, Here, To Talk With Seals Tonight

W. E. BENSWANGER GEORGE GIBSON SAM WATTERS

President, manager and secretary of the Pittsburgh Pirates conferring at headquarters upon the return of Manager Gibson to the city to conclude arrangements for the signing of players and the spring training trip. Tonight, at 7 o'clock, Gibson will tell the fans of his plans during the weekly radio broadcast of the Trained Seals of the Sports Department of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph over WCAE. Harry Keck, Sun-Telegraph sports editor; Charles J. Doyle, baseball writer, and Jess Carver, college sports scribe, also will be on the bill. This is a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph picture.

COCHRAN LEADS IN CUE PLAY

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Welker Cochran, of 18.2 balkline fame, led the field in the stretch run of the 1933 world's three cushion billiard championship today but Johnny Layton, the flaming redhead from Sedalia, Mo., was just starting one of his great dashes.

Layton, all but out of the race with two early defeats, rushed back into title contending position 1 st night by defeating young Jay Bozeman, of Vallejo, Cal., in one of the most dramatic duels of the tournament, 50 to 49 in 54 innings.

LAYTON TRAILS

The victory sent Layton ahead of Bozeman with a record of six conquests and two setbacks and right behind the fast flying Cochran, who defeated Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, the dethroned champion, in a matinee battle, 50 to 23, in 36-innings.

Bozeman, whose play has been one of the surprising features of the championship battle that started January 16, was still in the fight, however, with five victories and two defeats. Each of the three leaders must play nine games before the final Friday night.

It was Cochran who stood in the best spot of the title contending trio today. He still had Bozeman and Layton to play, but was a heavy favorite. Bozeman faced stiff opposition from Kieckhefer in the main match tonight.

While Cochran took only one hour and four minutes to polish off Kieckhefer yesterday, the Bozeman-Layton match was a thriller from start to finish.

BATTLE THRILLER

Bozeman, a fast, wide open player, took the lead halfway in the match, lost it and rallied with a great final inning to tie the score. In his half of the fifty-fourth inning, he clicked off four points to tie the match, but missed a heart-breaker or his fiftieth point. Layton then took the floor and shot the winning point, a pretty follow shot.

The standing of the players:

Player	W.	L.	HR.	Avg.	TP.	TI.
Welker Cochran	6	2	11	56	335	316
Johnny Layton	6	2	11	55	384	369

Toppino On Hand For Millrose Meet

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Emmett Toppino, co-holder of the world's record at 60 yards, has arrived from New Orleans to defend his sprint title in the Millrose A. A. games at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

The Chunky former Loyola University star, a member of the Olympic relay team, will meet Frank Wykoff, among others, in an invitation 50-meter dash. Last year, Toppino swept through the indoor track season without losing a race.

POTOMAC STATE WINS

BLUEFIELD, Va., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Potomac State College with Orfett and Smith rolling up 14 points apiece, romped through Bluefield College 65 to 40 last night. The score at half time was 29 to 21 for Potomac.

JACK GIBBONS VICTOR

DULUTH, Minn., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Jack Gibbons of St. Paul, Minn., son of Mike Gibbons, knocked out Everett Gay, Duluth middleweight, in the second round of a scheduled six-round bout here last night.

CRACK SCHOOL FIVES WIN

By JULIUS LEVIN

The schoolboy basketballers went through a program of non-league battles last evening, but the fact that all they were getting out of the contests was glory and experience did not keep the lads from providing some hectic action.

Only one City League quintet saw action, the crack Perry five, unbeaten leaders in Section II, taking over the formidable W. P. I. D. quintet, 37 to 29, in a fast game.

Swissvale captured the only league game scheduled, Ed Paulie's charges defeating Wilkinsburg, 27 to 14.

Several strong W. P. I. A. L. fives stepped out of their sections for intersectional action and got what they went after. Bellevue almost doubled the score on Zelienople, winning, 30 to 16. Ambridge nosed out the strong Monessen Greyhounds, 32 to 29, to add another victory to Moe Rubenstein's credit. Tarentum won over Kittanning, 20 to 7; Waynesburg nosed out Mapletown in a low-scoring affair, 16 to 15.

Beaver Falls ran wild against Charleroi, 39 to 10; New Kensington nosed out Ford City, 26 to 24; Canonsburg beat McDonald, 35 to 15; Elizabeth upset Monongahela, 23 to 20, and Salina tripped Leechburg, 22 to 21.

Brownsville was surprised by East Pike Run, 25 to 16; Burgettstown topped Trinity, 22 to 20, and Washington won over Jeannette, 20 to 18.

FLOOR LEADERS PLAY TONIGHT

FLOOR GAMES TONIGHT

Tarentum Y. at Gahrings.
Foresters at Goodwill.
Soho Varsity at Stone.
Trojans at Kingsley House.
Brodericks at B. & O.
Brentwood at Willigs.
North Siders at Goose Goslins.
J. W. Lodge at Bidwell.
Rankin Croats at Telek Jacky.
Red Shields at Newman Club.

The North Siders and Willig passers face stern tests tonight in the independent basketball campaign as they tackle the Goose Goslin and Brentwood quintets, respectively. These contests top a classy independent card.

Brentwood, with Tommy Lawry in the lineup, will furnish the Willigs a severe test on their own floor. The North Siders must invade the South Side Market House for their battle with the Goslins.

In other contests, the Tarentum Y. M. C. A. five takes on the Gahrings, Foresters meet Goodwill, Soho tackles the Stones, Brodericks appear on the B. and O. floor, J. W. Lodge five tackles Bidwell and the Rankin Croats meet Tecky Jecky.

In last night's encounters, the Hurleys downed the Penn Reserves, 27 to 17; Protectory took over Peerless, 64 to 40; Parmalee beat Kingsley House, 45 to 41; St. Mary's upset Youngstown, 30 to 17, and the Monarchs beat the Friendship M. E. outfit, 20 to 13.

FAIRMONT BEATEN

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Marshall College turned back the Fairmont Teachers, 29 to 23, in a hard-fought basketball game last night. The Big Green pulled away from the Teachers in the second half after leading 16 to 14 at half time.

ANZAC HORSES ON COAST

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—A half-brother of the immortal Phar Lap, Pillow Fight, 4-year-old brown gelding, was here today to seek added glory for Australia on the local race track. The thoroughbred has been entered in the $50,000 Agua Caliente handicap which Phar Lap won so easily last year in his only start in America before his death.

Pillow Fight is by Night Raid, Phar Lap's sire.

The 4-year-old arrived here last night in a motor van from Los Angeles, where he was taken from aboard the liner Mariposa after the long trip from Auckland.

Pillow Fight is owned by David J. Davis, of San Francisco, who brought Phar Lap to Agua Caliente last year. Davis also brought with Pillow Fight a 3-year-old sprinter, Tea Trader, which he plans to enter in the Speed Handicap, February 12.

Swim Teams Planned For Keystone Club

The Keystone A. C. is to be represented in competition by a star squad of male and feminine swimmers. Swimmers desiring to try for the team are requested to communicate with Coach James R. Taylor at the club.

VENZKE'S FATHER DIES

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—William H. Venzke, father of Gene Venzke, Penn freshman and holder of the world indoor mile record, died on his farm at Gainesville, Fla., members of the family were informed today. The elder Venzke, who was 59, moved from Pottstown to Florida two years ago, after having resided here about eight years. He leaves a widow and eight children. The body will be brought to Pottstown for burial.

Fight Results

At Los Angeles—Little Pancho defeated Bobby Leitham, 10 rounds; Sar Frisco and Sammy Goldman, drew, 4 rounds; Al Romero defeated Stanley Kranberg, 4 rounds; Eddie Trijulli defeated Johnny Jones, 4 rounds.

At Winston-Salem—Chuck Burns and Bill Jordan drew, 10 rounds.

At Seattle—Leonard Bennett and Sammy Santos drew, 6 rounds.

At Stamford, Conn.—Rudy Marshall defeated Leo Larrivee, 10 rounds.

SLAVIAS BOAST STAR ARRAY

By TOM BIRKS

When the Cleveland Slavias, crack professional soccer team, step on Greenlee Field one week from Sunday to meet Curry in the second round of the National Open competition, Western Pennsylvania soccer fans will see the greatest eleven ever to be banded together in the Buckeye state.

Two years ago, a number of local fans journeyed to the Forest City to watch the Slavias clash with Fall River in the final of the National challenge cup competition. Despite the fact that Fall River won the game in the closing minutes of play on a wonderful goal from the foot of McNab, it was the concensus of opinion that George and Ralph Caraffi, former local stars, were on a fine team.

STARRED FOR DUNLEVY

That season, the Caraffis were stars of the outfit. They still are. The Caraffi boys learned the rudiments of soccer on Dunlevy's historic field, years ago when soccer in this district was far more strenuous than it is today.

At that particular time, Gallatin, Sturgeon, Heidelberg, Morgan, Cecil, Bridgeville, Castle Shannon, and Beadling all had great teams, and competition was keen.

Ralph was the first to leave the district to play in Cleveland; George, better known as Pie, joined the Heidelberg team, then in search of national amateur honors.

Finally Pie decided to join his brother in Cleveland, and upon many occasions since, they have been thorns in the side of Pittsburgh teams trying to advance in cup play at the expense of the Slavias.

MUST STOP CARAFFIS

The Curry slogan possibly will be, "Stop the Caraffis." But stopping the former Dunlevy boys is like trying to stop Buff Donnelli—it isn't being done often these days.

This game easily will stack up as the outstanding game in Pittsburgh since La Flamme came here to play Heidelberg in the national amateur tourney. The Clevelanders will show Pittsburghers just how soccer should be played from a scientific standpoint, and the Buckeye aggregation will put enough bustle into the 90 minutes of combat to make it interesting.

Motor Square Cuts Prices for Boxing

Motor Square Garden has decided to cut its boxing prices in keeping with the times, and announces that hereafter, until further notice, there will be no more $3.30 tickets. The scale will be $1.10 and $2.20.

This is good news for the fans, especially in view of the fact that the caliber of matches at the Garden has been improving and a number of good bouts are tentatively arranged for the balance of the season.

GOOSBY TOPS BOXING CARD AT MOOSE

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Pittsburgh vs. Detroit inter-city professional bouts—Frankie Goosby vs. Joe Rugguzoni, Charley Baxter vs. Billy Kelly, Anson Green vs. Andrew Angelino and Ray Winbush vs. Walter MacTaglen, 8 rounds each, and Johnny Birck vs. Johnny Hazel, 4 rounds, Moose Temple.
Battling Gizzy vs. Bruno Columbo, 10 rounds, Clarksburg, W. Va.
Tony Herrera vs. Wesley Ramey, 10 rounds, Grand Rapids.
Benefit Amateur bouts, Natrona.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Although 'Ted Yarosz' wining streak has been snapped, Pittsburgh still boasts an undefeated main bout fighter. He is Frankie Goosby, Negro middleweight, originally from California, who headlines the card of four eight-round intercity battles between Pittsburgh and Detroit boxers at the Moose Temple, downtown, tonight.

Goosby, a clever boxer and a knockout puncher, never has been beaten in his entire career. He is the protege of Cherokee Tom Cox, who dates back to the days of Joe Gans and Jack Johnson as a boxer, trainer and manager. Cherokee has been associated with Baby Joe Gans, a recognized star, and Young Jack Thompson, who became world welterweight champion. Goosby started as a kid with Thompson.

SEEKS BIG GAME

Since coming here, more than a half-year ago, Goosby has impressed the fans each time out, but he hasn't had a real opportunity against a topline opponent. It is the plan of the local promoters to grab off someone like Vince Dundee or Ben Jeby for him sooner or later, but it had better be sooner, for both Frankie and his manager are tired of waiting and are planning to pull stakes for Boston if something big doesn't bob up for them here shortly. Goosby is too good a boxer to be kept idle.

Ruggizzoni is virtually unknown here, but he comes with the reputation of having been a good fighter in his native Italy and in South America and up around Detroit. He has boxed Frankie Battaglia twice, Morrie Sherman and others known to the fans.

Charley Baxter, local lightweight, boxes Billy Kelly, Detroit representative; Anson Green, Homestead Negro middleweight, meets Andrew Angelino, of Detroit, and Ray Winbush, Hill-Negro welter, takes on Walter MacTaglen, of Detroit, subbing for Danny Levine, in the other intercity bouts, and Johnny Birek is matched with Johnny Hazel in the four-round opener.

Between Rounds

The Garden got a great break when both Harry Dublinsky and Tony Falco won handily in their bouts in Philadelphia, Monday night, for the pair are matched against each other next Monday. Dublinsky beat a good opponent in Eddie Cool, while Falco stopped Santiago Zorilla in the first round.

Bunny Buntach and his lightweight boxer, Joe Marcus, are in Detroit for the latter's bout with Tracey Cox at the Olympia Arena, Friday night. If he wins this bout, Marcus will be signed to box Wesley Ramey in Grand Rapids.

There is talk of a return bout between Mose Butch and Ross Fields, following Butch's win, showing in stopping Joe Palazzola at the Garden Monday night.

Midget Wolgast, the flyweight champion, will arrive tomorrow for his bout with Jackie Wilson at the Arena on the North Side Friday night. The Midget is noted for his speed in getting around the ring and hitting, but in Wilson he will find himself pitted against the fastest of the local mittmen. Joliquette Elverille and Joey Spegal will box the eight-round semi-final.

Irish Kane wants a Battling Gizzy fight for his Marty Cormier, and also has George Panka, the heavyweight, ready for action.

Carl Montebano, Italian middleweight, of Braddock, would like to get a crack at the Alabama Kid. Carl, who stands more than 6 feet tall, is only 20 years old and has been showing steady improvement in his work.

With 149 entrants in the fold, the Allegheny Mountain Association, A. A. U., Junior boxing championships will get under way in the Keystone A. C. gymnasium tomorrow night for a four nights' grind. The leading talent from all over the Tri-state district is entered, indicating along with the size of the field, that the event will be greatest in the history of the fixture.

The Alabama Kid will be back on the bill at the Garden next Monday night, meeting Rosy (Kid) Baker in the eight-round semi-final. Baker, who hails from Indiana, has boxed Sammy Slaughter, Paul Pirrone, Jackie Purvis and Billy Rose.

The Garden card was completed today with the signing of Max Elling and Freddie Edwards for a return bout in the second slot, under and Johnny Hazel to meet Johnny Hornick, of Brownsville, in the opener.

CUP PLAY LIST TIES RECORD

PARIS, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Apparently spurred on by the possibility that the Davis cup may be wrested from France, where it has been held for six years, the record-equaling total of 33 nations today was entered for the 1933 international tennis play.

The entry list is three greater than in 1931 and 1932, and is equalled only by that of the boom year of 1923. South Africa, Peru and Argentina are the three new challengers.

The entries by zones:

North American—United States, Canada, Cuba, Mexico.
South American—Argentina, Brazil, Peru and Uruguay.
European—Australia, Austria, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, England, Egypt, Finland, Germany, Greece, Holland, Hungary, Ireland, India, Italy, Japan, Jugo-Slavia, Monaco, Norway, Poland, Rumania, South Africa, Spain and Switzerland.

Bickel and Caspar Gain Squash Final

W. D. Bickel, with a handicap of minus eight, will oppose Jean Caspar, a scratch player, in the final of the Keystone Athletic Club's handicap squash tournament at the K. A. C. at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Bickel gained the final by defeating Theos Manos, a minus four player, 12-15, 11-15, 15-9, 15-11, 15-12, and Caspar achieved the ultimate round by nosing out C. A. Fagan, Jr., who had a handicap of minus four, 15-10, 15-12, 13-15, 15-16, 15-12.

The club's annual Class A squash tourney will get under way next week.

SIR MALCOLM AIMS HIGH

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Hollow-eyed from illness, but casual and affable as ever, Sir Malcolm Campbell sailed into New York for his fourth assault on the world automobile speed record he set at 253.968 miles an hour on the tide-packed sands of Daytona Beach, Fla., last winter. He landed yesterday.

He based his record hopes this time upon increased power, but for the future he visions the development of a machine which, under favorable conditions, may move the world record for land speed beyond 350 miles per hour.

RECOVERING FROM FLU

The knighted Englishman, slender and looking anything but his 48 years, is recovering so rapidly from an attack of influenza that he can see no reason for postponing the loosing of his monstrous Bluebird II on the Florida sands February 10. He said:

"I'm a bit weak and slack and everything is too much trouble. But I expect all that to pass in a day or so. I'm ready to drive as soon as beach conditions warrant."

When he boarded the Aquitania last Wednesday, Sir Malcolm had a high temperature, and quite a "nippy" case of influenza. He was confined to his stateroom until Saturday, but has recovered rapidly since.

Smilingly Campbell dodged a direct answer to all queries as to the speed he expected to attain this year in his assault on the world record he set at 206.9 in 1928, lifted to 248.8 in 1931 and established beyond any but his own challenge at 253.968 last year. He said:

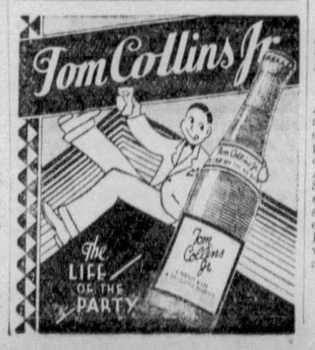
"Your guess is as good as mine, really. I haven't any idea what speed Bluebird can make. The horsepower has been increased from 1,450 to 2,600, the weight increased, and she has more resistance. I haven't driven her since she was rebuilt.

"But of course I shouldn't be here, you know, if I didn't think I could break the record."

EXPECTS NEW MARK

There were indications galore, however, that he has expectations of exceeding at least 265 miles an hour in continuing the speed supremacy Great Britain still maintains on land and in the air, although Gar Wood broke her domination of the waterways by beating Kaye Don's speed boat record last year.

Sir Malcolm said he saw no limit to the speed an automobile could attain, provided the forward progress of tire-making equalled that of engines and stream-lining. He said his tires were tested to hold safely at 300 miles an hour.



BAMBINO EAGER TO REMAIN 'REGULAR'

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—There was a time when Babe Ruth thought he would be quite happy to round out two full decades in major league baseball and then retire to the bench or grandstand, occupying a sort of "emeritus chair" in the national game. He's changed his mind.

The year 1933 will mark his twentieth campaign in the American League, for which he is already well prepared, even though unsigned. He has not the slightest idea of making it a farewell tour. The Babe said:

"Say, I couldn't even think of quitting baseball, the way I feel now. It's not only money I can make out of it. I wouldn't know what to do with myself if I was out of the game. I ought to be able to play regularly at least two or three years more, maybe longer. Barring accidents, I do not see why I shouldn't be in every game with the Yankees this year."

For the time being, at least, Ruth has cast aside any thought of managing a big league club as a climax to his career. The one thing he is dead sure about is that he will never play in the minors, manage or own a minor league club. He said:

"If I ever did manage a big league club, though, I would like the chance to build it up and not take over a ready-made outfit."

RED SOX HAVE APPEAL

The Boston Red Sox would appeal to him, on that account as well as for sentimental reasons. Many big league men would like to have Ruth to back to the Hub, for just that purpose, but, as he puts it himself:

"Where's the money for that now?"

Ruth does not think Jimmy Foxx will break the Babe's home run record of 60, though the Athletics' first sacker came within two of equaling the mark last year. In fact, Ruth is not so sure he has much chance now to better that mark himself, adding regretfully:

"If I still was hitting 'em in the Polo Grounds, I could get 60 easy.

"Foxx is not likely to get so many this year for the reason that with Simmons out of that lineup, pitchers will pass Foxx more often. Last year they passed Simmons to get at Foxx and it didn't work. That boy can sure sock 'em. There is never any doubt about it when Jimmy connects. He's a great kid, too."

Jock To Speak At Jeannette Fete

Dr. John B. (Jock) Sutherland, head coach of the University of Pittsburgh football team, will be the principal speaker at the banquet to be given the Jeannette High School grid squad in Jeannette this evening.

Jeannette was co-champion with New Castle and McKeesport in the class AA division of the W. P. I. A. L., going through the season undefeated and untied.

Jeannette also will receive an award for winning the Westmoreland County championship.

JERSEY ACTION HITS STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Stocks had a poor start on the new month today, taking a gloomy view of current dividend news and unsettled trade prospects.

Although the market bore up well under the widely-expected announcement of a cut in United States Steel's preferred payment, it encountered a higher hurdle in omission of the extra dividend by Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Announcement of that decision, made around noon, brought a fairly brisk selling flurry throughout the list, with ensuing losses ranging from fractions to more than 3 points. Bonds were irregular, though fairly firm in the rail category. German loans dipped when news of the grant of power to Hitler reached the market.

Extreme losses of 1 to 2 appeared at intervals in American Tobacco B, du Pont, Case, Allied Chemical, New York Central, Union Pacific and United States Steel common. Utilities as a group were heavy, and rails, after early steadiness, finally gave way to the general trend. Some selling appeared in rubber shares, apparently on rumors that prices might be lowered.

However much Wall street had been prepared for the change in United States Steel Corporation's preferred dividend, the passing of New Jersey's extra, a fixture since the third quarter of 1929, apparently was a surprise. Nevertheless, the company itself recalled that in the 1931 annual report it had warned that dividends unearned could not be indefinitely carried along. The oil industry in recent months has had periods when conditions appeared to be improving, but prices are still subject to weakness.

Reports from the steel industry were fairly encouraging, in that production has been stepped up further, but operations are still far from a profitable basis. Last year's income statements for the industry are virtually complete, and the aggregate deficit makes a very tidy sum.

Foreign exchanges were marked by weakness of the Canadian dollar. Immediate reasons for this break were lacking in the news, and Wall street was inclined to attribute it, at least partially, to speculative operations on the theory that Canada's currency might be adjusted closer to the pound.

COTTON VALUES RULE STEADY

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Cotton futures opened steady, unchanged to 2 lower on steadier Liverpool cables which were offset by March liquidation. March, 5.92c; May, 6.04c; July, 6.17c; October, 6.36c; December, 6.50c; January, 6.52c.

March eased to 5.87 and July to 6.14 or about 3 to 5 points net lower, but trade buying continued and the market was steady at the end of the first half hour.

The selling tapered off after the decline to 6.01 for May, and the market was steadier during the middle of the day. There seemed to be increased trade demand as prices approached the 6-cent level for the May delivery. At midday the market was quiet and steady at rallies of 3 or 4 points from the lowest, and within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations.

BARDOLPH CASE UP FEB. 6

The first of a series of trials which again will bring the spotlight of publicity upon alleged embezzlements by which the closed Franklin Savings and Trust Company is said to have been defrauded of about one-half of its assets has been slated for February 6, when C. A. Bardolph, former president, will be tried on charges of embezzling about $300,000.

Subpenas had been issued by the District Attorney's office today, calling witnesses to appear against the banker on that date.

Attorney George F. Taylor, former deputy secretary of banking in charge of the institution, under whose regime the alleged defalcations were discovered, declared:

"The Banking Department has been preparing for these cases for many months. We feel we have adequate proof with which to convict those guilty of ruining the Franklin bank."

Taylor will represent the Banking Department as prosecutor in the trials.

Jersey Action Reflects Chaotic Conditions In Oil Trade

Omission of the extra dividend by Standard Oil of New Jersey reflected the chaotic situation in the oil industry, with crude oil selling at 52 cents a barrel and facing the threat of another reduction. Wall street was surprised, however, counting on the company's dipping further into its huge surplus to maintain the extra payments. This led to heavy selling in the stock. Warning that this action might develop was given last year by Walter C. Teagle, president, who declared that the company's future dividend policy would be governed by earnings. Net for 1931, the last report available, was only 34 cents a share.

The Jersey board in a statement explaining its action, reiterated Teagle's warning that the use of past earnings to pay dividends could not continue indefinitely and that there must be an improvement in business to justify the continuance of the present rate. The board assailed the high gasoline taxes, declaring that this combined with the business decline has reduced the consumption of petroleum. The statement also emphasized the overbuilt condition of the petroleum industry, stating that further expansion would result in needless duplication of present facilities.

General Motors' directors will not meet today, as had been widely expected, due to a shift in dates whereby the dividend will be acted upon in the future on the first Monday of February, May, August and November. While the tendency in the street is to look for declaration of the regular dividend of 25 cents a share, yesterday's action by the steel corporation on its preferred dividend, naturally tends to raise some doubts. The corporation had a balance of 8 cents a common share for the first nine months of last year, and this it is believed was reduced by final quarter operations. A good part of recent selling in the stock has been for foreign account, according to street gossip.

Dropping of the dividend on Steel preferred to a $2 annual basis proved a good deal more drastic than the Street had been inclined to anticipate. The rank and file had set itself for a sharp cut, but a majority had looked for the establishment of a $4 basis. Presumably, however, the Steel board was moved to the deeper cut by the disposition to establish a rate which it could maintain with a minimum of drainage on reserves, at least until it can be seen how conditions will shape up for the final half of the year.

The report of the Steel Corporation for the final quarter proved somewhat more favorable than had been expected, but the smaller operating loss than had been indicated in unofficial estimates was due chiefly to bookkeeping. The net loss from operations before depreciation and interest was only about $650,000 smaller than in the September quarter, at $3,828,272. But special charges made to cover proportion of subsidiary overhead were reduced to $2,331,293 in the final quarter, from $5,716,637 deducted in the preceding period. The loss after such charges was $16,831,007, against $20,871,709 in the September period. The dividend reduction was explained by the record-breaking loss for the year, placed after dividends at $91,987,961, against $49,236,881 in 1931.

Railroads have practically abandoned their plans to push for legislation which would relax the collateral security requirements of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to permit advancement of unsecured loans to the carriers. This matter was discussed about two weeks ago in New York with President-elect Roosevelt by Commissioner Joseph B. Eastman, of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Speaker Garner, it is learned, advised Roosevelt that such legislation would have no chance of enactment at this time. Railroad quarters on the other hand, while conceding the futility of their hopes, say they have not entirely abandoned the idea.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Inland Steel Company and subsidiary companies report for the year ended December 31, last, net loss of $3,045,628 after all charges, including interest, depreciation and depletion. This compares with net profit of $1,265,600 in 1931, equal to $1.05 a share on 1,200,000 shares of capital stock outstanding.

Pressed Steel Car Company and subsidiaries report for the year ended December 31, 1932, net loss of $1,436,171, after interest, depreciation, etc. This compares with net loss in 1931 of $722,157 after interest and depreciation, and after crediting income account with $523,802 transferred from reserves created prior to January 1, 1931. Profit and loss surplus at the close of the year was $9,904,095, compared to $13,436,656 at the end of 1931.

Commercial Solvents Corporation in 1932 earned 50c a share against 83c a share in 1931.

Archer Daniels Midland Company reports for six months ended December 31, 1932, net profit of $413,831 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equal after dividend requirements on 7 per cent preferred to 54c a share on 549,546 shares of common. This compares with net profit of $544,875 or 56c a common share for the like 1931 period.

LOCAL RESERVE AREA TRADE EXPANDS

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 1—The Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland today reported the general level of business in the Fourth Federal Reserve District at the close of January as considerably above the low point touched in mid-summer of 1932. Pittsburgh is included in the Fourth District.

The automobile industry, engaged in new model production, is regarded as the sustaining element of commercial trading because of the stimulant it has provided the steel industry.

Although industrial employment in Ohio during December was unchanged from the preceding month an increase in the number of hours worked was reported in Western Pennsylvania.

STEEL GAINING

From the middle of December to the third week in January, iron and steel production followed the seasonal pattern quite closely.

Youngstown mills maintained a 14 per cent rate during the last half of December and improved to 19 per cent by January 14 only to recede slightly in the third week.

Production of bituminous coal at fourth district mines declined slightly from November to December, although output in the latest period at 11,288,000 tons was 2.5 per cent larger than in December 1931.

COAL OUTLOOK BETTER

Considerable improvement occurred in coal production in the closing months of 1932, but the output for the entire year in this section was 24 per cent below 1931.

Coal prices early in the new year declined somewhat both on domestic and steam sizes and conditions in the industry, in the mining as well as the distributing fields, continue unfavorable.

General Motors To Meet Monday

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The quarterly meeting of the General Motors Corporation directorate, previously held for dividend action on the first Wednesday of the month, will be held next Monday, instead of today.

There was some confusion about the date in Wall street today, until it was explained at the offices of the company that the directors in November had changed the time of the meeting to the first Monday of the month, which will make the February meeting fall on the sixth.

Markham Resigns From Farm Board

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(AP.)—Edgar Markham today resigned as secretary of the Federal Farm Board and accepted a post with the Grain Committee on National Affairs, an organization consisting of grain exchanges.

Markham began service with the Farm Board as administrative assistant to Alexander Legge, its first chairman. Soon after Legge's resignation, he was appointed secretary of the board.

Jenkins Television Receivers Appointed

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 1.—(INS.)—William S. Bergland, of Wilmington, and Leslie S. Gordon, of Ridgewood, N. J., today held appointments as receivers for the Jenkins Television Corporation, a Delaware concern. They were named by Judge John P. Nields in United States District Court.

Pennsylvania Oil Drilling Declines

OIL CITY, Pa., Feb. 1.—(AP.)—The Derrick says 92 Pennsylvania grade oil wells were completed in January, with an estimated daily initial production of 157 barrels.

The group includes seven dry wells and 30 gassers.

During December 104 wells were completed, with a daily production of approximately 332 barrels.

Story of Difficulties Caused by Heedless Use of Wealth

Sue and Her Mother Arrange To Take Their Place in World of Leisure

CHAPTER III.

"Forgive me for being so slow about it, Charlie." Yes, he was coming around, at last, to the topic. "But I suppose it's always a bit of a shock to a girl's parents. To the father, anyway. It's hard to realize that a girl is grown up. And I'll confess my mind's been pretty full of this other thing ever since the wire came last night. I'll say this—I like you. I believe in you. Well, here—" He thrust out his hand. Charlie gripped it. And for miles, then, the pair of them smoked on without words.

Mr. Hemingway knocked a long ash off his cigar with a reflective little finger. "Mrs. Hemingway doesn't see this as I do, Charlie. Not quite."

"Oh?"

"She's had a pretty tough time of it, in some ways. I won't say we haven't been happy. But it's been a struggle. And there's been a lot of things she'd like that she couldn't have. You know how it is. We've never had a real car, for instance. Of course, there's been things I'd like, too, but . . . Charlie, I think perhaps I'd better let you in on this—Mrs. Hemingway was pretty disturbed when I said it last night—the first thing, I said it . . . Charlie, I'm not going to touch that money."

"You're . . . not . . . ?"

"Not a cent of it! Oh, I know how people feel about those things. It doesn't matter where the money comes from as long as you've got it. All that. But Lou Stinson was a crook. A racketeer, that's what he was. Just a professional gambler. I've never approved of him. Broke with him 25 years ago. Wouldn't have anything to do with him. That being the case, how can I accept his dirty money now? How can I?"

AFRAID OF MONEY

Charlie was speechless.

"It was a blow to Mrs. Hemingway when I said that. I confess I don't know just what I'm going to run into tonight. Be rather a . . . you see, women don't . . . Oh, well!" He sighed, and turned to the window. "I think I'm afraid of money, Charlie. Real money, I mean. Big money. Oh, a little, of course . . . reasonable comfort. But big money seems to do something to people. It changes 'em. Hardens 'em. You know what I mean. And dirty money like Lou's . . . honest, Charlie, I couldn't look myself in the face if I . . . anyhow, I'm going to take a stand. It'll mean some feeling, I'm afraid, but . . . yes, sir, I'm going to take a stand. I've got a little. Not much, but a little. And Mrs. Hemingway's got the bonds her mother left. We've never touched any of that . . . with a daughter coming along, you know . . ."

The train was rumbling into Coventry station when he broke out again. He was certainly pretty strung up. Couldn't hold his thoughts on any other topic . . . You've seen what money does to folks, Charlie. We've all seen it. They go wild. It isn't just the waste and the dissipation, but the whole country is bowing down before the Golden Calf." Across the station platform and out through the parked cars and along the street he talked excitedly. "It's the emphasis on things. Things! Instead of principles. We're all snarled up in your possessions. As a people, we've gone plumb materialistic." On and on, almost preaching it.

CHARLIE CONFUSED

Charlie, more confused than before, ate his dinner at the boarding house in moody silence. Mr. Hemingway's extraordinary attitude brought relief at first. If only he could stick to it! But somehow he hadn't sounded very strong. And Charlie couldn't help wishing he hadn't bought those cigars. They revealed a good deal; more, thought Charlie grimly, than the nice old boy realized. He loved good things. The hankering for adventure was in him. His first reaction was fine, wonderful, but those cigars . . .

Confusedly, Charlie knew that he had seen, during the ride out to Coventry, straight into a man's soul. A kindly man who had somehow never been quite equal to life. A wistful, beaten man. A man with appealingly old-fashioned ideals, but also with a wife and a daughter. And Charlie's spirits after dinner, as he got into his rattly little car to drive around there, were leaden.

There was a new car in front of the privet hedge; very shiny, a sedan. Mrs. Hemingway and Sue stood excitedly by while Ed Tomlinson, from the garage, explained its good points and opened a door to exhibit the whipcord upholstery and the newest sort of cigar lighter and things. Mr. Hemingway stood over by the hedge, with the clipping shears in his hand; but he wasn't clipping. He was watching the scene with a furtive look on his unhappy face.

Sue smiled excitedly and waved when Charlie drove in behind them and stepped out of his dingy little coupe. Then she beckoned him to join them, and did a pretty dance step, a sort of pirouette.

But Charlie stood motionless. He heard Ed say (Ed was a good salesman), "Why don't you hop in and let me run you around? Get the feel of it." But Mrs. Hemingway replied, "That's not necessary, Ed. I'll take it. Pay for it tomorrow, if that's all right." And Ed said, "Oh, sure! Arrange the details to suit yourself."

CRUISE PLANNED

Mr. Hemingway came slowly over to the young man, who seemed to have been struck by a sort of paralysis. Guardedly he remarked—"I found things going rather faster than I'd anticipated, Charlie. She can be pretty determined when she's stirred up."

Charlie was staring at the new car. He knew the price exactly—$3,200, plus freight and extras. A really good car. And Mrs. Hemingway hadn't consulted her husband. She'd said, "I'll take it." Hmm! You could see that Sue was excited, too. There, she was beckoning again!

Mr. Hemingway's voice again fell on his ears, that troubled, guarded voice, saying: "She's talking about taking Sue on the North Cape cruise. In a week. There's room on the ship. She telephoned today. It seems to be all fixed up. I refused to go. I'm going to stick right at my job. That's one thing I . . . Why, we aren't even sure that . . ." He moved back to the hedge, muttering something or other.

Sue cried, "I'll tell you, Mother—let Charlie take us for a drive! That's all right, Ed! You can go. Or shall we drop you at your house?

"It's only a step, thanks," Ed replied. "Good-night." And he walked jauntily away.

MOTHER DIGNIFIED

So! He wasn't to see Sue alone. Humph! Slowly, very pale, Charlie stepped forward, desperately telling himself that he mustn't seem to sulk. But had they gone completely crazy? Apparently. After all, how could you tell how you'd act if a remote cousin suddenly slapped you right in the teeth with eight or ten million dollars? Maybe he'd be crazy himself. Take Mr. Hemingway, over there, unhappily snipping along the hedge. Hadn't he dashed right out and spent $27.50 for a box of cigars? You simply couldn't talk with them. Have to be careful. Sit on the lid. The North Cape cruise, eh! That hurt . . . It was a wonder the neighbors weren't all out here. You could bet your life they were peeking out the windows, anyway.

So he got in behind the wheel. "Peach of a car, all right," he said. He had to say something. Sue was climbing in beside him, but her mother made her sit in the back. So he drove alone in the front seat like a chauffeur. Sue squealed a lot over the car. She thought it rode wonderfully. Millions of dollars and shiny new cars and North Cape cruises and new clothes—things like that filled her head. You could tell.

And her mother—who was a large woman and had always before seemed amiable enough—sat up very dignified (Charlie could see her in the mirror over the windshield) and discussed the things they'd have to buy. She thought the best steamer trunk was the kind that lay flat and slid in under the berth, but when you pulled it out you lifted one end and then part of it stood right up and opened out for you with coat and skirt-hangers and convenient drawers down one side.

Not until they returned, two hours later, could he catch Sue alone—just for a moment—on the front porch. Mr. Hemingway had gone upstairs to bed. His wife was moving around on the ground floor.

So Charlie, fiercer than ever, confronted Sue. "Well . . . ?" he asked. As if it meant something. "Well . . . ?"

"Good night, Charlie. You were a darling to drive Mother around like that. I'm a wreck. Aren't you going to kiss me good night?"

"Is that all? Just good night?"

"But honest, dear, I tell you I'm simply a wreck. And I have to get up early in the morning."

"How about this North Cape thing? Are you really going?"

Now she fixed her lustrous brown eyes on him. Her brows drew slowly together. "Charlie! What's the matter? Can't you understand how wonderful it is?"

"I suppose you're going to try to tell me it doesn't make a difference!" He blurted that out, hotly. It wasn't wise, but that is what he did.

"Don't be silly! Of course it doesn't! Nothing makes any difference."

"Oh, but Sue . . ."

"I should think you'd want me to be happy, Charlie."

"Oh, I do! Of course! But to go away right now . . . for months . . . you'll meet a lot of men . . ."

"Oh come! I have met a lot of men."

"But just playing around that way . . . idlers . . ."

"You'd better come in, Sue dear!" Her mother's voice, very cool yet with a chilling note of triumph in it. "Don't forget we're taking the early train tomorrow."

"Coming, Mother! Goodnight, Charlie."

She was gone. The screen door struck against the spring device on the jamb, bounced once or twice and then stayed shut.

She'd asked him to kiss her goodnight, but he hadn't.

And it didn't help any, thinking it over, driving aimlessly around town in the creaky old coupe, to reflect that it was nobody's fault but his own.

Synopsis

Young Charlie Janes, $25-a-week stockroom clerk, becomes engaged to Sue Hemingway just as her family unexpectedly inherits the fortune of "Lucky Lou" Stinson. Next morning, Charlie meets her father and asks him if Sue told him the news.

Now Go On

"I should think you'd want me to be happy," said Sue.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

All records were broken at the Memorial Theater, McKeesport, Saturday when the grand jester of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Komic Club called the meeting to order. The first record to fall by the wayside was that of attendance. More members were in their seats when the meeting opened than ever before; this was due largely to the new time at which the meetings are held. Heretofore, the meetings opened at 1 p. m. Last Saturday the doors of the Memorial Theater were opened at 10:45 a. m. and the meeting started at 11 o'clock.

The second record to fall was that of the number of members who took part in the vaudeville program. The week previous found 34 boys and girls taking part in the show. Last week there were 58 acts of singing and dancing with 69 boys and girls taking part.

GIVE SHOW

They were:

DANCING SCHOOL

At the Enright several of the old pupils of the Enright dancing school were seen taking their limbering up exercises before they settled down to mastering the different steps and formations which are being taught them by Miss Dolly Fritz, conductor of the class.

Those in Miss Fritz's class last week were: Betty Jane Leach, Jean Moroney, Shirley Goldbetz, Thelma Long, Alexia Staub, Shirley Weisbroad, Rhea Rothman, Betty Moroney, Dorothy Conley, Jean Long, Ruth Weinthaw, Alexia Cunningham.

The shoe scrambles held for boys and girls were won by the following: Girls: Rhea Rothman and Jean Moroney; Boys: Thomas Blackburn and Clarence Brock.

Alexia Cunningham and Ruth Weinthaw next offered a tap routine and sang two songs, "Fit As a Fiddle" and "Goofus." Later making another appearance and singing "I'm The Meanest Gal In Town."

"Toto," the little fat boy, as he is known to all, acted as master of ceremonies and sang "Little German Band" and "Tom Thumb's Drums." Manager Frank Roberts acted as accompanist and also played several selections on the organ.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAYS

Congratulations to the following boys and girls, all members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theatrs Junior Komic Club, who are celebrating their birthdays today:

More Holidays Will Solve Problem

If they want to get down to that five-day week we'll help 'em plenty.

At present we have only 12 national holidays. But we have many local interludes we would gladly help the other states celebrate.

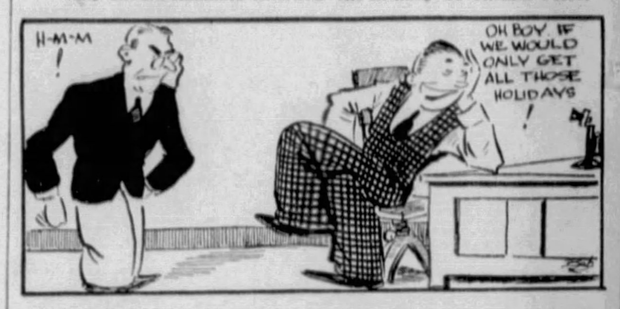
There are exactly 44 different kinds of holidays in various sections of the nation which the home boys keep selfishly to themselves. Add the other 12 and you have two months' vacation for everybody.

Why should California be miserly about Raisin Day. Let us in on that one. We eat 'em also.

How about peach blossom time in Georgia? Even though it is snowing at the time in Maine we know the folks up there would like the day off.

We were in San Francisco on Gaspar de Portola Day. De Portola discovered the Golden Gate on his last Gaspar. So the native sons celebrated up to, but, not including the Eighteenth Amendment.

Why should Alabama celebrate the birthday of Thomas Jefferson and leave us out? And why does Bunker Hill Day remain sacred to Boston? We refuse to be swindled out of two magnificent chances to hang up the dinner pail and the overalls.



Idaho has a Pioneer Day. Nevada an Admission Day and there's a Robert E. Lee Day in the South. Seward has his day in Alaska and Louisiana capers in commemoration of the Battle of New Orleans. Porto Rico is one of our island states and there is no reason why it should hog Dr. Barbosa's birthday. Make 'em all unanimous and we'll help to carry the bass drum past a given point.

We haven't got enough general holidays, anyway. Little old Vermont is very miserly with the Battle of Bennington. It seems to be a secret in spite of the fact that we won that one.

California sneaks over another one with Luther Burbank's natal day. And back here in the East us poor mugs think those guys are working all the time. We declare ourselves in on Luther.

Give us all a fair whack at the bat. We can just about use 60 holidays a year, especially if six or seven arrive in one string. That would give us a five-day week every week. A mere dozen legal holidays speaks badly for us. If our great men had been really great we shouldn't have to work at all.

Cold ABORTION

(with lemon juice)

Have you ever tried aborting a cold? When you abort your cold, it's gone; the system is rid of it! The lemon juice treatment will do it. Squeeze two full-size lemons in a large glass of very hot water and drink without sugar. First, take three tablets of Pape's cold compound an hour apart. This clears the head, dries the nasal passages, reduces any fever. The lemon juice then drives all cold symptoms right out of the system. Bedtime is best. This treatment will abort the worst cold overnight. One cold compound tablet will check a cold at any time, for several hours; then when night comes you can get rid of it by abortion. Any druggist has Pape's cold compound. It's perfectly safe. Try it, and you'll never go back to half-way remedies.

AN OPEN LETTER TO MR. WEISSMULLER,

Today we publish this annoying picture of Johnny Weissmuller as he will appear in his latest jungle picture. While we are not exactly narrow, we feel that Mr. Weissmuller is going just a little too far in his eagerness to display his brazen brawn. At a time when the country is menaced by economic discontent, along comes this Apollo in a shameless attempt to foster domestic discontent. Husbands of America, it seems to us, have enough troubles right now without being held up to ridicule. Comparisons are odious. But that seems to make little difference to the average wife. Please, Mr. Weissmuller, put on a vest—before you catch cold.

Not An Unfair Tax

The Assessment on Personal Property Helps to Lighten the Real Estate Owner's Burden.

Many persons in Allegheny County are being called upon this year to make a personal property tax return who heretofore were scarcely aware that there was such a tax. Naturally there is a good deal of grumbling about it.

It does seem unfair to levy on small savings accounts and stockholdings. Those with only a few hundred dollars, such as the aged man and elderly woman whose complaints were published in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday, might well be exempted from the tax, just as those with very low incomes are exempted from the federal income tax.

On the whole, however, the tax is fair. It provides a means of compelling the well-to-do who do not own real estate to contribute to the maintenance of the state government and thus eases somewhat the excessive tax burden of the home owner.

The personal property tax has been collected in a haphazard manner in previous years. It is notorious that many who should have paid have evaded payment.

The Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes deserves credit for the vigorous effort it is making to collect the tax this year from all from whom it is due.

Plan to Abolish Slums

The Proposed Housing Legislation Would Benefit Families with Low Incomes and Others, Too.

John Ihlder, executive director of the Pittsburgh Housing Association, is campaigning for the enactment of legislation which would authorize the creation of limited dividend housing companies.

It is proposed to take advantage of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's willingness to help such companies build houses for families with low incomes.

The program calls for the abolition of the slums and the erection of modern sanitary buildings.

Similar legislation was introduced in the first of last year's special sessions of the Legislature but failed of passage, it is charged, because of the greed of Philadelphia politicians. They are said to have planned to acquire certain slums, and then to demand an exorbitant price for the property.

Abolition of the slums not only would benefit those compelled to live in the poorest quarters of the cities. Squalor gives rise to disease and crime, which are a threat to the welfare of all.

A Way to Cut Pay

Mansfield's Bill, If Passed, Will Riddle the Excuse of Reluctant County Officials.

County Commissioner William D. Mansfield, who is also a state Senator, has rendered a service to the cause of governmental economy by introducing a bill which would authorize public officials whose salaries are fixed by statute to take a voluntary pay cut of 15 per cent by returning that amount to the public treasury. The bill provides that in case they take this action they shall have no right to reclaim the money subsequently.

The bill, if enacted, will destroy the excuse that is being offered by certain county officials for their refusal to take a voluntary pay cut. These officials have been pointing out that their salaries are fixed by law, and they cite a case in which an officeholder who did not take all his pay later went into the courts and demanded the unpaid balance, and got it.

The County Commissioners have indicated it is their intention to take a voluntary pay cut. The other high-salaried officials, such as the Common Pleas and Orphans' Court judges, 17 of whom receive $14,000 a year, will be "hard-boiled" indeed if, in the face of this commendable example, they continue to refuse to make any sacrifice for the benefit of the hard-pressed taxpayers.

Recreation for the Idle

Wholesome Activity Is Necessary to Keep Up the Morale of the Unemployed.

The number of users of the Carnegie Library has increased 49 per cent since 1929; the normal rate of growth for a three-year period is 18 per cent.

The library has been a godsend to the unemployed. But not all idle men are able to spend hours of their daily leisure in contentedly reading. Recreation of other kinds must be provided to maintain their morale.

Here is where the Federation of Social Agencies and the Recreation Committee of the Community Council are doing good work. They have obtained the use of church rooms, old school buildings and halls, where free musical, athletic and dramatic entertainment is provided.

It is estimated that 75,000 families in the Pittsburgh district have no money left for entertainment after buying the necessities of life.

The social agencies are asking for help in the form of additional buildings and more volunteer workers to supply and supervise recreation. It is a call which should make strong appeal.

The Primary Saved

It Has Disadvantages, But Is Preferable to the Convention System.

Thanks to Senator Frank J. Harris and other independent Republicans, as well as to the Democrats and the lieutenants of William S. Vare in the Legislature, the Republican state organization's plan to abolish the direct primary and substitute the old convention system of nominating candidates has been defeated.

This is a victory of no little importance for the voters of Pennsylvania.

The primary system has disadvantages. It is costly, and encourages demagogues. But it is preferable to the convention system.

Conventions are too easily controlled by professional politicians. Independents have little or no chance. The popular will is thwarted.

Government by the people is best promoted by the direct primary.

Hatching an Empty Shell -:- -:- By Nelson Harding

This costly and imported egg,
A hollow one turns out to be
A disappointment to the bird—
An empty shell, as you can see.

Small wonder if the eagle's shocked
To see that egg, cracked open wide,
Revealing only emptiness,
Excepting for hot air, inside.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Mrs. Solomon Says—

Verily, verily, the hunter seeking wild game carrieth but ONE weapon at a time.

* * *

But she that hunteth the wild bachelor must go forth armed with a net, a gun, a trap and a heart of steel.

* * *

For she pursueth a whole MENAGERIE!

* * *

Go to. The Lord hath made men to marry, but they have sought out many inventions; and she that would ensnare them must be fleet and subtle.

For not ALL men are as the foolish housefly, which is caught with honey and perceiveth not his danger until he is entangled.

* * *

Lo, one man walketh boldly, like unto the bear, seeking conquest and defying a woman's enticements. Yet, when the trap is hidden and baited, he strideth blindly therein, and his "taming" is easy.

* * *

And yet another is as the fish, which must be angled for with patience and "played" with skill, and oft slippeth off the hook before he is landed.

* * *

And another is as the wild bird, which surrendereth not until he hath been winged and maimed. Yea, only when he is laid low and cannot defend himself will he submit to ANY damsel's pettings. And none but a trained nurse shall capture him.

* * *

And there is he that, like the rabbit, keepeth always THREE jumps ahead; but which, if caught alive, resigneth himself cheerfully to his fate and becometh sweetly domesticated.

Yea, and there is he that, like unto the horse, must be lured with coaxings and sugar, lest he bolt at the first touch of the halter.

* * *

And he that, like unto the deer, is fleet and shy and trusteth to camouflage to hide his susceptibility.

* * *

And he that, even as the housecat, accepteth all thy pettings and flattery and permitteth thee to feed him—but can never be TIED!

* * *

Lo, the pursuit of the Eligible Thing is the sport of damsels and the pastime of widows. But she that bringeth back her trophy deserveth many plaudits, and her face should adorn all the newsreels.

* * *

For she hath braved many dangers and suffered many defeats, and hers is the triumph of skill over brute WON'T-POWER.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Hail the Caesars! Arthur on the West Coast and Irving on the East. They are two eager-eyed brothers, typical of those who churn Broadway's furious froth into golden blobs. They make a considerable sum just being happy. Arthur is a highly-paid movie gag man.

Irving is a lyricist who garlanded "Tea for Two" and other songs with gay lilts. Also, he is one of White Way's most accomplished story tellers, with a gift for dialect. Almost any night, he may be found at a back table at Dinty Moore's; jutting impudent pinnacles of mirth.

The Caesars came out of the ruff-scuff of New York pavements, finely whetted for the sharp persiflage of Broadway. Irving was the constant companion of Sam Harris for years, but, lately, has been seen everywhere with the unsmiling George White, a companion nearer his age.

Neither of the Caesars has an office nor reports to superiors. Gypsy-like, they wander from cafes to theatrical offices and studios. Each also happens to be a grand listener.

* * *

To newspapermen who know him, the late Larry Fay (public enemy No. 3) was a genial braggart who liked to give the idea, with offhand simplicity, that he was a tough mug. Everybody would tell you that Fay was a slugger, but nobody ever saw him slug. He was childish in his conceit to be acclaimed a big shot in the flashy speak-easy world in which he moved. I never ran into him that he didn't, in a thunderclap of enthusiasm, give the impression he held gangdom in the hollow of his hand. He was tricky, with Broadway cunning, but, like all the rest, from "Legs" Diamond to Arnold Rothstein, "went out" broke.

* * *

The most unusual of the types wandering in the helter-skelter of Larry Fay's confusing orbit, is Tommy Guinan, brother of Texas. He is a good-looking young man with a punctilio of dress and manner. At dinner, he will be seen at a table of the club he operates with his white-haired mother and father. He rarely takes a drink, talks modestly in a modulated voice, and with never a touch of profanity.

* * *

The few remaining boarding houses in New York are around Morningside Park. I called at one to see the young son of a friend, a lad seeking a toe-hold in the big city. The landlady, with the hourglass contour of the '90's, who responded to my bell-pull, apologized for spasmodic burbles with: "I always get hiccups after eating radishes." I somehow liked that. The young man would not be home for some time, but she had read my column and wouldn't I come in and rest a minute? I did. In the shadowy parlor, we discussed those tartly human topics so seldom heard any more, the genetics of white bean soup, deceits of butchers and superiority of bacon rind over the mustard plaster.

* * *

Indeed, our discussion became so warmly intimate that we aired mutual theses about the raising and handling of dogs, employing the frank but pleasing patois of the small town veterinarian. I came away feeling that life had not entirely lost its buz-fuz. And she is coming to see us sometime.

* * *

In Morningside Park, there were more baby carriages than I've seen in years. Not the little pink and blue go-carts, pushed about like lawn mowers, but ample four-wheeled contraptions in basket weaves. Hanging inside were a glitter of toys, receptacles for fresh whatyoucallems and an array of teething rings and nursing bottles. I fancied that these roomy lullabyes had gone out, too.

* * *

Incidentally, near the shuddery abyss of the elevated gantries, known as "Suicide Curve," sweeping around One Hundred and Tenth street, I saw the artist, Joseph Urban, scanning the neighborhood in corrugated contemplation. I wonder what special beauty his practised eye saw there.

* * *

I am a book reader who, in the enjoyment of a good tale, salvages a suppressed excitement in scouting ahead to see how many pages are left. Last night, I was skimming forward in this fashion when I came upon a dozen starkly blank pages. It was a book-binding error, but I blinked, wriggled my fingers before my eyes and let go the dandiest scream since Ab Adkin caught his foot in a balloonist rope at the Gallia county fair.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

She can't understand why she's always making blunders.

She doesn't want to make them. She'd give anything, she says, not to make them. And it isn't as if she were stupid. She's plenty bright; smart enough to tackle the toughest jobs; has tackled them often, with wonderful results.

Yet she goes on making the most idiotic mistakes; balling up things that the silliest little sap of a girl could do easily.

"What possesses me?" she cries in desperation. "No one wants to succeed more than I do. Ever since I can remember, I've hated failure and dreamed of being a big success—of making my mark. Yet, over and over, I destroy my chances by some inexcusable slip which, honestly, I can't explain."

Sounds familiar, doesn't it? You've known people like that. Been through spells like that yourself. Made the most maddening mistakes—and have never been able to understand why. What's the answer? Perhaps you'll find it—now.

"EVER SINCE I CAN REMEMBER, I'VE HATED FAILURE AND DREAMED OF BEING A BIG SUCCESS."

There's the secret. Get the picture!

A discontented spirit, hating "failure"—hating the shabbiness and monotony and obscurity of unsuccessful lives — reaching out greedily for pleasure and power—dreaming of success.

Years of struggle and disappointment, with that wistful dream brightening the darkness. Just a dream at first—an occasional, comforting glimpse of better times to come.

Then — the dream growing stronger. Growing to be a secret habit. Becoming more and more of an addiction. Until it became ANOTHER LIFE—a secret, inner life, into which one could escape from the ugliness of reality, from the bitterness and dreariness of commonplace existence.

Years of outward struggle. Years of inner dreaming. Until the dream became more real than the struggle. Until the body went on, almost automatically, doing despised chores, obeying disagreeable commands—while the mind escaped it all to dwell in those Castles in Spain.

Hateful to come out of those Castles in Spain; but one had to, sometimes. Some job had to be done which the body couldn't carry on alone. So, reluctantly, one came back through the little door—got on to the job.

But it grew harder and harder to come back. Sometimes one came back almost sleep-walking. Still drugged with dreams. Impatient to be gone again. Hurrying through the motions of industry, only half hearing, only half seeing the actual world around one; yearning to escape again into the dusky, sweet twilight of Make Believe.

Then, suddenly, the rough, harsh awakening. Something had happened. There'd been a blunder—a shameful, inexcusable mistake.

"BUT WHY?" SHE CRIES. "I DIDN'T MEAN TO MAKE A MISTAKE. NO ONE WANTS TO SUCCEED MORE THAN I DO. ALL OF MY LIFE I'VE DREAMED OF SUCCESS."

Why did she blunder? Why do you blunder? Why do I?

BECAUSE WE'RE NOT REALLY ON THE JOB. WE'RE NOT DOING THE THING WITH THE WHOLE OF US. OUR BODY IS WORKING BUT OUR MIND IS SOMEWHERE ELSE. WE'RE ONLY HALF SEEING. ONLY HALF HEARING. ONLY HALF CARING ABOUT THE REALITY BEFORE US.

So, half asleep we blunder. Blunder dreadfully. Mess up work. Mess up lives. Forget jobs. Forget honor. Forget all the honest, tiresome bonds and obligations which hold real life together. Throw away the pride and profit and peace of real life—for the empty iridescence of a Castle in Spain!

The War Debts and Their Relation to Business

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY
Former Secretary of State.

Second Installment of an Address Delivered Before the National Retail Dry Goods Association in New York City.

I do not wish to be understood as speaking derogatorily of economists in general, although as I struggle through their conflicting testimonies, I am often reminded of John Bright's saying in the House of Commons that "the trouble with great thinkers is that they so often think wrong."

One thing, however, will not be disputed and that is, that the chief concern of economists is to refute all other economists. The progress of the science seems marked by the steady rejection of its own claims to accomplishment and the continuous substitution of new for discarded axioms.

* * *

World Commerce Is Dislocated

That the commerce of the world is sadly dislocated none can deny.

That international payments are, in the final analysis, made in goods or services, is one of the few untoppled axioms of economics.

That the mal-distribution of the world's gold supply makes international transfers difficult and in some cases impossible, may be admitted.

That further transfers of gold may operate detrimentally to the currencies of some of the debtor countries, is perhaps true.

But none of these things, nor all of them together, justify the demand that the United States shall assume Europe's war debts and transfer the burden of them to the American taxpayer.

Our debtors are by no means so resourceless as they would have us believe. GIVEN THE WILL TO PAY, THE WAY CAN ALWAYS BE FOUND.

There is a positive as well as defeatist approach to every problem. There is a smooth avenue to every creditor's co-operation if the debtor is on the level and intends to stand up to his obligations.

Our debtors have not approached us with any display of solicitude that the United States shall not suffer as the result of its confidence in their promises.

None of them has said:

"See here, you know how difficult our position is. The approaching payment will strain our available resources. We need a little time," or,

"We are in a position to do SO much, but NO MORE and what we CAN we will cheerfully apply upon what we owe. As soon as times improve we will resume the performance of our engagements."

* * *

Talk of Obscure "Equities"

This has not been their mode of approach. Their talk is ever about "equities," obscure and thus far difficult of statement, which may have been in their hearts but were not upon their lips when the debts were contracted.

They were not in the lender's contemplation. They were not mentioned in the demand notes given by the debtors, nor in the bonds, subsequently given in replacement of the notes.

They did not figure in the refunding agreements, which affirmed, many years after the advances were made, the original undertakings to repay, given by the borrowers.

But we are met by the retort that whatever the facts may be about the contraction of the debts, however regrettable that the American taxpayer, having parted with his money to make the loans, should now be obliged to part with his money a second time in order to repay them, the fact remains that the debtors cannot pay them—so what can be done about it?

Of course, the matter cannot end there, agreeable as such a result would doubtless be in many quarters. The rights of the United States as a creditor, as well as the obligations of the debtor nations, cannot be quite so easily dissolved.

* * *

No Place for Repudiation

THERE IS NO PLACE IN THE MODERN WORLD FOR THE PRINCIPLE OF REPUDIATION. Good faith is still the foundation upon which mutually trustful relations between enlightened powers must rest.

The war debts are one of the world's problems which must be solved. Neither repudiation nor remission is a solution. Either would be a desertion, an abandonment of the problem. World recovery will not be brought about by running away from problems. They must be faced with courage and confidence. Building, not wrecking, is the technique of recovery.

It is an inviting task which the war debts present—a task for good faith and good will. These are stronger forces than evasion and default.

There are not only economists of the DEFEATIST school. There are also economists and financiers who are CONSTRUCTIVE. Bernard Baruch, who served the United States so superbly as chairman of the War Industries Board, is such a man.

* * *

Says Payment Can Be Made

With his experienced resourcefulness and his habit of constructive approach to a complicated problem, he does not look upon the claims of the United States as impossible to be met.

"Payment can be made," says he, "in foreign exchange or non-perishable commodities which are not produced by American farmers."

As a contribution to the restoration of international prosperity, he maintains that the United States could agree to store commodities such as tin, jute, manganese, chrome and possibly even silver, for five years.

"I am opposed to cancellation," says Mr. Baruch, "in the first place, our government could only cancel its assets, i. e. what the allies owe us—but could not cancel its liabilities, which are owned by its own Liberty Bond holders.

"To cancel, in order indirectly to relieve Germany of further costs of the war, would be to take $300,000,000 a year from the backs of Germany's industries and put it on ourselves, thus saddling us with a handicap of $600,000,000 a year on our industries, as compared with German industries, in the international struggle for trade.

"Some of the debtor nations say they can only pay in goods and services. Well, that is not an insuperable obstacle. Our government might accept cash, or partly commodities, or partly foreign exchange."

Concluding, he observed that:

"Our foreign debts have a real value, one that we should not pass up too lightly. The $270,000,000 which the associated powers owe the United States for the next fiscal year is a small item compared with the whole of international payments, and it has been grossly exaggerated for propaganda purposes."

These are the words of a distinguished financier and practical economist. He speaks with a deeper insight into the problem than I can claim.

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

Men, in a crowd of their friends, are likely to chide the one who states he must return home early, especially when a night out has been planned.

And, if he insists that he must return in normal condition, there will always be someone who will suggest that he is "not the boss at home."

"My wife expects me when she sees me and she knows better than to make a fuss about it if I should be a few sheets over," he states.

This statement is intended to show that he is in no way controlled by his wife, but is a real big he-man, speaking.

But suppose his wife were to make the same stipulation?

There would be the usual argument that it is different with a woman and that she cannot remain out late at night without incurring slanderous reports.

Despite what husbands say, the women spend many a lonesome hour at home while their life companions are out enjoying their favorite amusement.

Fifty-fifty is a pretty good rule.

But there are few men who are willing to abide by it.
